Court Decision Spurs Move To Halt Sunday Sale Of Liquor

State Will Start Drive On Sunday Sales Of Liquor

Liquor Control Board To Embark On Enforcement Campaign

COURT DECISION FORTIFIES PROGRAM

Club Sales Of Liquor On Sundays To Be Halted, Is Order

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 23.—Fortified by a decision from the state superior court, the state liquor control board is prepared to embark on a vigorous campaign against chartered clubs that sell liquor on Sunday, Clyde E. Smith, head of the liquor board's enforcement division, declared today.

"Any club found selling liquor on Sunday contrary to the decision will be prosecuted to the limit of the law,' he said.

The superior court held Sunday liquor sales illegal in a decision handed down yesterday in a case involving a Philadelphia club.

Smith said that during 1934, a total of 2429 clubs were licensed by the board, all of which were not making Sunday sales. The enforcement chief said the "one man" clubs constitute the board's greatest problem. He explained:

"The one-man club has been our biggest problem all along. We are being more stringent on 1935 applications, giving them closer scrutiny as to the general set-up of the establishments.

To Probe One Man Clubs

"Those that look like one-man clubs will be further investigated and denied licenses if the evidence so warrants."

Smith revealed that the liquor board is now confronted with another troublesome question:

Clubs Selling Liquor On Sunday Facing License Revocation

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23—Chartered clubs which sell liquor on Sundays are violating the laws of Pennsylvania and face revocation of their licenses.

In an opinion written by Judge William M. Parker, the state superior court issued that dictum here late yesterday.

Ruling Is Made

The ruling was handed down in the case of an appeal from the action of Judge James Gay Gordon, Jr., in quarter sessions court, revoking the liquor license of the West Philadelphia Fidelio Mannerchor for selling liquor on Sundays.

Judge Parker ruled specifically on that portion of the state liquor control act, which asserts:

"Liquor may be sold by licenses, other than club, only after 8 o'clock a. m. of any weekday, and until 2 o'clock a. m. of the following week day, and shall not be sold on Sunday or any day on which a general, municipal, special or primary election is being held."

The appelate court's opinion declares that phrase "other than clubs" applies only to the week-day sale of liquor.

Appeal Plans In Vanderbilt Case Progress

Attorneys For Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt Will Take Case To Highest Tribunal

NEW SENSATIONAL CHARGES HEARD

Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney Offered $50,000 Annually For Custody Of Child

(International News Service)

NEW YORK Nov. 23—Spurred by anguish of an embittered mother, attorneys for Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt today were taking formal steps to appeal the court ruling whereby the young society widow's daughter became a "ward of the state" in custody of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

Concurring fully in the mother's statement describing supreme court justice Carew's decision as "fantastic and extraordinary," Nathan Burkan, counsel to Mrs. Vanderbilt, declared:

"This case is going right up to the highest courts. There is no shade nor shadow of a doubt about that. The appeal papers are being drawn up this minute."

Moreover, the attorney indicated action of the court in making little Gloria Vanderbilt a ward of the state and refusing to settle the habeas corpus issue would be no obstacle in taking the case to an appeal court.

Sensational Charges

In the thick of all the confusion which followed the amazing decision he said, he planned a "surprise move," which would force justice Carew to either sustain or deny Mrs. Vanderbilt's writ and thus speed the cast to the higher tribunals. And if Mrs. Vanderbilt's money runs out, he announced, he will bear the cost of the proceedings himself.

Announcement of the appeal plans followed the sensational charge of Mrs. Vanderbilt that in September of 1933 Mrs. Whitney offered her an annual life pension of $50,000 if she would relinquish all claims to her daughter.

Cascade Street To Be Improved

Project Improved And Work To Be Started Next Week

RELIEF ROLL MEN ARE GIVEN WORK

By the middle of next week every man who was on relief before November 1, in the City of New Castle will be at work on an RWD project, according to George Mudehart, RWD director, today. The Cascade street project has been approved, men are being called and the work will start on Tuesday morning, November 27.

This can not be taken to mean that every unemployed man will be at work, it applies to those who were on relief before November 1. There are still some unemployed who have not applied for relief but the fact that all relief cases will be at work is in itself a splendid thing. In addition, all relief cases in Shenango township will be at work as a road job for this township has been approved.

To Employ 700

The Cascade street job will employ about 700 men. The plan is to improve the street from East Washington street to Croton avenue, putting a stone base on it. Eventually it is hoped the city will provide a top material for the stone and make a road similar to the Pinchot roads out of it.

The improvement will give New Castle a connecting street from the east end of the city to the Harlansburg road. Motorists from east of the city who are headed towards Harlansburg or beyond can save time and mileage by using it and local people desiring to get from

WILL ROGERS Says:

(Special To The News)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Nov. 23.—"Mexico, Mo.—Tom Bass, well-known Negro horseman, aged 75, died here today."

Don't mean much to you, does it? You have all seen society folks perform on a beautiful three or five-gaited saddle horse, and said, "My, what skill and patience they must have had to train that animal." Well, all they did was ride him in. All Tom Bass did was to train him.

For over 50 years America's premier trainer, he trained thousands that others were applauded on. A remarkable man, a remarkable character. Many Negroes have been great horsemen; every big ranch has its traditional stories of what its famous Negro rider used to do.

If old St. Peter is as wise as we give him credit for being, Tom, he will let you go in horseback and give those folks up there a great show, and you get the blue ribbon yourself.

Yours,

Will Rogers

Fear Girl Shot By Some Hunter

Searchers Comb Ashtabula County In Effort To Find Little Girl

(International News Service)

CONNEAUT, O., Nov. 23.—Fearful that the child may have been shot accidentally by some hunter, a search party of 200 combed the eastern section of Ashtabula county today seeking to locate four-year-old Rita Leap of Richmond township, missing since yesterday afternoon.

Authorities expressed belief the girl wandered into the dense wood and became lost. Her dog, which was with her when she disappeared, returned home last night but the child did not appear.

Search parties carrying lanterns and torches were formed last night after an alarm was received by the sheriff's department of the child's failure to return home, but the all-night search was fruitless.

The surrounding territory near where the girl resides is a popular hunting ground, giving rise today to the openly-expressed fear that the child may have been shot by some hunter in the dense underbrush and her body hidden.

Dr. Luther A. Harr, of Philadelphia, professor of finance at the University of Pennsylvania, was chosen secretary of banking.

Cascade Street To Be Improved

Project Improved And Work To Be Started Next Week

RELIEF ROLL MEN ARE GIVEN WORK

By the middle of next week every man who was on relief before November 1, in the City of New Castle will be at work on an RWD project, according to George Mudehart, RWD director, today. The Cascade street project has been approved, men are being called and the work will start on Tuesday morning, November 27.

This can not be taken to mean that every unemployed man will be at work, it applies to those who were on relief before November 1. There are still some unemployed who have not applied for relief but the fact that all relief cases will be at work is in itself a splendid thing. In addition, all relief cases in Shenango township will be at work as a road job for this township has been approved.

To Employ 700

The Cascade street job will employ about 700 men. The plan is to improve the street from East Washington street to Croton avenue, putting a stone base on it. Eventually it is hoped the city will provide a top material for the stone and make a road similar to the Pinchot roads out of it.

For over 50 years America's premier trainer, he trained thousands that others were applauded on. A remarkable man, a remarkable character. Many Negroes have been great horsemen; every big ranch has its traditional stories of what its famous Negro rider used to do.

Fear Girl Shot By Some Hunter

Searchers Comb Ashtabula County In Effort To Find Little Girl

(International News Service)

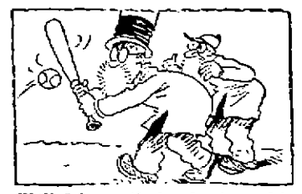

CONNEAUT, O., Nov. 23.—Fearful that the child may have been shot accidentally by some hunter, a search party of 200 combed the eastern section of Ashtabula county today seeking to locate four-year-old Rita Lemp of Richmond township, missing since yesterday afternoon.

Authorities expressed belief the girl wandered into the dense wood and became lost. Her dog, which was with her when she disappeared, returned home last night but the child did not appear.

Search parties carrying lanterns and torches were formed last night after an alarm was received by the sheriff's department of the child's failure to return home, but the all-night search was fruitless.

The surrounding territory near where the girl resides is a popular hunting ground, giving rise today to the openly-expressed fear that the child may have been shot by some hunter in the dense underbrush and her body hidden.

Court Decision Spurs Move To Halt Sunday Sale Of Liquor

State Will Start Drive On Sunday Sales Of Liquor

Liquor Control Board To Embark On Enforcement Campaign

COURT DECISION FORTIFIES PROGRAM

Club Sales Of Liquor On Sundays To Be Halted, Is Order

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 23—Fortified by a decision from the state superior court, the state liquor control board is prepared to embark on a vigorous campaign against chartered clubs that sell liquor on Sunday, Clyde E. Smith, head of the liquor board's enforcement division, declared today.

"Any club found selling liquor on Sunday contrary to the decision will be prosecuted to the limit of the law,' he said.

The superior court held Sunday liquor sales illegal in a decision handed down yesterday in a case involving a Philadelphia club.

Smith said that during 1934, a total of 2429 clubs were licensed by the board, all of which were not making Sunday sales. The enforcement chief said the "one man" clubs constitute the board's greatest problem. He explained:

"The one-man club has been our biggest problem all along. We are being more stringent on 1935 applications, giving them closer scrutiny as to the general set-up of the establishments.

To Probe One Man Clubs

"Those that look like one-man clubs will be further investigated and denied licenses if the evidence so warrants."

Smith revealed that the liquor board is now confronted with another troublesome question:

"Can a club open at 8 o'clock Monday morning and make contin-

Clubs Selling Liquor On Sunday Facing License Revocation

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23—Chartered clubs which sell liquor on Sundays are violating the laws of Pennsylvania and face revocation of their licenses.

In an opinion written by Judge William M. Parker, the state superior court issued that dictum here late yesterday.

Ruling Is Made

The ruling was handed down in the case of an appeal from the action of Judge James Gay Gordon, Jr., in quarter sessions court, revoking the liquor license of the West Philadelphia Fidelio Mannerchor for selling liquor on Sundays.

Judge Parker ruled specifically on that portion of the state liquor control act, which asserts:

"Liquor may be sold by licenses, other than club, only after 8 o'clock a. m. of any weekday, and until 2 o'clock a. m. of the following week day, and shall not be sold on Sunday or any day on which a general, municipal, special or primary election is being held."

The appelate court's opinion declares that phrase "other than clubs" applies only to the week-day sale of liquor.

Appeal Plans In Vanderbilt Case Progress

Attorneys For Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt Will Take Case To Highest Tribunal

NEW SENSATIONAL CHARGES HEARD

Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney Offered $50,000 Annually For Custody Of Child

(International News Service)

NEW YORK Nov. 23—Spurred by anguish of an embittered mother, attorneys for Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt today were taking formal steps to appeal the court ruling whereby the young society widow's daughter became a "ward of the state" in custody of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

Concurring fully in the mother's statement describing supreme court justice Carew's decision as "fantastic and extraordinary," Nathan Burkan, counsel to Mrs. Vanderbilt, declared:

"This case is going right up to the highest courts. There is no shade nor shadow of a doubt about that. The appeal papers are being drawn up this minute."

Moreover, the attorney indicated action of the court in making little Gloria Vanderbilt a ward of the state and refusing to settle the habeas corpus issue would be no obstacle in taking the case to an appeal court.

Sensational Charges

In the thick of all the confusion which followed the amazing decision he said, he planned a "surprise move," which would force justice Carew to either sustain or deny Mrs. Vanderbilt's writ and thus speed the cast to the higher tribunals. And if Mrs. Vanderbilt's money runs out, he announced, he will bear the cost of the proceedings himself.

Announcement of the appeal plans followed the sensational charge of Mrs. Vanderbilt that in September of 1933 Mrs. Whitney offered her an annual life pension of $50,000 if she would relinquish all claims to her daughter.

Vinson's charge of incompetence of management of the extensive farm rehabilitation program set up by federal Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins is the first complaint of this nature among many made by returning members of congress.

Under the farm rehabilitation program, unemployed have been provided with small tracts of land, a house, a mule or horse and some implements so that they can produce their own food.

SELL 60,000 JAPANESE GIRLS INTO SLAVERY

Starvation Forces Action By Parents

Several Million Peasants In Japan Are Confronted By Starvation

GOVERNMENT FAILS TO ACT ON RELIEF

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

TOKIO, Nov. 23.—Nearly 60,000 girls, many of them not more than ten years old, have been sold into slavery by their starving parents, a survey of the famine-stricken six northern prefectures today showed.

Seven million peasants face death this winter, due to an unprecedented succession of rice crop failures. Relief agencies are bringing pressure to bear on the government to aid the destitute, primitive farmers to save them from the shameful practice of bartering their daughters to unchecked "Yoshiwara" brokers.

Sell Children

Sixty yen—$18—is said to be the common price with which agents tempt the penniless peasants to sell their children.

Every day hundreds of farin girls, depressed, hungry, spiritless, are sold, taken away, and thrown into the barren rooms of government licensed resorts.

Welfare workers are up against an almost impossible task in trying to force the slave traders to give up the girls, while their parents and brothers are subsisting on grass, tree bark, locusts, and other insects.

Specific figures furnished from reliable philanthropic sources showed that 59,173 girls have been sold in the last nine months. They have been consigned to the "Yoshiwara" service, sent as maids to questionable cafes, or forced into drudgery in factories where they hardly get a living wage.

Government officials profess inability to help the stricken peasants yet indignant welfare workers pointed out that the cabinet today approved a record army-navy budget of a billion yen.

In the meantime, with the peasants facing an early winter when snow will cut off even their supply of food grass, yellow slave agents were literally scouring the countryside.

STATE WILL START DRIVE ON SUNDAY SALES OF LIQUOR

uous sales to 12 o'clock Saturday night without closing?"

"I won't make a move of any kind on this question until we know what position we are in," Smith explained, stating he was awaiting a ruling from the board's legal department.

This question hinges on the same section of the state liquor control law in which Sunday sales were involved and which reads:

"Liquor may be sold by licensees other than clubs, only after 8 o'clock a. m. of any weekday and until 12 o'clock a. m. of the following weekday, and shall not be sold on Sunday or any day on which a general, municipal, special or primary election is held."

The superior court held this barred Sunday sales but it has not been determined whether this section makes it mandatory for clubs to close each night at 2 a. m. and then reopen the following morning at 8 o'clock. Many clubs, according to reports, remain open all night.

RUSSIA JOINS WITH FRANCE, PARIS REPORTS

carrying out the stipulations of the treaty of Versailles.

Stressing that a weak France would be an "invitation to war," Deputy Leon Fabry told the chamber:

"If you want a strong army you must make it the nation's darling."

Sees Increased Military Service

Hinting at increased military service in the future, Fabry said there were not enough specialists to man fortifications and few trained non-commissioned officers in the French army.

"In a few months, Germany has caught up with us in armaments," he said. "Some say they are ahead of us."

Denial Is Made by France

Paris, Nov. 23.—Followed by an immediate government denial, Leon Archimbaud, budget reapporteur for the ministry of war, stated in the Chamber of Deputies today that Soviet Russia had offered her army to France in the event of war with Germany.

Asked concerning this statement and Archimbaud's further declaration that France and Russia had concluded an entente, a spokesman for the foreign office told International News Service:

"That is a thing that can be denied immediately."

Archimbaud is one of the five members of the council of national defense and has access to complete details of the military budget.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Announcement of a military entente between France and Soviet Russia created a sensation in London today.

Streamer heads in the afternoon newspapers blazoned the news to the public.

"Russia's war promise to France," read the Evening News headline. "Russia marches with France," said the Standard.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—A military entente between France and Soviet Russia would give France access to almost 20,000,000 men in the event of war.

France's standing army is approximately 600,000 men and her trained reserves number 6,000,000. Russia's army is over 800,000 and her reserves are in excess of 15,000,000.

Germany has a standing army of 100,000 and reserves estimated at 1,000,000. Charges have recently been made here, however, that Germany can put more than 5,000,000 men in the field.

Vanderbilt's assertion that the intermediary in this transaction was her own mother, Mrs. Gloria Kilpatrick Morgan. Shocked by this proposal, Mrs. Vanderbilt said she replied:

"But, mother, Gloria is not for sale."

To which Mrs. Morgan is said to have replied:

"Oh, don't use such big phrases."

A curious feature of the proposal, Mrs. Vanderbilt said, was that a lawyer, Thomas B. Gilchrist, coguarding of Gloria's property, attended the interview. When mother and daughter began disputing, Mrs. Vanderbilt declared, Gilchrist said: "If you are going to fight this way, I can't act as your lawyer."

Thereafter, the young widow said, bitterly, Mrs. Whitney began a determined campaign to undermine her in the affections of the child.

Perplexing Decision

As Justice Carew's perplexing decision was subjected to further examination by legal experts, the full impact of its provisions became more apparent and more startling.

On its surface, the court order is so rigid that if the child's mother were to take her on a ferry ride to New Jersey she would be theoretically liable to a charge of kidnaping.

Loopholes For Hauptmann Are Being Scanned

Defense Attorneys Hope To Break Down Case Drawn Up By State Of New Jersey

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—With attorneys for Richard Hauptmann prepared to attack his indictment Tuesday, it was learned today on high authority that the state of New Jersey, doubtful of a first-degree murder verdict, was planning to frame its case to make a "compromise verdict" possible.

When the panel for the trial jury is drawn at Flemington, N. J., Tuesday, Hauptmann's attorneys are expected to ask dismissal of the indictment on the ground that it is not sufficiently specific.

Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel, said he would introduce a number of motions expected seriously to harass the prosecution.

It was certain, however, that Reilly and Lloyd Fisher, his junior, would demand that the state furnish a bill of particulars to show whether it accused Hauptmann of murdering the Lindbergh baby in its cradle, of accidentally killing it or of being an accomplice in its murder and kidnaping. Conviction on any of these counts would carry the death penalty.

Members of the national earthenware code authority are urging congressmen to change the law which stipulates that legal liquor must be sold in glass containers.

Code authority members urge that provisions of the law be extended so that liquor also may be "bottled" in earthenware containers. They point out that thousands of jobs would be created in pottery factories in the state.

SELL 60,000 JAPANESE GIRLS INTO SLAVERY

Starvation Forces Action By Parents

Several Million Peasants In Japan Are Confronted By Starvation

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

TOKIO, Nov. 23.—Nearly 60,000 girls, many of them not more than ten years old, have been sold into slavery by their starving parents, a survey of the famine-stricken six northern prefectures today showed.

Seven million peasants face death this winter, due to an unprecedented succession of rice crop failures. Relief agencies are bringing pressure to bear on the government to aid the destitute, primitive farmers to save them from the shameful practice of bartering their daughters to unchecked "Yoshiwara" brokers.

Sell Children

Sixty yen—$18—is said to be the common price with which agents tempt the penniless peasants to sell their children.

Every day hundreds of farm girls, depressed, hungry, spiritless, are sold, taken away, and thrown into the barren rooms of government licensed resorts.

Welfare workers are up against an almost impossible task in trying to force the slave traders to give up the girls, while their parents and brothers are subsisting on grass, tree bark, locusts, and other insects.

Specific figures furnished from reliable philanthropic sources showed that 59,173 girls have been sold in the last nine months. They have been consigned to the "Yoshiwara" service, sent as maids to questionable cafes, or forced into drudgery in factories where they hardly get a living wage.

Government officials profess inability to help the stricken peasants yet indignant welfare workers pointed out that the cabinet today approved a record army-navy budget of a billion yen.

In the meantime, with the peasants facing an early winter when snow will cut off even their supply of food grass, yellow slave agents were literally scouring the countryside.

Little Brown Jug Ready For Comeback

(International News Service)

ZANESVILLE, O. — The little brown jug will return to the shelves of the nation's liquor stores if a drive now underway here attains its goal.

Members of the national earthenware code authority are urging congressmen to change the law which stipulates that legal liquor must be sold in glass containers.

Code authority members urge that provisions of the law be extended so that liquor also may be "bottled" in earthenware containers. They point out that thousands of jobs would be created in pottery factories in the state.

Czechoslovakia's new heavy tax on bus fares, followed by an increase in rates, has caused a marked increase in the use of bicycles.

SELL 60,000 JAPANESE GIRLS INTO SLAVERY

Starvation Forces Action By Parents

Several Million Peasants In Japan Are Confronted By Starvation

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

TOKIO, Nov. 23.—Nearly 60,000 girls, many of them not more than ten years old, have been sold into slavery by their starving parents, a survey of the famine-stricken six northern prefectures today showed.

Seven million peasants face death this winter, due to an unprecedented succession of rice crop failures. Relief agencies are bringing pressure to bear on the government to aid the destitute, primitive farmers to save them from the shameful practice of bartering their daughters to unchecked "Yoshiwara" brokers.

Sell Children

Sixty yen—$18—is said to be the common price with which agents tempt the penniless peasants to sell their children.

Every day hundreds of farm girls, depressed, hungry, spiritless, are sold, taken away, and thrown into the barren rooms of government licensed resorts.

Welfare workers are up against an almost impossible task in trying to force the slave traders to give up the girls, while their parents and brothers are subsisting on grass, tree bark, locusts, and other insects.

Specific figures furnished from reliable philanthropic sources showed that 59,173 girls have been sold in the last nine months. They have been consigned to the "Yoshiwara" service, sent as maids to questionable cafes, or forced into drudgery in factories where they hardly get a living wage.

Government officials profess inability to help the stricken peasants yet indignant welfare workers pointed out that the cabinet today approved a record army-navy budget of a billion yen.

In the meantime, with the peasants facing an early winter when snow will cut off even their supply of food grass, yellow slave agents were literally scouring the countryside.

STATE WILL START DRIVE ON SUNDAY SALES OF LIQUOR

uous sales to 12 o'clock Saturday night without closing?"

"I won't make a move of any kind on this question until we know what position we are in," Smith explained, stating he was awaiting a ruling from the board's legal department.

This question hinges on the same section of the state liquor control law in which Sunday sales were involved and which reads:

"Liquor may be sold by licensees other than clubs, only after 8 o'clock a. m. of any weekday and until 12 o'clock a. m. of the following weekday, and shall not be sold on Sunday or any day on which a general, municipal, special or primary election is held."

The superior court held this barred Sunday sales but it has not been determined whether this section makes it mandatory for clubs to close each night at 2 a. m. and then reopen the following morning at 8 o'clock. Many clubs, according to reports, remain open all night.

There is an amusing instance of the invention of a new word; a printer produced the words "a noticeable fact in this MS," as "a noticeable fact in thisms."

RUSSIA JOINS WITH FRANCE, PARIS REPORTS

carrying out the stipulations of the treaty of Versailles.

Stressing that a weak France would be an "invitation to war," Deputy Leon Fabry told the chamber:

"If you want a strong army you must make it the nation's darling."

Sees Increased Military Service

Hinting at increased military service in the future, Fabry said there were not enough specialists to man fortifications and few trained non-commissioned officers in the French army.

"In a few months, Germany has caught up with us in armaments," he said. "Some say they are ahead of us."

Denial Is Made by France

Paris, Nov. 23.—Followed by an immediate government denial, Leon Archimbaud, budget reapporteur for the ministry of war, stated in the Chamber of Deputies today that Soviet Russia had offered her army to France in the event of war with Germany.

Asked concerning this statement and Archimbaud's further declaration that France and Russia had concluded an entente, a spokesman for the foreign office told International News Service:

"That is a thing that can be denied immediately."

Archimbaud is one of the five members of the council of national defense and has access to complete details of the military budget.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Announcement of a military entente between France and Soviet Russia created a sensation in London today.

Streamer heads in the afternoon newspapers blazoned the news to the public.

"Russia's war promise to France," read the Evening News headline. "Russia marches with France," said the Standard.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—A military entente between France and Soviet Russia would give France access to almost 20,000,000 men in the event of war.

France's standing army is approximately 600,000 men and her trained reserves number 6,000,000. Russia's army is over 800,000 and her reserves are in excess of 15,000,000.

Germany has a standing army of 100,000 and reserves estimated at 1,000,000. Charges have recently been made here, however, that Germany can put more than 5,000,000 men in the field.

APPEAL PLANS IN VANDERBILT CASE PROGRESS

Vanderbilt's assertion that the intermediary in this transaction was her own mother, Mrs. Gloria Kilpatrick Morgan. Shocked by this proposal, Mrs. Vanderbilt said she replied:

"But, mother, Gloria is not for sale."

To which Mrs. Morgan is said to have replied:

"Oh, don't use such big phrases."

A curious feature of the proposal, Mrs. Vanderbilt said, was that a lawyer, Thomas B. Gilchrist, coguarding of Gloria's property, attended the interview. When mother and daughter began disputing, Mrs. Vanderbilt declared, Gilchrist said:

"If you are going to fight this way, I can't act as your lawyer."

Thereafter, the young widow said, bitterly, Mrs. Whitney began a determined campaign to undermine her in the affections of the child.

Perplexing Decision

As Justice Carew's perplexing decision was subjected to further examination by legal experts, the full impact of its provisions became more apparent and more startling.

On its surface, the court order is so rigid that if the child's mother were to take her on a ferry ride to New Jersey she would be theoretically liable to a charge of kidnaping.

Loopholes For Hauptmann Are Being Scanned

Defense Attorneys Hope To Break Down Case Drawn Up By State Of New Jersey

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—With attorneys for Richard Hauptmann prepared to attack his indictment Tuesday, it was learned today on high authority that the state of New Jersey, doubtful of a first-degree murder verdict, was planning to frame its case to make a "compromise verdict" possible.

When the panel for the trial jury is drawn at Flemington, N. J., Tuesday, Hauptmann's attorneys are expected to ask dismissal of the indictment on the ground that it is not sufficiently specific.

Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel, said he would introduce a number of motions expected seriously to harass the prosecution.

It was certain, however, that Reilly and Lloyd Fisher, his junior, would demand that the state furnish a bill of particulars to show whether it accused Hauptmann of murdering the Lindbergh baby in its cradle, of accidentally killing it or of being an accomplice in its murder and kidnaping. Conviction on any of these counts would carry the death penalty.

A GASOLINE that achieves fast starting at the expense of other qualities is poor economy. Tydol, the gasoline that lubricates, not only offers the motorist fast starting but the same power and mileage it has always given, plus the extra lubrication built into this motor fuel which means protection... This lubrication prevents metal grinding against metal before your motor is warm... prevents sticky valves and aids fast starting. Use Tydol for economy and friction-free fast starting. POLICEMEN OR POLITICIANS?

IT IS to be hoped that the movement to preserve and guard Pennsylvania state police leadership from political domination will gain momentum. Perhaps such a movement is not necessary. Certainly if Governor-Elect George H. Earle is acquainted with the work of the state police he will not care to lower its efficiency by changing its executive officers.

The Pennsylvania state police force is respected over the entire North American continent. The Canadian Royal Mounted, the Texas Rangers with their tradition and their efficiency are not superior to our own state police and it is extremely doubtful if these organizations can compare with the efficiency of the Pennsylvania men.

In Major Lynn C. Adams and Major C. M. Wilhelm the state has two executives who have brought the state police to the high pinnacle of efficiency they now enjoy. Major Adams, the superintendent, is a stern disciplinarian, a leader of men, and a thorough going peace officer, a credit to this state. His deputy Major Wilhelm is likewise a man of ability and courage. To remove them would be to lower the standards of the organization and impair the morale of the men.

Governor-Elect Earle is beyond partisan frontiers now. He soon will be the chief executive of a state of nearly ten million people and all of them, regardless of party, are hoping that the new administration will be an effective one.

There will be changes in some state offices of course. That is to be expected. "To the victor belong the spoils," but where the safety of the people is at stake the matter of spoils should be secondary. To change the executive leadership of the state police would have but one effect and that would be to make politicians of policemen.

We have enough politicians, and too few officers of the high character of the Pennsylvania state police.

TRAINED OFFICIALS

Many European countries offer profitable careers to governmental posts for young men who prepare themselves in definite departments of the government and qualify to undertake the work. They welcome men who are fitted by this training in the diplomatic corps, administrative posts and departmental offices.

The system has, in most instances, tended to build up a set of government employees with an intimate knowledge of the affairs of which they are in charge and competent to discharge their work with real ability. Men are urged to make a career of public service, are amply compensated and, in turn, perform invaluable labors for their country. Not only in the diplomatic service, but in executive positions of various government departments, has the method worked to splendid advantage.

There is no such system in the United States. The calling to government service is not strong enough—does not offer sufficient compensation—to induce young men to make it a life work. There is little opportunity for training and not always the certainty of employment. Most young Americans interested in civil service study law and employ it as a profession on which they can depend for a living. Then they seek to enter politics through election to congress, rather than in the departmental offices of the government.

As a result our departments are filled with business executives not always well qualified for the positions they hold. They lack training and are often employed for political considerations. Positions of administrative responsibility, however, have usually been filled by able executives, but competent assistants have been lacking.

Harvard University has decided to enlarge its school of business administration to include courses for students preparing for public service. This policy, if followed by other universities, should provide trained government employees as well as give business men a more intimate knowledge of the affairs of government. It should encourage young men to make governmental service their life's work and thus correct the deficiency now existing. America can do well to follow the European custom in this respect.

A competent group of experts in the various phases of federal business will provide a much more dependable backbone of administration than the visionaries and political refugees placed in Washington by political managers. In time we may have a brain trust really worth of that name.

AN AMERICAN PLAN FOR ARMS CONTROL

Though any general measure of disarmament may be difficult in existing circumstances, there is no good reason why international control of the traffic in arms and munitions should not be undertaken in a practical way. Investigation by a senate committee has revealed abuses that seriously endanger world peace. Discussion of the question will at least keep life for the moment in the Geneva conference, which was dying of inanition, and that in itself is a gain. This is no time for statesmen to throw up their hands in despair and let the world drift into another war. If the rearmament of Germany can not be checked, its purpose may at least be rendered futile by a solid opposing front.

The text of the treaty offered by Mr. Davis has been carefully drafted; it seems to leave no loopholes for misunderstanding. It has two main objects. One is the establishment of a permanent Disarmament Commission, financed by the League of Nations and responsible to it and the high contracting parties, of which the United States, of course, would be one. Non-membership in the league would not conceivably preclude the United States' co-operation.

The second object of the plan is of the more immediate importance. It deals with the arms traffic, which has plainly become a menace in its unchecked development. Embargoes in special cases—as in that of Bolivia and Paraguay—are plainly insufficient. Unless they are proclaimed by all the arms-manufacturing powers, they will be evaded. A system of international licensing, with adequate supervision, and with all the categories of arms and munitions to which it shall apply, is the only real remedy for a condition that is becoming intolerable.

Of course, the exact value of this rather radical proposal can not be determined without serious study. It has been received with different degrees of approval, disapproval or doubt. It is clear that the American proposal has rather taken the breath from most of the powers. Nothing else could have been expected.

None the less, the subject is of too much importance to the world to be ignored. The lead given by the United States points the right way to a decision.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

WHO WAS DEGRADED?

I was there. I saw it happen. And because I stood there, curious and staring on that bright summer day, and was a part of it, one part of me is forever humiliated.

It happened long ago. In a war. In France. In a field on a little town, near Verdun. In the French army...A young officer was being "degraded", stripped of his rank in the presence of the regiment. I don't know why. But some one told me that he had been afraid. He had run when he should have stood desperately and fought until he died. Or he had wounded himself instead of waiting to be wounded...And a court of officers had sat solemnly and heard the testimony and had sentenced him to a "public degradation", dismissal from the army, and imprisonment in some military fortess. As an example to all other officers, as a warning to them not to be human, not to do as he had done, not to have any dangerous lucid intervals in the pompous madness of warfare.

Seems to me I have written of this before. Seems to me I shall write of it again, and that again and again that solemn, pathetic spectacle will accusingly come back to me.

He was such a tiny figure standing there on the hill-slope, with his black hair shining in the sunshine and his face so pale. And all the other figures facing him were so tiny, too, so doll-like, so much like the wooden soldiers of the dance. ...And one of them walked stiffly up to him and stripped his insignia from his uniform and spoke a few dreadful words to him and then they all went away from there.

He was supposed, I remember, to be "degraded" and perhaps he did feel so. I couldn't know about that. I had never seen him before, nor did I ever see him again...But even then watching that ceremony from a distance, it seemed to me that to him whatever was happening meant less than nothing—and that he degradation lay dreadfully upon the rest of us. Upon the regiment, upon the officers who performed that sentence upon him, upon us who watched so curiously from afar.

No one ever escapes unsoiled from such events. We smirch the other fellow and go forever smirched. We humiliate him and the humiliation is ours. We degrade him and become unalterably and forever a part of his poor degradation.

ARE YOU MASTER OF YOURSELF?

You may be disguested with yourself because of the little weaknesses you know you possess.

But there are few who are not weak in one way or another.

Even those of the highest standing have their deficiencies.

They probably control themselves better than you do—or perhaps they don't.

No person is perfect, and consequently certain impulses must be controlled in order to maintain a feeling of self respect and to retain a good reputation.

If you are not master of yourself, you have reason to be alarmed.

If your pride is not stronger than your desires you are on the way to social oblivion.

If you feel less and less able to control tendencies harmful to your best interests, you have a fight before you.

Start the struggle before resistance becomes too weak.

Even now you may be considering some action, the unfavorable outcome of which might be decidedly disastrous to you.

Are you such a weakling that you will let your evil impulses overpower you?

Your pulses might be quite all right at the time and place where they belong, but you must not let them run amuck.

GROWING UP

Miss Janet bounces in to me.
With: May she wave her hair?
And may her dresses older be
Than little girls should wear?
Any may she have a jeweled ring
And silver slippers gay?
Which sets me once more wondering
Where flies the time away.

But yesterday in little frocks
A babe she seemed to be,
Content to romp about in socks
Which never reached the knee.
But now she talks of silken hose
And wants a dozen pairs,
Of filmy stockings just like those
Her lovely mother wears.

And now she wants a leopard coat
With hat to match and I
Feel something lumpy in my throat,
But scarcely know just why.
I only know 'though we desire
To keep her young, somehow,
That love for feminine attire
Has burst upon us now.

What About This Dictatorship? A Mid-Westerner Gives His Opinion Where Alfalfa Bill Murray Stands

Central Press

Central Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND, Nov. 23.—"General Smedley D. Butler says he was offered three million dollars by a representative of wealthy men to overthrow the government and become Fascist dictator of the United States, eh?"

The question was posed by a man in Cleveland, where this writer happens to be today.

"Well," continued the Clevelander, a smile overspreading his face, "those wealthy men do hold us cheap, don't they? And what would they do with one Franklin D. Roosevelt? Many times three million dollars have been spent to defeat him and some of his policies.

"In fact, haven't we been hearing that F. D. R. himself is becoming a dictator? You know, all that pre-election talk? Well, if you want to learn what the people think of that, look at the last election figures.

"It seems to me as if the Fascists who approached the general were heading for a quick death. The only way a Fascist can reach anywhere in the United States now is to ride along on the same ticket with Franklin D. Roosevelt—and I suppose plenty of them are doing that very thing, 'cess to 'em.

"Oh, it sounds like a pipe dream."

WHAT SORT OF DICTATOR?

The writer pursued the topic:

"Do you believe that Roosevelt is a dictator?"

The Clevelander responded:

"Yes—every important man is a dictator. The mass of us must have leaders—or gods. That's a human frailty.

"But Roosevelt is a queer dictator. He listens to many voices. That's democracy. He is the dictator of democracy. And by-and-by people will say he is the preserver of democracy.

"I see where Donald Richberg—'assistant president'—said that all the strong measures taken have been to protect and propagate the liberties of the people, particularly against interests that have been exploiting the people.

"Well, sir, we people believe that. But we think, too, Mr. Roosevelt and his assistants haven't gone far enough. Yes, sir, we already have that kind of dictatorship—and, doggonit, we like it.

"So what kind of a chance has any other dictatorship got?"

IMPORTANT CORRECTION

This column pleads guilty to an error, which is corrected by N. G. Henthorne, editor of the Tulsa Daily World in these words:

"In your release of several days ago, in which you outlined the present position of several of President Roosevelt's opponents in the Chicago convention, you make the following statement: "Governor Alfalfa Bill Murray of Oklahoma retires to private life, a strong supporter of the president."

"This is not a correct statement, as Governor Murray has been a known critic of the president ever since the 1932 election. In the recent state campaign, Governor Murray's privately owned newspaper, the Blue Valley Farmer, openly opposed the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, E. W. Marland.

"It is the belief in Oklahoma that Murray is remaining quiet, hoping to find a break in the national setup that will permit him to again enter national politics."

FRIDAY NOV. 23

The World War Day-By-Day—Nov. 23, 1914—United States troops left Vera Cruz, after an expensive and futile ocupation extending seven months. Same day the Department of State had another international complication to deal with; a launch from the battleship Tennessee entering Smyrna harbor was stopped by a shot from a Turkish fort.

Washington's protests were a minor matter in Constantinople compared to the worries of the Sublime Porte over the war with the Allies and the Italian occupation of Albania.

A few days more than two years before, Albania had declared its independence from Turkey. That is, out of territory formerly Turkish a kingdom of Alabania had been created at the Conference of London at the close of the Balkan wars.

While desperate battles were going on in Flanders and Poland, and attention of the great powers was centered upon them, Italy committed an act which, in a time of peace, would have precipitated something like a European crisis. She landed marines at Valona on the eastern side of the Adriatic to "preserve order" and protect Italian interests supposedly threatened by the overthrow of the regime of the governument of German Prince William of Wied.

It was just such an opportunity and excuse as Italy had been looking for. In capable hands Valona commands the Adriatic, in Austrian hands it would have been a menace to Italy. All the good harbors on the eastern shore, and most of them were in Austro-Hungarian hands. Italy was determined that neither Austria nor Serbia should possess Valona.

After William's fall, a rebel force had concentrated at Dibra, 40 miles in the interior. Austria was supposed to have armed the rebels and supplied them with funds, in the hope that Italy would be prevented from gaining control of Albania while Austria was at war. It was the opposite that happened. The occupation was a final step toward severance of the alliance of Italy with Austria and Hungary which came with an actual declaration of war by Italy against Austria seven months after Valona was taken.

History Up-To-Date—400 Years Ago Today—The Church of England was born. Parliament passed the Act of Supremacy, severing connections of the English church with Rome and making the king supreme head of the church.

Henry VIII, first king to be "Defender of the Faith", forced establishment of the new church so he could get a divorce from Catherine of Aragon, his brother Arthur's widow, and marry his paramour, Anne Boleyn!

Nov. 23, 1616—Richard Hakluyt died at 64. To one of his works, the poet Drayton referred when he wrote:

The Voyages attend.
Industrious Hakluyt.
Whose reading shall inflame
Men to seek fame,
And much command
To after times thy wit.

Hakluyt's books did inflame men to seek fame, sent many a man voyaging to the new world. His Divers Voyages Touching the Discovery of America and Discourse Concerning Western Discoveries are the most important early histories of America. Their publication had the effect upon the men of England as the news of discovery of gold in California upon the men of New England. A priest, Hakluyt was the first to use globes in teaching geography, and he considered geography and chronology "the suntie and moone, the right eye and left eye of all history."

When he retired from the British army, rich and respected, his wife's unrelenting nagging drove him from home. He bought a sloop, collected a cut-throat crew of 70, became a common pirate. He was captured after a five-hour battle by a man-hunter who thought he was fighting Blackbeard, and hanged after a long-winded judge had advised him to lead a "higher left".

Nov. 23, 1860—The standard of musical pitch, settled in France the year before, was recognized by the Society of Arts, London, whence recognition of the standard spread to the United States and around the world.

Middle A is fixed at 870.9 simple or 435.45 double vibrations a second at a temperature of degrees F. But no tuning fork is absolutely exact in giving the diapason normal. The first fork made for the standard pitch gave A 439 double vibrations, C 522.

Temperature is important in pitch, few realize, because wind instruments and particularly the organ, rise almost proportionately to the increase in temperature of the surrounding air, because sound travels at an enhanced rate as the temperature rises.

The natural basis for standard musical pitch is, however, the male human voice. It is assumed that no disturbing alteration has taken place in it for more than 2,000 years!

MANY WANTED

A man walked into an office and asked for a job. Since there was no immediate vacancy, the Manager told him he would keep him in mind.

"If you want me at all," the applicant answered "you'd better put me on the payroll right now. There are several other companies after me."

"Yes," answered the Manager, "and who are they?"

"Well, there's the gas company, the water company, the electric company and several others."

POLICEMEN OR POLITICIANS?

IT IS to be hoped that the movement to preserve and guard Pennsylvania state police leadership from political domination will gain momentum. Perhaps such a movement is not necessary. Certainly if Governor-Elect George H. Earle is acquainted with the work of the state police he will not care to lower its efficiency by changing its executive officers.

The Pennsylvania state police force is respected over the entire North American continent. The Canadian Royal Mounted, the Texas Rangers with their tradition and their efficiency are not superior to our own state police and it is extremely doubtful if these organizations can compare with the efficiency of the Pennsylvania men.

In Major Lynn C. Adams and Major C. M. Wilhelm the state has two executives who have brought the state police to the high pinnacle of efficiency they now enjoy. Major Adams, the superintendent, is a stern disciplinarian, a leader of men, and a thorough going peace officer, a credit to this state. His deputy Major Wilhelm is likewise a man of ability and courage. To remove them would be to lower the standards of the organization and impair the morale of the men.

Governor-Elect Earle is beyond partisan frontiers now. He soon will be the chief executive of a state of nearly ten million people and all of them, regardless of party, are hoping that the new administration will be an effective one.

There will be changes in some state offices of course. That is to be expected. "To the victor belong the spoils," but where the safety of the people is at stake the matter of spoils should be secondary. To change the executive leadership of the state police would have but one effect and that would be to make politicians of policemen.

We have enough politicians, and too few officers of the high character of the Pennsylvania state police.

TRAINED OFFICIALS

Many European countries offer profitable careers to governmental posts for young men who prepare themselves in definite departments of the government and qualify to undertake the work. They welcome men who are fitted by this training in the diplomatic corps, administrative posts and departmental offices.

The system has, in most instances, tended to build up a set of government employees with an intimate knowledge of the affairs of which they are in charge and competent to discharge their work with real ability. Men are urged to make a career of public service, are amply compensated and, in turn, perform invaluable labors for their country. Not only in the diplomatic service, but in executive positions of various government departments, has the method worked to splendid advantage.

There is no such system in the United States. The calling to government service is not strong enough—does not offer sufficient compensation—to induce young men to make it a life work. There is little opportunity for training and not always the certainty of employment. Most young Americans interested in civil service study law and employ it as a profession on which they can depend for a living. Then they seek to enter politics through election to congress, rather than in the departmental offices of the government.

As a result our departments are filled with business executives not always well qualified for the positions they hold. They lack training and are often employed for political considerations. Positions of administrative responsibility, however, have usually been filled by able executives, but competent assistants have been lacking.

Harvard University has decided to enlarge its school of business administration to include courses for students preparing for public service. This policy, if followed by other universities, should provide trained government employees as well as give business men a more intimate knowledge of the affairs of government. It should encourage young men to make governmental service their life's work and thus correct the deficiency now existing. America can do well to follow the European custom in this respect.

A competent group of experts in the various phases of federal business will provide a much more dependable backbone of administration than the visionaries and political refugees placed in Washington by political managers. In time we may have a brain trust really worth of that name.

AN AMERICAN PLAN FOR ARMS CONTROL

Though any general measure of disarmament may be difficult in existing circumstances, there is no good reason why international control of the traffic in arms and munitions should not be undertaken in a practical way. Investigation by a senate committee has revealed abuses that seriously endanger world peace. Discussion of the question will at least keep life for the moment in the Geneva conference, which was dying of inanition, and that in itself is a gain. This is no time for statesmen to throw up their hands in despair and let the world drift into another war. If the rearmament of Germany can not be checked, its purpose may at least be rendered futile by a solid opposing front.

The text of the treaty offered by Mr. Davis has been carefully drafted; it seems to leave no loopholes for misunderstanding. It has two main objects. One is the establishment of a permanent Disarmament Commission, financed by the League of Nations and responsible to it and the high contracting parties, of which the United States, of course, would be one. Non-membership in the league would not conceivably preclude the United States' co-operation.

The second object of the plan is of the more immediate importance. It deals with the arms traffic, which has plainly become a menace in its unchecked development. Embargoes in special cases—as in that of Bolivia and Paraguay—are plainly insufficient. Unless they are proclaimed by all the arms-manufacturing powers, they will be evaded. A system of international licensing, with adequate supervision, and with all the categories of arms and munitions to which it shall apply, is the only real remedy for a condition that is becoming intolerable.

Of course, the exact value of this rather radical proposal can not be determined without serious study. It has been received with different degrees of approval, disapproval or doubt. It is clear that the American proposal has rather taken the breath from most of the powers. Nothing else could have been expected.

None the less, the subject is of too much importance to the world to be ignored. The lead given by the United States points the right way to a decision.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

WHO WAS DEGRADED?

I was there. I saw it happen. And because I stood there, curious and staring on that bright summer day, and was a part of it, one part of me is forever humiliated.

It happened long ago. In a war. In France. In a field on a little town, near Verdun. In the French army...A young officer was being "degraded", stripped of his rank in the presence of the regiment. I don't know why. But some one told me that he had been afraid. He had run when he should have stood desperately and fought until he died. Or he had wounded himself instead of waiting to be wounded...And a court of officers had sat solemnly and heard the testimony and had sentenced him to a "public degradation", dismissal from the army, and imprisonment in some military fortess. As an example to all other officers, as a warning to them not to be human, not to do as he had done, not to have any dangerous lucid intervals in the pompous madness of warfare.

Seems to me I have written of this before. Seems to me I shall write of it again, and that again and again that solemn, pathetic spectacle will accusingly come back to me.

He was such a tiny figure standing there on the hill-slope, with his black hair shining in the sunshine and his face so pale. And all the other figures facing him were so tiny, too, so doll-like, so much like the wooden soldiers of the dance. ...And one of them walked stiffly up to him and stripped his insignia from his uniform and spoke a few dreadful words to him and then they all went away from there.

He was supposed, I remember, to be "degraded" and perhaps he did feel so. I couldn't know about that. I had never seen him before, nor did I ever see him again...But even then watching that ceremony from a distance, it seemed to me that to him whatever was happening meant less than nothing—and that he degradation lay dreadfully upon the rest of us. Upon the regiment, upon the officers who performed that sentence upon him, upon us who watched so curiously from afar.

No one ever escapes unsoiled from such events. We smirch the other fellow and go forever smirched. We humiliate him and the humiliation is ours. We degrade him and become unalterably and forever a part of his poor degradation.

ARE YOU MASTER OF YOURSELF?

You may be disguested with yourself because of the little weaknesses you know you possess.

But there are few who are not weak in one way or another.

Even those of the highest standing have their deficiencies.

They probably control themselves better than you do—or perhaps they don't.

No person is perfect, and consequently certain impulses must be controlled in order to maintain a feeling of self respect and to retain a good reputation.

If you are not master of yourself, you have reason to be alarmed.

If your pride is not stronger than your desires you are on the way to social oblivion.

If you feel less and less able to control tendencies harmful to your best interests, you have a fight before you.

Start the struggle before resistance becomes too weak.

Even now you may be considering some action, the unfavorable outcome of which might be decidedly disastrous to you.

Are you such a weakling that you will let your evil impulses overpower you?

Your pulses might be quite all right at the time and place where they belong, but you must not let them run amuck.

GROWING UP

Miss Janet bounces in to me.
With: May she wave her hair?
And may her dresses older be
Than little girls should wear?
Any may she have a jeweled ring
And silver slippers gay?
Which sets me once more wondering
Where flies the time away.

But yesterday in little frocks
A babe she seemed to be,
Content to romp about in socks
Which never reached the knee.
But now she talks of silken hose
And wents a dozen pairs,
Of filmy stockings just like those
Her lovely mother wears.

And now she wants a leopard coat
With hat to match and I
Feel something lumpy in my throat,
But scarely know just why.
I only know 'though we desire
To keep her young, somehow.
That love for feminine attire
Has burst upon us now.

What About This Dictatorship? A Mid-Westerner Gives His Opinion Where Alfalfa Bill Murray Stands

Central Press
Cleveland Bureau
1435 East 12th street
By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Stall Writer

CLEVELAND, Nov. 23.—"General Smedley D. Butler says he was offered three million dollars by a representative of wealthy men to overthrow the government and become Fascist dictator of the United States, eh?"

The question was posed by a man in Cleveland, where this writer happens to be today.

"Well," continued the Clevelander, a smile overspreading his face, "those wealthy men do hold us cheap, don't they? And what would they do with one Franklin D. Roosevelt? Many times three million dollars have been spent to defeat him and some of his policies.

"In fact, haven't we been hearing that F. D. R. himself is becoming a dictator? You know, all that pre-election talk? Well, if you want to learn what the people think of that, look at the last election figures.

"It seems to me as if the Fascists who approached the general were heading for a quick death. The only way a Fascist can reach anywhere in the United States now is to ride along on the same ticket with Franklin D. Roosevelt—and I suppose plenty of them are doing that very thing, 'cess to 'em.

"Oh, it sounds like a pipe dream."

* * *

WHAT SORT OF DICTATOR?

The writer pursued the topic:

"Do you believe that Roosevelt is a dictator?"

The Clevelander responded:

"Yes—every important man is a dictator. The mass of us must have leaders—or gods. That's a human frailty.

"But Roosevelt is a queer dictator. He listens to many voices. That's democracy. He is the dictator of democracy. And by-and-by people will say he is the preserver of democracy.

"I see where Donald Richberg—'assistant president'—said that all the strong measures taken have been to protect and propagate the liberties of the people, particularly against interests that have been exploiting the people.

"Well, sir, we people believe that. But we think, too, Mr. Roosevelt and his assistants haven't gone far enough. Yes, sir, we already have that kind of dictatorship—and, doggonit, we like it.

"So what kind of a chance has any other dictatorship got?"

IMPORTANT CORRECTION

This column pleads guilty to an error, which is corrected by N. G. Henthorne, editor of the Tulsa Daily World in these words:

"In your release of several days ago, in which you outlined the present position of several of President Roosevelt's opponents in the Chicago convention, you make the following statement: "Governor Alfalfa Bill Murray of Oklahoma retires to private life, a strong supporter of the president."

"This is not a correct statement, as Governor Murray has been a known critic of the president ever since the 1932 election. In the recent state campaign, Governor Murray's privately owned newspaper, the Blue Valley Farmer, openly opposed the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, E. W. Marland.

"It is the belief in Oklahoma that Murray is remaining quiet, hoping to find a break in the national setup that will permit him to again enter national politics."

TODAY Is The Day

By CLARK KINNAIRD Copyright 1934 Central Press

FRIDAY' NOV. 23

The World War Day-By-Day—Nov. 23, 1914—United States troops left Vera Cruz, after an expensive and futile occupation extending seven months. Same day the Department of State had another international complication to deal with; a launch from the battleship Tennessee entering Smyrna harbor was stopped by a shot from a Turkish fort.

Washington's protests were a minor matter in Constantinople compared to the worries of the Sublime Porte over the war with the Allies and the Italian occupation of Albania.

A few days more than two years before, Albania had declared its independence from Turkey. That is, out of territory formerly Turkish a kingdom of Alabania had been created at the Conference of London at the close of the Balkan wars.

While desperate battles were going on in Flanders and Poland, and attention of the great powers was centered upon them, Italy committed an act which, in a time of peace, would have precipitated something like a European crisis. She landed marines at Valona on the eastern side of the Adriatic to "preserve order" and protect Italian interests supposedly threatened by the overthrow of the regime of the government of German Prince William of Wied.

It was just such an opportunity and excuse as Italy had been looking for. In capable hands Valona commands the Adriatic, in Austrian hands it would have been a menace to Italy. All the good harbors on the eastern shore, and most of them were in Austro-Hungarian hands. Italy was determined that neither Austria nor Serbia should possess Valona.

After William's fall, a rebel force had concentrated at Dibra, 40 miles in the interior. Austria was supposed to have armed the rebels and supplied them with funds, in the hope that Italy would be prevented from gaining control of Albania while Austria was at war. It was the opposite that happened. The occupation was a final step toward severance of the alliance of Italy with Austria and Hungary which came with an actual declaration of war by Italy against Austria seven months after Valona was taken.

History Up-To-Date—400 Years Ago Today—The Church of England was born. Parliament passed the Act of Supremacy, severing connections of the English church with Rome and making the king supreme head of the church.

Henry VIII, first king to be "Defender of the Faith", forced establishment of the new church so he could get a divorce from Catherine of Aragon, his brother Arthur's widow, and marry his paramour, Anne Boleyn!

Nov. 23, 1616—Richard Hakluyt died at 64. To one of his works, the poet Drayton referred when he wrote:

The Voyages attend,
Industrious Hakluyt,
Whose reading shall inflame
Men to seek fame,
And much command
To after times thy wit.

Hakluyt's books did inflame men to seek fame, sent many a man voyaging to the new world. His Divers Voyages Touching the Discovery of America and Discourse Concerning Western Discoveries are the most important early histories of America. Their publication had the effect upon the men of England as the news of discovery of gold in California upon the men of New England. A priest, Hakluyt was the first to use globes in teaching geography, and he considered geography and chronology "the sunne and moone, the right eye and left eye of all history."

Nov. 23, 1718—Maj. Stede Bonnet, an officer and a gentleman, found himself at the end of his rope—on a gallows.

When he retired from the British army, rich and respected, his wife's unrelenting nagging drove him from home. He bought a sloop, collected a cut-throat crew of 70, became a common pirate. He was captured after a five-hour battle by a man-hunter who thought he was fighting Blackbeard, and hanged after a long-winded judge had advised him to lead a "higher left".

Nov. 23, 1860—The standard of musical pitch, settled in France the year before, was recognized by the Society of Arts, London, whence recognition of the standard spread to the United States and around the world.

Middle A is fixed at 870.9 simple or 435.45 double vibrations a second at a temperature of degrees F. But no tuning fork is absolutely exact in giving the diapason normal. The first fork made for the standard pitch gave A 439 double vibrations. C 522.

Temperature is important in pitch, few realize, because wind instruments and particularly the organ, rise almost proportionately to the increase in temperature of the surrounding air, because sound travels at an enhanced rate as the temperature rises.

The natural basis for standard musical pitch is, however, the male human voice. It is assumed that no disturbing alteration has taken place in it for more than 2,000 years!

MANY WANTED

A man walked into an office and asked for a job. Since there was no immediate vacancy, the Manager told him he would keep him in mind.

"If you want me at all,' the applicant answered "you'd better put me on the payroll right now. There are several other companies after me.'

"Yes," answered the Manager, "and who are they?"

"Well, there's the gas company, the water company, the electric company and several others."

POLICEMEN OR POLITICIANS?

IT IS to be hoped that the movement to preserve and guard Pennsylvania state police leadership from political domination will gain momentum. Perhaps such a movement is not necessary. Certainly if Governor-Elect George H. Earle is acquainted with the work of the state police he will not care to lower its efficiency by changing its executive officers.

The Pennsylvania state police force is respected over the entire North American continent. The Canadian Royal Mounted, the Texas Rangers with their tradition and their efficiency are not superior to our own state police and it is extremely doubtful if these organizations can compare with the efficiency of the Pennsylvania men.

In Major Lynn C. Adams and Major C. M. Wilhelm the state has two executives who have brought the state police to the high pinnacle of efficiency they now enjoy. Major Adams, the superintendent, is a stern disciplinarian, a leader of men, and a thorough going peace officer, a credit to this state. His deputy Major Wilhelm is likewise a man of ability and courage. To remove them would be to lower the standards of the organization and impair the morale of the men.

Governor-Elect Earle is beyond partisan frontiers now. He soon will be the chief executive of a state of nearly ten million people and all of them, regardless of party, are hoping that the new administration will be an effective one.

There will be changes in some state offices of course. That is to be expected. "To the victor belong the spoils," but where the safety of the people is at stake the matter of spoils should be secondary. To change the executive leadership of the state police would have but one effect and that would be to make politicians of policemen.

We have enough politicians, and too few officers of the high character of the Pennsylvania state police.

TRAINED OFFICIALS

Many European countries offer profitable careers to governmental posts for young men who prepare themselves in definite departments of the government and qualify to undertake the work. They welcome men who are fitted by this training in the diplomatic corps, administrative posts and departmental offices.

The system has, in most instances, tended to build up a set of government employees with an intimate knowledge of the affairs of which they are in charge and competent to discharge their work with real ability. Men are urged to make a career of public service, are amply compensated and, in turn, perform invaluable labors for their country. Not only in the diplomatic service, but in executive positions of various government departments, has the method worked to splendid advantage.

There is no such system in the United States. The calling to government service is not strong enough—does not offer sufficient compensation—to induce young men to make it a life work. There is little opportunity for training and not always the certainty of employment. Most young Americans interested in civil service study law and employ it as a profession on which they can depend for a living. Then they seek to enter politics through election to congress, rather than in the departmental offices of the government.

As a result our departments are filled with business executives not always well qualified for the positions they hold. They lack training and are often employed for political considerations. Positions of administrative responsibility, however, have usually been filled by able executives, but competent assistants have been lacking.

Harvard University has decided to enlarge its school of business administration to include courses for students preparing for public service. This policy, if followed by other universities, should provide trained government employees as well as give business men a more intimate knowledge of the affairs of government. It should encourage young men to make governmental service their life's work and thus correct the deficiency now existing. America can do well to follow the European custom in this respect.

A competent group of experts in the various phases of federal business will provide a much more dependable backbone of administration than the visionaries and political refugees placed in Washington by political managers. In time we may have a brain trust really worth of that name.

AN AMERICAN PLAN FOR ARMS CONTROL

Though any general measure of disarmament may be difficult in existing circumstances, there is no good reason why international control of the traffic in arms and munitions should not be undertaken in a practical way. Investigation by a senate committee has revealed abuses that seriously endanger world peace. Discussion of the question will at least keep life for the moment in the Geneva conference, which was dying of inanition, and that in itself is a gain. This is no time for statesmen to throw up their hands in despair and let the world drift into another war. If the rearmament of Germany can not be checked, its purpose may at least be rendered futile by a solid opposing front.

The text of the treaty offered by Mr. Davis has been carefully drafted; it seems to leave no loopholes for misunderstanding. It has two main objects. One is the establishment of a permanent Disarmament Commission, financed by the League of Nations and responsible to it and the high contracting parties, of which the United States, of course, would be one. Non-membership in the league would not conceivably preclude the United States' co-operation.

The second object of the plan is of the more immediate importance. It deals with the arms traffic, which has plainly become a menace in its unchecked development. Embargoes in special cases—as in that of Bolivia and Paraguay—are plainly insufficient. Unless they are proclaimed by all the arms-manufacturing powers, they will be evaded. A system of international licensing, with adequate supervision, and with all the categories of arms and munitions to which it shall apply, is the only real remedy for a condition that is becoming intolerable.

Of course, the exact value of this rather radical proposal can not be determined without serious study. It has been received with different degrees of approval, disapproval or doubt. It is clear that the American proposal has rather taken the breath from most of the powers. Nothing else could have been expected.

None the less, the subject is of too much importance to the world to be ignored. The lead given by the United States points the right way to a decision.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

WHO WAS DEGRADED?

I was there. I saw it happen. And because I stood there, curious and staring on that bright summer day, and was a part of it, one part of me is forever humiliated.

It happened long ago. In a war. In France. In a field on a little town, near Verdun. In the French army...A young officer was being "degraded", stripped of his rank in the presence of the regiment. I don't know why. But some one told me that he had been afraid. He had run when he should have stood desperately and fought until he died. Or he had wounded himself instead of waiting to be wounded...And a court of officers had sat solemnly and heard the testimony and had sentenced him to a "public degradation", dismissal from the army, and imprisonment in some military fortress. As an example to all other officers, as a warning to them not to be human, not to do as he had done, not to have any dangerous lucid intervals in the pompous madness of warfare.

Seems to me I have written of this before. Seems to me I shall write of it again, and that again and again that solemn, pathetic spectacle will accusingly come back to me.

He was such a tiny figure standing there on the hill-slope, with his black hair shining in the sunshine and his face so pale. And all the other figures facing him were so tiny, too, so doll-like, so much like the wooden soldiers of the dance. ...And one of them walked stiffly up to him and stripped his insignia from his uniform and spoke a few dreadful words to him and then they all went away from there.

He was supposed, I remember, to be "degraded" and perhaps he did feel so. I couldn't know about that. I had never seen him before, nor did I ever see him again...But even then watching that ceremony from a distance, it seemed to me that to him whatever was happening meant less than nothing—and that he degradation lay dreadfully upon the rest of us. Upon the regiment, upon the officers who performed that sentence upon him, upon us who watched so curiously from afar.

No one ever escapes unsoiled from such events. We smirch the other fellow and go forever smirched. We humiliate him and the humiliation is ours. We degrade him and become unalterably and forever a part of his poor degradation.

ARE YOU MASTER OF YOURSELF?

You may be disgusted with yourself because of the little weaknesses you know you possess.

But there are few who are not weak in one way or another.

Even those of the highest standing have their deficiencies.

They probably control themselves better than you do—or perhaps they don't.

No person is perfect, and consequently certain impulses must be controlled in order to maintain a feeling of self respect and to retain a good reputation.

If you are not master of yourself, you have reason to be alarmed.

If your pride is not stronger than your desires you are on the way to social oblivion.

If you feel less and less able to control tendencies harmful to your best interests, you have a fight before you.

Start the struggle before resistance becomes too weak.

Even now you may be considering some action, the unfavorable outcome of which might be decidedly disastrous to you.

Are you such a weakling that you will let your evil impulses overpower you?

Your pulses might be quite all right at the time and place where they belong, but you must not let them run amuck.

GROWING UP

Miss Janet bounces in to me.
With: May she wave her hair?
And may her dresses older be
Than little girls should wear?
Any may she have a jeweled ring
And silver slippers gay?
Which sets me once more wondering
Where flies the time away.

But yesterday in little frocks
A babe she seemed to be,
Content to romp about in socks
Which never reached the knee.
But now she talks of silken hose
And wants a dozen pairs,
Of filmy stockings just like those
Her lovely mother wears.

And now she wants a leopard coat
With hat to match and I
Feel something lumpy in my throat,
But scarcely know just why.
I only know though we desire
To keep her young, somehow,
That love for feminine attire
Has burst upon us now.

What About This Dictatorship? A Mid-Westerner Gives His Opinion Where Alfalfa Bill Murray Stands

Central Press
Cleveland Bureau
1435 East 12th street
By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND, Nov. 23.—"General Smedley D. Butler says he was offered three million dollars by a representative of wealthy men to overthrow the government and become Fascist dictator of the United States, eh?"

The question was posed by a man in Cleveland, where this writer happens to be today.

"Well," continued the Clevelander, a smile overspreading his face, "those wealthy men do hold us cheap, don't they? And what would they do with one Franklin D. Roosevelt? Many times three million dollars have been spent to defeat him and some of his policies.

"In fact, haven't we been hearing that F. D. R. himself is becoming a dictator? You know, all that pre-election talk? Well, if you want to learn what the people think of that, look at the last election figures.

"It seems to me as if the Fascists who approached the general were heading for a quick death. The only way a Fascist can reach anywhere in the United States now is to ride along on the same ticket with Franklin D. Roosevelt—and I suppose plenty of them are doing that very thing, 'cess to 'em.

"Oh, it sounds like a pipe dream."

* * *

WHAT SORT OF DICTATOR?

The writer pursued the topic:

"Do you believe that Roosevelt is a dictator?"

The Clevelander responded:

"Yes—every important man is a dictator. The mass of us must have leaders—or gods. That's a human frailty.

"But Roosevelt is a queer dictator. He listens to many voices. That's democracy. He is the dictator of democracy. And by-and-by people will say he is the preserver of democracy.

"I see where Donald Richberg—'assistant president'—said that all the strong measures taken have been to protect and propagate the liberties of the people, particularly against interests that have been exploiting the people.

"Well, sir, we people believe that. But we think, too, Mr. Roosevelt and his assistants haven't gone far enough. Yes, sir, we already have that kind of dictatorship—and, dogonit, we like it.

"So what kind of a chance has any other dictatorship got?"

IMPORTANT CORRECTION

This column pleads guilty to an error, which is corrected by N. G. Henthorne, editor of the Tulsa Daily World in these words:

"In your release of several days ago, in which you outlined the present position of several of President Roosevelt's opponents in the Chicago convention, you make the following statement: "Governor Alfalfa Bill Murray of Oklahoma retires to private life, a strong supporter of the president."

"This is not a correct statement, as Governor Murray has been a known critic of the president ever since the 1932 election. In the recent state campaign, Governor Murray's privately owned newspaper, the Blue Valley Farmer, openly opposed the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, E. W. Marland.

"It is the belief in Oklahoma that Murray is remaining quiet, hoping to find a break in the national setup that will permit him to again enter national politics."

FRIDAY NOV. 23

The World War Day-By-Day—Nov. 23, 1914—United States troops left Vera Cruz, after an expensive and futile ocupation extending seven months. Same day the Department of State had another international complication to deal with; a launch from the battleship Tennessee entering Smyrna harbor was stopped by a shot from a Turkish fort.

Washington's protests were a minor matter in Constantinople compared to the worries of the Sublime Porte over the war with the Allies and the Italian occupation of Albania.

A few days more than two years before, Albania had declared its independence from Turkey. That is, out of territory formerly Turkish a kingdom of Alabania had been created at the Conference of London at the close of the Balkan wars.

While desperate battles were going on in Flanders and Poland, and attention of the great powers was centered upon them, Italy committed an act which, in a time of peace, would have precipitated something like a European crisis. She landed marines at Valona on the eastern side of the Adriatic to "preserve order" and protect Italian interests supposedly threatened by the overthrow of the regime of the government of German Prince William of Wied.

It was just such an opportunity and excuse as Italy had been looking for. In capable hands Valona commands the Adriatic, in Austrian hands it would have been a menace to Italy. All the good harbors on the eastern shore, and most of them were in Austro-Hungarian hands. Italy was determined that neither Austria nor Serbia should possess Valona.

After William's fall, a rebel force had concentrated at Dibra, 40 miles in the interior. Austria was supposed to have armed the rebels and supplied them with funds, in the hope that Italy would be prevented from gaining control of Albania while Austria was at war. It was the opposite that happened. The occupation was a final step toward severance of the alliance of Italy with Austria and Hungary which came with an actual declaration of war by Italy against Austria seven months after Valona was taken.

MANY WANTED

A man walked into an office and asked for a job. Since there was no immediate vacancy, the Manager told him he would keep him in mind.

"If you want me at all," the applicant answered "you'd better put me on the payroll right now. There are several other companies after me."

"Yes," answered the Manager, "and who are they?"

"Well, there's the gas company, the water company, the electric company and several others."

Joe Rosa, "Beats Rap" In Arabia Murder Case, Faces Other Serious Charges

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 23.—Joe Rosa beat the "rap" for murder today.

Sitting immobile and expressionless as the jury filed into court after reaching a verdict long before court reconvened this morning, Rosa heard the verdict free him of the charge of having participated in the slaying of Patsy Arabia, Arnold bootlegger.

He made no comment on the verdict, other than being a little puzzled because his wife, Geneva, was not there. He said:

"I guess she wore during the trial."

Arabia was taken for a ride from which there was no returning for him last May 11.

Faces Other Charges.

Despite his acquittal, however, Rosa was led back to his cell in jail to await further action against him.

He still faces an indictment charging manslaughter growing out of the Arabia case. He also faces trial for the bombing of an East Liberty night spot. And parole authorities of Western penitentiary have lodged a detainer against him for parole violation.

It was expected the manslaughter charge would be dropped due to the murder acquittal. However, he will soon be put on trial for the alleged bombing. The first trial on this charge last spring ended in a mistrial after charges of attempted jury-fixing were brought to light.

As to the parole, Rosa may have to return to the prison to serve the balance of a 1½ to 10-year sentence for entering a building to commit a felony.

Frank Beal presided at the evening session with the church pastor conducting the devotionals and the Westfield Presbyterian Bible school furnishing the music.

The following officers were installed: president: A. W. Leslie; vice president, John Kyle:, secretary, Mrs. Frank Hoffmeister: treasurer, C. W. You're Wrong If You Believe—

That presidents of the United States are elected by the people.

(They are not. Presidents are elected by members of the Electoral college.)

That aeroplane is a word only as old as the Wright brothers' flying machine.

(Actually, it goes back as far as 1879 when a Frenchman, Victor Tatin, applied it to a flying machine driven by compressed air.)

That the Jerusalem artichoke comes from Jerusalem.

(It is not an artichoke. It is unknown in Jerusalem, it won't grow there! The name is a corruption of the name given the plant in Italy, where it was first cultivated—girasole articicco.)

Willard Grange

TO AID HENRY HOME

"Donation Day" for the Margaret L. Henry Children's Home in New Castle will be observed by Willard grange at its regular meeting on November 27. Members are asked to bring or send donations to the meeting.

Election of officers will also feature the evening.

SAILS TO TRAGIC ISLE

BARONESS WEHRBORN

An expedition to the Galapagos islands, leaving Los Angeles, Nov. 23, was expected to reveal the story of the recent tragedy on one of the "enchanted islands" of the equatorial Pacific, in which it was believed Baroness Eloisa Bosquet De Wagner Wehrborn, above, "empress" of the island group, and Robert Philippson, her German lover, met death. Capt. Allen Hancock, Los Angeles millionaire and science enthusiast, and 10 Smithsonian Institute scientists made up the party seeking the secret of the islands.

Oil City Hospital Gets Big Bequest

OIL CITY, Pa., Nov. 23.—Grandview Sanitarium, it was announced today, will receive income from an estate valued in excess of $100,000, result of a bequest made in the will of the late Mrs. Laura Smedley, Oil City, and now effective. It became effective upon the death of her brother, Dr. Edwin G. Mease of Buffalo, who was buried here yesterday.

REMODELING CLASS INTERESTS MOTHERS

A class in "remodeling of clothes", conducted every Thursday afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A., has been attracting an increasing number of mothers who desire to make over materials into clothing for their children. Some young married women and business women have been interested in making over clothing for themselves and have been using not only old but new materials. This class is conducted under the leadership of Mrs. S. J. Rhodes.

DONATE FOODSTUFFS

NRA Complaints Are Piling Up

Officials Move To Expedite Action Of Compliance Division

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—NRA officials moved today to expedite action of its compliance and litigation divisions.

With 16,000 labor complaints and 3,000 trade practice complaints over code violations still pending, the NRA board authorized the immediate decentralization of its entire field force, and announced a plan for establishment of the regional enforcement offices under the direction of Sol A. Rosenblatt.

The first regional office will be established within a few days in Atlanta. This will be the headquarters for Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana. Other regional offices are to be established in Boston for New England; New York City for the Empire state; Philadelphia for Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware and in San Francisco for the three coast states. Other regions have not been definitely determined.

101,144 Complaints

Rosenblatt explained since Nov. 18, 1933, when the compliance division was established, 101,144 labor complaints and 25,097 trade practice complaints had been received.

The regional offices are to be placed under the supervision of a director. Cases are to be heard by a board of three members representing industry, labor and an impartial chairman. The new move was taken following the recommendation of William H. Davis, former compliance director.

Crooner, Acrobat Wed After Round The World Wooing

Honeymoon To Last As Long As Company Is On Road

(International News Service)

SINGAPORE—The romance of two performers in ar. American musical show touring the Orient is like the plot of a fantastic movie.

Lee Mason, a crooner, first laid eyes on Miss Ella Letenyei, an acrobat, when he joined the Marcus company in Indianapolis on the way to China. There are some 75 Americans in the outfit and it took the ocean voyage, and the Pacific moon to really bring the pair together.

Through long weeks of performances in Tokio, Shangai, Canton, and Hongkong, the romance budded, until the engagement was announced. The wedding took place in St. Andrew's Cathedral at Singapore.

Roland Tounier, a tap dancer, gave the bride away, while Miss Jane Marshall, of a "sister act" of warblers, served as maid-of-honor. Beehee Mohamed, an Arabian acrobat, was best man. Seven Broadway girls were bridesmaids insluding Miss Dorothy San, who does the fan dance in the Marcus show.

The honeymoon will last as long as the company is on the road, after which the newlweds plan to settle down somewhere in America. Two other matches were made among the performers, one couple being married at sea enroute from San Francisco to Japan and another in Shanghai.

Hard Winter? Don't Believe Furry Tribe

(International News Service)

DENVER, The many amateur weather prognosticators now springing into the spotlight with predictions of a hard winter, based on observations of wild and domestic animals, are not to be trusted, declares J. M. Sherier, veteran Denver forecaster for the United States government.

The acquisition of unusually large stores by squirrels, the growing of exceptionally heavy fur by cats and other animals may be interesting, but is "unreliable as a weather sign." He said:

"Men are supposed to be the most highly developed creatures on earth, and it certtainly wouldn't be complimentary to us if the animals and plants could tell us what kind of winter we are going to have and we could not."

The only certainty in longdistance weather forecasting, he explained, is that over a period of years weather will return eventually to "normal."

Horse Figures In Suit On 'Speeding'

(International News Service)

SAVANNAH, Ga.. —Imagine a motorcycle policeman with siren schreeching, halting a horse and wagon to arrest the driver for speeding! It's possible here, it is indicated by a damage suit in which an ancient ordinance prohibiting the driving of horses pulling wagons faster than a walk is cited.

There is one exception—bread wagons. Apparently the city fathers of an outmoded generation were so anxious to get their bread while it was warm that they permitted bakery delivery wagons, to proceed at a trot.

George W. Altman, 75, is asking $10,000 damages from a local dairy, claiming that he was run down by one of the company's horses while it exceeded the speed limit.

Cardinals Again Evenly Divided

(International News Service)

VATICAN CITY—The division in the senate of the Roman Catholic church, i. e., the College of Cardinals, is again even, that is, 27 Italian members and 27 of other nationalities.

The deaths of Cardinal Mori and Ehrle provides a total of 16 vacancies in the college.

While Piux XI seems slow to create new cardinals, he has red-hatted 34 of the present membership. The other 20 were made mostly by Benedict XV (twelve), while seven were red-hatted during the pontificate of Pius X. One dates from the days of Pope Leo XIII.

The sole survivor of the cardinals created by a pope dead 31 years, is not, however, Methusaleh of the Holy College. He is Cardinal Leo De Skrbensky, now only 71. He was 38 years old when elevated, a record for youthfulness in modern times.

The dean of the Holy College, Cardinal Granito Pignatelli di Belmonte, is 83 years old.

JUDGES DIRTY JOB
(International News Service)

LONDON — Magistrate Ronald Powell, of Westminster, adjourned a case before him in order to catch up on his reading. The reading he has to do consists of 100 books, evidence in the case, which are reputed to be "obscene." "I'll have to spend several weeks on the reading of the evidence," the magistrate declared. "I am really sorry for myself."

Hard Winter? Don't Believe Furry Tribe

(International News Service)

DENVER. The many amateur weather prognosticators now springing into the spotlight with predictions of a hard winter, based on observations of wild and domestic animals, are not to be trusted, declares J. M. Sherier, veteran Denver forecaster for the United States government.

The acquisition of unusually large stores by squirrels, the growing of exceptionally heavy fur by cats and other animals may be interesting, but is "unreliable as a weather sign." He said:

"Men are supposed to be the most hightly developed creatures on earth, and it certtainly wouldn't be complimentary to us if the animals and plants could tell us what kind of winter we are going to have and we could not."

The only certainty in longdistance weather forecasting, he explained, is that over a period of years weather will return eventually to "normal."

Horse Figures In Suit On 'Speeding'

(International News Service)

SAVANNAH, Ga., —Imagine a motorcycle policeman with siren schreeching, halting a horse and wagon to arrest the driver for speeding! It's possible here, it is indicated by a damage suit in which an ancient ordinance prohibiting the driving of horses pulling wagons faster than a walk is cited.

There is one exception—bread wagons. Apparently the city fathers of an outmoded generation were so anxious to get their bread while it was warm that they permitted bakery delivery wagons, to proceed at a trot.

George W. Altman, 75, is asking $10,000 damages from a local dairy, claiming that he was run down by one of the company's horses while it exceeded the speed limit.

Cardinals Again Evenly Divided

(International News Service)

VATICAN CITY—The division in the senate of the Roman Catholic church, i. e., the College of Cardinals, is again even, that is, 27 Italian members and 27 of other nationalities.

The deaths of Cardinal Mori and Ehrle provides a total of 16 vacancies in the college.

While Piux XI seems slow to create new cardinals, he has red-hatted 34 of the present membership. The other 20 were made mostly by Benedict XV (twelve), while seven were red-hatted during the pontificate of Pius X. One dates from the days of Pope Leo XIII.

The sole survivor of the cardinals created by a pope dead 31 years, is not, however, Methusaleh of the Holy College. He is Cardinal Leo De Skrbensky, now only 71. He was 38 years old when elevated, a record for youthfulness in modern times.

The dean of the Holy College, Cardinal Granito Pignatelli di Belmonte, is 83 years old.

JUDGES DIRTY JOB
(International News Service)

LONDON — Magistrate Ronald Powell, of Westminster, adjourned a case before him in order to catch up on his reading. The reading he has to do consists of 100 books, evidence in the case, which are reputed to be "obscene." "I'll have to spend several weeks on the reading of the evidence," the magistrate declared. "I am really sorry for myself."

NRA Complaints Are Piling Up

Officials Move To Expedite Action Of Compliance Division

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—NRA officials moved today to expedite action of its compliance and litigation divisions.

With 16,000 labor complaints and 3,000 trade practice complaints over code violations still pending, the NRA board authorized the immediate decentralization of its entire field force, and announced a plan for establishment of the regional enforcement offices under the direction of Sol A. Rosenblatt.

The first regional office will be established within a few days in Atlanta. This will be the headquarters for Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana. Other regional offices are to be established in Boston for New England; New York City for the Empire state; Philadelphia for Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware and in San Francisco for the three coast states. Other regions have not been definitely determined.

101,144 Complaints

Rosenblatt explained since Nov. 18, 1933, when the compliance division was established, 101,144 labor complaints and 25,097 trade practice complaints had been received.

The regional offices are to be placed under the supervision of a director. Cases are to be heard by a board of three members representing industry, labor and an impartial chairman. The new move was taken following the recommendation of William H. Davis, former compliance director.

Crooner, Acrobat Wed After Round The World Wooing

Honeymoon To Last As Long As Company Is On Road

(International News Service)

SINGAPORE—The romance of two performers in an American musical show touring the Orient is like the plot of a fantastic movie.

Lee Mason, a crooner, first laid eyes on Miss Ella Letenyei, an acrobat, when he joined the Marcus company in Indianapolis on the way to China. There are some 75 Americans in the outfit and it took the ocean voyage, and the Pacific moon to really bring the pair together.

Through long weeks of performances in Tokio, Shangai, Canton, and Hongkong, the romance budded, until the engagement was announced. The wedding took place in St. Andrew's Cathedral at Singapore.

Roland Tounier, a tap dancer, gave the bride away, while Miss Jane Marshall, of a "sister act" of warblers, served as maid-of-honor. Beehee Mohamed, an Arabian acrobat, was best man. Seven Broadway girls were bridesmaids insluding Miss Dorothy San, who does the fan dance in the Marcus show.

The honeymoon will last as long as the company is on the road, after which the newlweds plan to settle down somewhere in America. Two other matches were made among the performers, one couple being married at sea enroute from San Francisco to Japan and another in Shanghai.

Says French People Interested In Peace

Madame Carof, Speaking To Peace Council, Reports Activity Abroad

Contrary to widespread belief, the French people are interested in peace and are forming, in hundreds of villages and towns throughout the country, organizations which have as their prime motive the promotion of peace, Madam Carof, brilliant French student of world welfare conditions, declared at a meeting of the Lawrence County Council of the Cause and Cure of War at the Y. W. C. A. last night.

Madame Carof said the movement for peace is becoming more general there but as yet there exists two faults, namely: Religious factions and the lack of realization of the necessity for an aggressive peace program.

Here to speak before several district colleges and New Castle clubs, the French speaker chose "The Peace Movement in France" as her subject last night.

Mrs. William L. Cosel, newly elected chairman of the council, presided. During a business meeting, Samuel Gaston was named as secretary. A resolution expressing the council's regret over the departure of the Rev. C. S. Joshua, former chairman, from New Castle.

Copies of "The Unknown Soldier," from the pen of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, New York, were distributed to the members.

ORDER WHITE TO SATISFY LIEN

Council met in city hall today and granted authority to Solicitor Robert White to satisfy a lien against the Margaret Shaffer property, Addis street, for a sanitary sewer built some time ago in that street. According to her attorney, she has agreed that if the property used the sewer, she would be willing to pay her assessment. Council decided that she should pay the costs for filing the lien but exonerated her of the assessment.

Insect Racketeer Gets Food From Ants

(International News Service)

McGREGOR, Ia.—There is no NRA code for the insect world, so a certain species of mosquito which has no sting and no way to obtain food for itself gets away with this, according to Dr. W. L. Strusk, Luther college biologist.

The mosquito sits in a tree and waits until a hard-working ant comes along. It taps the ant gently over the head with its forelegs—the insect way of saying "This is a stick-up."

"The ant promptly regurgitates a drop of sweetish liquid and the mosquito drinks it up."

ASK REDUCTION AS ASSESSMENT

Italo Produce company today presented a communication to city council which met at the city building asking that an assesment of $26,600 on their property in South Croton avenue be reduced if possible. They said the assessment is in excess of what would be accepted if it were sold. The communication was referred to the city assessor.

MAKE PAYMENTS IN CERTIFICATES

When council convened in city hall today they voted payment of certificates amounting to $278 to the Pearson Brick company for brick being used on the Taylor street storm sewer. The brick was delivered during October, according to council.

When traveling or moving, dip the tops of stoppered bottles, such as those containing ink, medicine or cosmetics, in melted paraffin. Let harden and dip a second time. Contents will be securely sealed against leakage.

Strange Yarn Of Quarter Million Is Believed Myth

(International News Service)

TARENTUM, Pa.—A fantastic yarn about the finding of a quarter-million dollar chest of buried loot on a Culmerville farm was abruptly exposed by county detectives.

An old man, the tale said, had just died and revealed in his last moments the existence of a safe containing $240,000 buried under a barn on McCutcheon farm. The money, according to the story, represented loot of a Butler bank holdup more than half a century ago.

Detectives in disproving the rumors said the farm had been without a tenant for years, adding the property had been cleared of a house, the barn and other buildings some time ago. The land was owned by a Tarentum bank and, they believe, that by some strange turn the story may have originated from that angle.

Says French People Interested In Peace

Madame Carof, Speaking To Peace Council, Reports Activity Abroad

Contrary to widespread belief, the French people are interested in peace and are forming, in hundreds of villages and towns throughout the country, organizations which have as their prime motive the promotion of peace, Madam Carof, brilliant French student of world welfare conditions, declared at a meeting of the Lawrence County Council of the Cause and Cure of War at the Y. W. C. A. last night.

Madame Carof said the movement for peace is becoming more general there but as yet there exists two faults, namely: Religious factions and the lack of realization of the necessity for an aggressive peace program.

Here to speak before several district colleges and New Castle clubs, the French speaker chose "The Peace Movement in France" as her subject last night.

Mrs. William L. Cosel, newly elected chairman of the council, presided. During a business meeting, Samuel Gaston was named as secretary. A resolution expressing the council's regret over the departure of the Rev. C. S. Joshua, former chairman, from New Castle.

Copies of "The Unknown Soldier," from the pen of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, New York, were distributed to the members.

ORDER WHITE TO SATISFY LIEN

Council met in city hall today and granted authority to Solicitor Robert White to satisfy a lien against the Margaret Shaffer property, Addis street, for a sanitary sewer built some time ago in that street. According to her attorney, she has agreed that if the property used the sewer, she would be willing to pay her assessment. Council decided that she should pay the costs for filing the lien but exonerated her of the assessment.

Insect Racketeer Gets Food From Ants

(International News Service)

McGREGOR, Ia.—There is no NRA code for the insect world, so a certain species of mosquito which has no sting and no way to obtain food for itself gets away with this, according to Dr. W. L. Strusk, Luther college biologist.

The mosquito sits in a tree and waits until a hard-working ant comes along. It taps the ant gently over the head with its forelegs—the insect way of saying "This is a stick-up."

"The ant promptly regurgitates a drop of sweetish liquid and the mosquito drinks it up."

ASK REDUCTION AS ASSESSMENT

Italo Produce company today presented a communication to city council which met at the city building asking that an assesment of $26,000 on their property in South Croton avenue be reduced if possible. They said the assessment is in excess to what would be accepted if it were sold. The communication was referred to the city assessor.

MAKE PAYMENTS IN CERTIFICATES

When council convened in city hall today they voted payment of certificates amounting to $278 to the Pearson Brick company for brick being used on the Taylor street storm sewer. The brick was delivered during October, according to council.

When traveling or moving, dip the tops of stoppered bottles, such as those containing ink, medicine or cosmetics, in melted paraffin. Let harden and dip a second time. Contents will be securely sealed against leakage.

Strange Yarn Of Quarter Million Is Believed Myth

(International News Service)

TARENTUM, Pa.—A fantastic yarn about the finding of a quarter-million dollar chest of buried loot on a Culmerville farm was abruptly exposed by county detectives.

An old man, the tale said, had just died and revealed in his last moments the existence of a safe containing $240,000 buried under a barn on McCutcheon farm. The money, according to the story, represented loot of a Butler bank holdup more than half a century ago.

Detectives in disproving the rumors said the farm had been without a tenant for years, adding the property had been cleared of a house, the barn and other buildings some time ago. The land was owned by a Tarentum bank and they believe that by some strange turn the story may have originated from that angle.

OTHER NEWS NOTES OF COLLEGE AFFAIRS

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 23.—Wesminster's Block W Club, composed of winners of varsity letters, has completed plans for the all-college season's end dance to be held in the gymnasium Saturday evening from 8 to 11. The dance will celebrate the close of the football season, the Titans playing Geneva in the last game Saturday afternoon.

Block W insignias will be used as the decorative motive, with blue lights and a false ceiling of white paper converting the gym into an attractive ballroom. The committee in charge includes Robert Grier, Harvey Snyder, Jack Willits, Ray Elliott and Perry Klumph.

RUSHING ENDS

Sorority rushing season ends today at Westminster College when the seven Greek-letter co-ed societies pledge members of the freshman class. Silent period, which started Wednesday noon, ended today noon. Most of the organizations will hold pledging ceremonies tonight.

Of the 114 frosh women students, approximately 70 will be pledged to the seven societies.

REPEAT PLAY

With all seats gone for the third night's presentation of Channing Pollock's "The Enemy," Prof. A. T. Cordray's student in dramatic arts at Westminster College are assured of the third capacity audience for the three-act play tonight.

The production, with student staffs in charge of staging, costuming, and managing, and with all-student cast, was presented on Wednesday night and last night in the little theatre. The reason for the three presentations was that the demand for seats made three stagings necessary.

VACATION TO START

Thanksgiving recess at Westminster College starts next Wednesday at 4 o'clock, the official calendar shows. The recess period will extend to Monday, December 3, at 4:30. Classes will resume Tuesday, December 4 at 8 o'clock. During the recess period, Westminster's basketball team will play a benefit game in the Sharon high school. The Titans will play the McKeesport Willigs, the game being for the benefit of the Mercer County Boy Scout council.

Average Income Standing Still While Living Costs Go Higher, Causing Genuine Consternation

Central Press
Washington Bureau
1900 S street

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 —Advancing living costs threaten to become a serious problem to the national administration and its supporters before the 1934-'35 season has advanced much farther.

The government's bureau of agricultural economics recently placed the increase at 9.6 per cent, but the upward tendency has continued since then, and Uncle Sam's forecasters predicted that the rise will be uninterrupted at least until next year's crops begin to make their influence felt.

Besides, the agricultural economics bureau concerns at self, principally with prices of foodstuffs—or raw products, like wool and cotton, which signify to the ordinary consumer only after they have passed through various processers' hands; or tobacco, which isn't eaten, in the generally accepted sense of the term, but nevertheless verges closely upon being one of life's absolute necessities to a large proportion of the American people.

Rentals count, too—and, in most localities, are mounting briskly.

* * *

INCOMES

Chairman Jesse Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation put it, the other day, in fact, that "everything is worth more than a few months ago"—which isn't exactly correct, perhaps; everything probably isn't worth more, but everything certainly costs more.

This uplift would be all very well if average incomes had advanced correspondingly.

It's notorious that they haven't—on an average.

Some few companies have been making more money than they did. It should follow that their stockholders' dividends have been added to.

But the rank-and-file of workers?—craftsmen or white collar-ites?

These classes, it's safe to say, have had their wages, salaries, fees or whatnot sharply reduced during the depression, and the New Deal hasn't advanced them.

Some, who absolutely were out of employment, may be back upon payrolls. Many, who were destitute, are now "on relief". They're better off than when they were at their economic nadir—but not nearly as well off as when their pre-depression jobs caved from under them. As for those who have hung on through the depression!—their incomes, speaking for an overwhelming majority, have been heavily cut, and now their expenses are rising formidably; equivalent to another savage reduction in their class' living standard.

WARNINGS

Such folk as have jobs or revenue-producing businesses or professions have had warnings a-plenty, in the last year, that then was the time for them to lay in supplies (such, notably, as clothing), while prices were comparatively low, and an advance was coming.

But they couldn't. They had to make the best of what they had. They doubtless realized that prices were low—but their already curtailed resources were lower.

Now the advance actually is on them.

They not only can't buy the more or less durable goods that they would have liked to buy, if they had been able to; they're puzzled how to pay for current indispensabilities.

* * *

LAGGING

The masses' and the middle class' financial capacities always lag behind rising markets.

The rule has held good throughout economic history.

It is a rule which the Roosevelt administration has tried, notably through NRA, to ret at naught in connection with the present crisis.

It hasn't offset the lag, as yet, however.

Usually the lag is a matter of several years; sometimes a matter of several generations.

There are few hints that it will be wiped out during the coming winter.

Finds Fox Loves 'Fox-Hunting'

(International News Service)

NOTTINGHAM, Eng., Nov. 23.—Foxes enjoy being hunted, if Colonel Sir Lancelot Rolleston, well-known Notts County master of the hunt, correctly quotes the foxes.

Said Sir Lancelot at a meeting here:

"If foxes, like women, had the vote I think they would vote unanimously for the keeping up of fox-hunting. They would prefer to enjoy the sport of being hunted to being caught in traps or wounded with guns.

"I have known a fox that was absolutely devoted to fox hunting. We hunted him regularly and he was so fond of being hunted that I have known him to jump out into the road to draw the attention of the hounds."

False Teeth Stolen He Must Eat Soup

(International News Service)

READING, Pa., Nov. 23.—Honor among thieves?

There's at least one prisoner in the Berks county jail who will answer vociferously—no. He's the fellow whose false teeth were stolen.

What to do about his plight was a question up before the prison board recently. Informed that it would cost $50 to replace the stolen teeth, the board decided the prisoner would have to stay on a soup and mush diet.

"If teeth are so valuable," one inspector figured, "it would be a good idea for the prisoners to turn them over to the warden at night for safekeeping."

DON'T LET COMMON CONSTIPATION DULL THE JOY OF LIVING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Constipation takes the sunshine out of your days. It may bring headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness, sallow skins, pimples.

Fortunately, you can avoid this condition by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides two things needed to help overcome common constipation: "bulk" and vitamin B. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much better than dosing yourself with patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in chronic cases. If seriously ill, see your doctor—ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all."

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

It's notorious that they haven't—on an average.

Some few companies have been making more money than they did. It should follow that their stockholders' dividends have been added to.

But the rank-and-file of workers?—craftsmen or white collar-ites?

These classes, it's safe to say, have had their wages, salaries, fees or whatnot sharply reduced during the depression, and the New Deal hasn't advanced them.

Some, who absolutely were out of employment, may be back upon payrolls. Many, who were destitute, are now "on relief". They're better off than when they were at their economic nadir—but not nearly as well off as when their pre-depression jobs caved from under them. As for those who have hung on through the depression!—their incomes, speaking for an overwhelming majority, have been heavily cut, and now their expenses are rising formidably; equivalent to another savage reduction in their class' living standard.

WARNINGS

Such folk as have jobs or revenue-producing businesses or professions have had warnings a-plenty, in the last year, that then was the time for them to lay in supplies (such, notably, as clothing), while prices were comparatively low, and an advance was coming.

But they couldn't. They had to make the best of what they had. They doubtless realized that prices were low—but their already curtailed resources were lower.

Now the advance actually is on them.

They not only can't buy the more or less durable goods that they would have liked to buy, if they had been able to; they're puzzled how to pay for current indispensabilities.

LAGGING

The masses' and the middle class' financial capacities always lag behind rising markets.

The rule has held good throughout economic history.

It is a rule which the Roosevelt administration has tried, notably through NRA, to get at naught in connection with the present crisis.

It hasn't offset the lag, as yet, however.

Usually the lag is a matter of several years; sometimes a matter of several generations.

There are few hints that it will be wiped out during the coming winter.

Finds Fox Loves 'Fox-Hunting'

(International News Service)

NOTTINGHAM, Eng., Nov. 21.—Foxes enjoy being hunted, if Colonel Sir Lancelot Rolleston, well-known Notts County master of the hunt, correctly quotes the foxes.

Said Sir Lancelot at a meeting here:

"If foxes, like women, had the vote I think they would vote unanimously for the keeping up of fox-hunting. They would prefer to enjoy the sport of being hunted to being caught in traps or wounded with guns.

"I have known a fox that was absolutely devoted to fox hunting. We hunted him regularly and he was so fond of being hunted that I have known him to jump out into the road to draw the attention of the hounds."

False Teeth Stolen He Must Eat Soup

(International News Service)

READING, Pa., Nov. 23.—Honor among thieves?

There's at least one prisoner in the Berks county jail who will answer vociferously—no. He's the fellow whose false teeth were stolen.

What to do about his plight was a question up before the prison board recently. Informed that it would cost $50 to replace the stolen teeth, the board decided the prisoner would have to stay on a soup and mush diet.

"If teeth are so valuable," one inspector figured, "it would be a good idea for the prisoners to turn them over to the warden at night for safekeeping."

DON'T LET COMMON CONSTIPATION DULL THE JOY OF LIVING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Constipation takes the sunshine out of your days. It may bring headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness, sallow skins, pimples.

Fortunately, you can avoid this condition by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides two things needed to help overcome common constipation: "bulk" and vitamin B. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much better than dosing yourself with patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in chronic cases. If seriously ill, see your doctor—ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all."

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

College Dance On Saturday Night

Westminster Block W. Club In Charge Of Plans For Affair

OTHER NEWS NOTES OF COLLEGE AFFAIRS

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 23.—Wesminster's Block W Club, composed of winners of varsity letters, has completed plans for the all-college season's end dance to be held in the gymnasium Saturday evening from 8 to 11. The dance will celebrate the close of the football season, the Titans playing Geneva in the last game Saturday afternoon.

Block W insignias will be used as the decorative motive, with blue lights and a false ceiling of white paper converting the gym into an attractive ballroom. The committee in charge includes Robert Grier, Harvey Snyder, Jack Willits, Ray Elliott and Perry Klumph.

RUSHING ENDS

Sorority rushing season ends today at Westminster College when the seven Greek-letter co-ed societies pledge members of the freshman class. Silent period, which started Wednesday noon, ended today noon. Most of the organizations will hold pledging ceremonies tonight.

Of the 114 frosh women students, approximately 70 will be pledged to the seven societies.

REPEAT PLAY

With all seats gone for the third night's presentation of Channing Pollock's "The Enemy," Prof. A. T. Cordray's student in dramatic arts at Westminster College are assured of the third capacity audience for the three-act play tonight.

The production, with student staffs in charge of staging, costuming, and managing, and with all-student cast, was presented on Wednesday night and last night in the little theatre. The reason for the three presentations was that the demand for seats made three stagings necessary.

VACATION TO START

Thanksgiving recess at Westminster College starts next Wednesday at 4 o'clock, the official calendar shows. The recess period will extend to Monday, December 3, at 4:30. Classes will resume Tuesday, December 4 at 8 o'clock. During the recess period, Westminster's basketball team will play a benefit game in the Sharon high school. The Titans will play the McKeesport Willigs, the game being for the benefit of the Mercer County Boy Scout council.

Average Income Standing Still While Living Costs Go Higher, Causing Genuine Consternation

Central Press
Washington Bureau
1900 S street

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 —Advancing living costs threaten to become a serious problem to the national administration and its supporters before the 1934-'35 season has advanced much farther.

The government's bureau of agricultural economics recently placed the increase at 9.6 per cent, but the upward tendency has continued since then, and Uncle Sam's forecasters predicted that the rise will be uninterrupted at least until next year's crops begin to make their influence felt.

Besides, the agricultural economics bureau concerns at self, principally with prices of foodstuffs—or raw products, like wool and cotton, which signify to the ordinary consumer only after they have passed through various processers' hands; or tobacco, which isn't eaten, in the generally accepted sense of the term, but nevertheless verges closely upon being one of life's absolute necessities to a large proportion of the American people.

Rentals count, too—and, in most localities, are mounting briskly.

INCOMES

Chairman Jesse Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation put it, the other day, in fact, that "everything is worth more than a few months ago"—which isn't exactly correct, perhaps; everything probably isn't worth more, but everything certainly costs more.

This uplift would be all very well if average incomes had advanced correspondingly.

It's notorious that they haven't on an average.

Some few companies have been making more money than they did. It should follow that their stockholders' dividends have been added to.

But the rank-and-file of workers?—craftsmen or white collar-ites?

GOVERNOR-ELECT DELUGED BY JOB APPLICATIONS

Democrats By Hundreds Apply

After 44 Lean Years Great Army Of State Democrats Seeks Jobs

TWO DEPARTMENTS STILL HELD BY G. O. P.

By SYDNEY H. EIGES
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 23.—Although inauguration day is more than a month away, Governor-elect George H. Earle has already been deluged with literally hundreds of requests for jobs from Democrats throughout the state.

Few if any governors in recent years have been subjected to the terrific patronage pressure which manifested itself almost from the very moment Earle was conceded victory, in the opinion of political observers.

The steady flow of job requests was believed to have motivated Earle's early appointment of David L. Lawrence, Democratic state chairman, as secretary of the commonwealth. A large part of the work of scrutinizing applications for state positions and the qualifications of the applicants was expected to fall on Lawrence's shoulders.

First Time In 44 Years.

The great rush for jobs was believed to have resulted in part from the fact that Democrats for the first time in 44 years are now in control of the state government and from Earle's campaign pledge to cut all "Mellon-Grundy political hacks" from the state payroll.

After 44 lean years, the Democratic administration now has about 3,000 jobs at the state capitol and about 15,000 more in state institutions throughout the commonwealth at its disposal. Only the auditor general's department and the treasury, both headed by Republican incumbents with two more years to serve, seem safe for G. O. P. followers although the public service commission is also considered in this category.

Today

Here's A Mare's Nest.
Saint Alexander.
Old Men, Mark.
100 Mayors, One Problem.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

GEN. SMEDLEY D. BUTLER, of the United States Marines, gives names and addresses of gentlemen in Wall Street who, he says, asked him to march on Washington with 500,000 war veterans, and form a dictatorship, a la Mussolini-Stalin-Kemal Pasha-Hitler. Those wicked, bad and outrageous Wall Street men were prepared to make it worth the general's while.

But Gen. Butler spurned them, "and how," according to his friends, who suggest that Gen. Johnson, formerly of NRA, was selected for the United States dictatorship.

When Gen. Johnson was questioned about that, his language did not desert him. Said he:

"He had better be pretty damn careful. If anybody said a word to me about dictatorship, I'd throw him out of the window."

Somebody may have been deceiving Gen. Butler.

In any case, we are a long way from dictatorship here. Wall Street brand, or any other brand. And of all localities, under the Stars and Stripes, Wall Street would have most to fear from dictatorship.

AUTHORITIES of the Serbian Orthodox Church have decided to canonize King Alexander, recently murdered, because, having died "a martyr to the nation," he deserves to be included among the saints. The Serbian newspeper, "Varda," shows a picture of Christ "welcoming Alexander to sit at his right hand in the Kingdom of Heaven."

Many saints are in heaven, some that, unlike King Alexander, lived in poverty and humility and never shipped millions to other countries, as Alexander did.

Which of those well-established saints, some of them in Heaven more than a thousand years, will have to make way for the new Serbian saint? Merely being shot would seem too easy a way of securing so glorious a seat for all eternity.

OLD MEN are invited to rejoice at this news:

Dr. Wilder D. Brancroft, teacher of chemistry at Cornell University, says:

"Small doses of sodium rhodanate will prolong life at least two years."

The National Academy of Sciences discussed that statement. Some doubted the wisdom of "prolonging life for the average man." They had in mind, perhaps, the sad lines:

"When he is forsaken,
Withered and shaken,
What can an old man do but die?"

In that condition, he certainly does not want to swallow rhodanate and go on living.

Of all nature's kindnesses, death is the greatest, ending disappointment, wiping out debt, forgiving failure, offering another chance. Sodium rhodanate is for men that are certain that they have a useful job, and are atteneding to it.

MAYOR LAGUARDIA, of New York, and more than one hundred other American mayors, are in Chicago, asking each other:

"What should we do and where can we get the money to do it?"

They all have the same problem, MONEY.

Every important city needs public works. Improvements have been neglected during the depression. But city credits are low, or nil. Bankers, frightened, naturally ask how they are to be paid, and the national government says:

"We shall lend, but you must pay with interest."

CITIES, OVER a period of 33 years, could easily pay back WITHOUT interest, or with nominal one-eighth of one per cent interest, to save the face of conservatism. But new ideas are always feared.

The French printed too many assignats, Germany printed too many marks, and, of course, the United States could not resist the temptation to print too many dollars.

All of which is nonsense. The country should print and spend what money it needs, without insisting on the pawnbroker policy of interest uncalled for, that doubles the amount finally paid.

This government, that owes twenty-seven billion dollars now, will pay, with interest, fifty-four billion dollars. A $1,000 government bond on yellow paper is worth as much as $1,000 of government currency on green paper, and no more. The only value in each case is the government's name.

MR. PAUL HOLLISTER, executive vice president for this writer's active young friend, Percy S. Straus, tells the Association of National Advertisers at Atlantic City that it is a mistake to hamstring enterprise by regulating prices, providing merchants with straitjackets in which to operate. Those were not his words, but that was what he meant.

Mr. Hollister remarked that incomes have shrunk, but not the desire to buy goods. That desire, on which return of prosperity depends, should be encouraged, and the way to encourage buying, with money scarce, is to make prices as reasonable as possible.

THAT IS AS plain as Pike's Peak on a clear day. If the ancient Greeks had ruled in their Olympic games: "Young ladies and gentlemen must all run side by side, it is forbidden for one to run faster than the other," that person from Marathon would have arrived several hours later than he did.

GERMANY, ACCORDING to a Paris report, will have in 1935 a military force of 5,500,000 men, ready on few days' notice to march toward the French frontier.

Five and a half million men would make a big army.

Five and a half million rabbits would also make a big army.

And men, marching on the ground, with or without the goose step, will not be important in future wars. What a few eagles could do to 5,500,000 rabbits, a few airplanes will do to any collection of marching soldiers.

The question is, how many fighting planes will Germany have in 1935 and will anybody be foolish enough to release them against foreign cities, knowing how foreign planes would retaliate?

SOME IN BRITAIN and Japan are agitated by rumors that the United States will extend its fortified zones in the Pacific Ocean." Great Britain is fortifying Singapore with energy, establishing there a fighting base as useful in controlling Asia as a policeman's gun pointed at the stomach of a criminal.

But, that Uncle Sam should fortify Guam, establishing there, as he should do, a great air base, with another in the Philippines, seems quite unthinkable, in Europe.

What right, Europe asks, has the United States to display international intelligence instead of continuing to receive instructions from other countries, as we did at the Washington conference?

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 23.—Mike Gerbich, Lowber coal miner, stood exonerated today in the hatchet slaying of Sam Vidujewich, at Lowber on October 27, 1929.

The defendant, who disappeared after the killing and was located two months ago in Gary, Ind., was acquitted late last night by a jury in Westmoreland county court. He was charged with having hacked Vidujevich to death with a hatchet following a quarrel.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 23.—On the recommendation of a jury that found him guilty of killing his landlady, Robert Frye, 25, today faced life imprisonment.

The decision, returned after six hours deliberation, marked the second time Frye had been convicted of killing the landlady, Mrs. Mae Clemens. After the first trial, the defendant's attorneys appealed successfully for a new trial on the ground that he was a mental incompetent.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 23.—Although inauguration day is more than a month away, Governor-elect George H. Earle has already been deluged with literally hundreds of requests for jobs from Democrats throughout the state.

Few if any governors in recent years have been subjected to the terrific patronage pressure which manifested itself almost from the very moment Earle was conceded victory, in the opinion of political observers.

The steady flow of job requests was believed to have motivated Earle's early apopintment of David L. Lawrence, Democratic state chairman, as secretary of the commonwealth. A large part of the work of scrutinizing applications for state positions and the qualifications of the applicants was expected to fall on Lawrence's shoulders.

First Time In 44 Years.

The great rush for jobs was believed to have resulted in part from the fact that Democrats for the first time in 44 years are now in control of the state government and from Earle's campaign pledge to cut all "Mellon-Grundy political hacks" from the state payroll.

After 44 lean years, the Democratic administration now has about 3,000 jobs at the state capitol and about 15,000 more in state institutions throughout the commonwealth at its disposal. Only the auditor general's department and the treasury, both headed by Republican incumbents with two more years to serve, seem safe for G. O. P. followers although the public service commission is also considered in this category.

Here's A Mare's Nest.
Saint Alexander.
Old Men, Mark.
100 Mayors, One Problem.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

GEN. SMEDLEY D. BUTLER, of the United States Marines, gives names and addresses of gentlemen in Wall Street who, he says, asked him to march on Washington with 500,000 war veterans, and form a dictatorship, a la Mussolini-Stalin-Kemal Pasha-Hitler. Those wicked, bad and outrageous Wall Street men were prepared to make it worth the general's while.

But Gen. Butler spurned them, "and how," according to his friends, who suggest that Gen. Johnson, formerly of NRA, was selected for the United States dictatorship.

When Gen. Johnson was questioned about that, his language did not desert him. Said he:

"He had better be pretty damn careful. If anybody said a word to me about dictatorship, I'd throw him out of the window."

Somebody may have been deceiving Gen. Butler.

In any case, we are a long way from dictatorship here. Wall Street brand, or any other brand. And of all localities, under the Stars and Stripes, Wall Street would have most to fear from dictatorship.

AUTHORITIES of the Serbian Orthodox Church have decided to canonize King Alexander, recently murdered, because, having died "a martyr to the nation," he deserves to be included among the saints. The Serbian newspeper, "Varda," shows a picture of Christ "welcoming Alexander to sit at his right hand in the Kingdom of Heaven."

Many saints are in heaven, some that, unlike King Alexander, lived in poverty and humility and never shipped millions to other countries, as Alexander did.

Which of those well-established saints, some of them in Heaven more than a thousand years, will have to make way for the new Serbian saint? Merely being shot would seem too easy a way of securing so glorious a seat for all eternity.

OLD MEN are invited to rejoice at this news:

Dr. Wilder D. Brancroft, teacher of chemistry at Cornell University, says:

"Small doses of sodium rhodanate will prolong life at least two years."

The National Academy of Sciences discussed that statement. Some doubted the wisdom of "prolonging life for the average man." They had in mind, perhaps, the sad lines:

"When he is forsaken,
Withered and shaken,
What can an old man do but die?"

In that condition, he certainly does not want to swallow rhodanate and go on living.

Of all nature's kindnesses, death is the greatest, ending disappointment, wiping out debt, forgiving failure, offering another chance. Sodium rhodanate is for men that are certain that they have a useful job, and are attened ing to it.

MAYOR LAGUARDIA, of New York, and more than one hundred other American mayors, are in Chicago, asking each other:

"What should we do and where can we get the money to do it?"

They all have the same problem, MONEY.

Every important city needs public works. Improvements have been neglected during the depression. But city credits are low, or nil. Bankers, frightened, naturally ask how they are to be paid, and the national government says:

"We shall lend, but you must pay with interest."

CITIES, OVER a period of 33 years, could easily pay back WITHOUT interest, or with nominal one-eighth of one per cent interest, to save the face of conservatism. But new ideas are always feared.

The French printed too many assignats, Germany printed too many marks, and, of course, the United States could not resist the temptation to print too many dollars.

All of which is nonsense. The country should print and spend what money it needs, without insisting on the pawnbroker policy of interest uncalled for, that doubles the amount finally paid.

This government, that owes twenty-seven billion dollars now, will pay, with interest, fifty-four billion dollars. A $1,000 government bond on yellow paper is worth as much as $1,000 of government currency on green paper, and no more. The only value in each case is the government's name.

MR. PAUL HOLLISTER, executive vice president for this writer's active young friend, Percy S. Straus, tells the Association of National Advertisers at Atlantic City that it is a mistake to hamstring enterprise by regulating prices, providing merchants with straitjackets in which to operate. Those were not his words, but that was what he meant.

Mr. Hollister remarked that incomes have shrunk, but not the desire to buy goods. That desire, on which return of prosperity depends, should be encouraged, and the way to encourage buying, with money scarce, is to make prices as reasonable as possible.

THAT IS AS plain as Pike's Peak on a clear day. If the ancient Greeks had ruled in their Olympic games: "Young ladies and gentlemen must all run side by side, it is forbidden for one to run faster than the other," that person from Marathon would have arrived several hours later than he did.

GERMANY, ACCORDING to a Paris report, will have in 1935 a military force of 5,500,000 men, ready on few days' notice to march toward the French frontier.

Five and a half million men would make a big army.

Five and a half million rabbits would also make a big army.

And men, marching on the ground, with or without the goose step, will not be important in future wars. What a few eagles could do to 5,500,000 rabbits, a few airplanes will do to any collection of marching soldiers.

The question is, how many fighting planes will Germany have in 1935 and will anybody be foolish enough to release them against foreign cities, knowing how foreign planes would retaliate?

SOME IN BRITAIN and Japan are agitated by rumors that the United States will extend its fortified zones in the Pacific Ocean." Great Britain is fortifying Singapore with energy, establishing there a fighting base as useful in controlling Asia as a policeman's gun pointed at the stomach of a criminal.

But, that Uncle Sam should fortify Guam, establishing there, as he should do, a great air base, with another in the Philippines, seems quite unthinkable, in Europe.

What right, Europe asks, has the United States to display international intelligence instead of continuing to receive instructions from other countries, as we did at the Washington conference?

Republican State Officials To End Duties

Most Of Pinchot Cabinet Will Return To Private Work Or Practice

By G. EVERETT DOYING
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Nov. 23.—Half a dozen or more professions and businesses will absorb departmental chiefs of the Pinchot administration next year when the Democratic forces take over capitol hill, a survey by International News Service disclosed today.

Lawyers' shingles will be hung up by several cabinet officials, five of whom were recruits from the ranks of the bar. The farm, the mines, the financial world and surgery each will call one department head.

Unemployed Problem

Not all departmental secretaries know exactly what the new year will bring. Several of them share the attitude of secretary of labor and industry Charlotte E. Carr who said succinctly:

"Next year? I think I'll probably be engaged in a personal study of the unemployment situation."

Gov. Gifford Pinchot has not yet indicated what he intends to do upon retiring from the executive mansion on January 15 although many of his friends believe he plans to go to Washington and keep abreast of current happenings in the country.

Lieut. Governor Edward C. Shannon may retain his post as commander of the Pennsylvania National Guard for another four years, augmenting his military activity with that of running his shirt factory in Columbia.

Many Will Stay

The other elective state officials do not leave office in January. Terms of both fiscal department chiefs expire in May, 1937.

Over in the offices of Secretary of Internal affairs Phillip H. Dewey he and his staff are planning to "hole in" for the winter, in the words of one employe, by "throwing another Logue (log) on the fire and staying until May."

Thomas A. Logue, the secretary of internal affairs-elect, does not take office until May, 1935.

The term of Dr. James N. Rule, superintendent of public instruction, likewise does not expire until May and inasmuch as this position is not considered a political plum he may continue in office after that time.

Many Are Attorneys

The attorneys now heading departments are Attorney General William A. Schnader, secretaries John J. Owens, of the state department: Leon D. Metzger, of revenue: Sam S. Lewis, of Highways and adjutant general David J. Davis.

Schnader, unsuccessful Republican opponent of Governor-elect George H. Earle, Owens and Metzger all plan to return to the practice of law, in Philadelphia, Scranton and Harrisburg respectively. Owens probably will continue to mix in politics in Lackawanna county. Metzger expects to continue teaching at Dickinson College.

Secretary of Banking William D. Gordon said he plans to take a financial position with some private concern, probably in Philadelphia. Mrs. Alice F. Liveright, secretary of welfare, may also return to Philadelphia.

Returns To Farm

More work on his farm at Furniss and renewed activity in the prohibition cause is the future charted for himself by secretary of agriculture John A. McSparran, candidate for governor in 1922 and 1934.

Remodeling work is understood to have already been started on the new offices to be occupied next year by Dr. Theodore B. Appel, secretary of health, and his son, in Lancaster. Dr. Appel practiced medicine and surgery in Lancaster for many years before coming to Harrisburg under former Gov. John S. Fisher.

Secretary of Mines Walter Glasgow expects to hunt around for a technical mining position while Secretary of Forests and Waters Lewis E. Staley, who has been on the state payroll since 1906 with the exception of three years in the late 20's, expects to continue in his profession somewhere.

Poses As A Man To Find Husband

(International News Service)

BUCHAREST—A young and attractive wife's masquerade as a man for nine months while searching for her missing husband was revealed in a police raid on a cafe.

She is Marusia Smaiul. After her husband deserted her more than a year ago, a fortune-teller told her she would find him if she dressed as a man and went into the thieves dens in the lowest quarter of the port of Braila.

For nine months she moved among the most disreputable dives, scrutinising every new face.

Her story was revealed when she underwent a police examination after a raid on one of these haunts. Though they detained 50 suspects for further investigation, they allowed Marusia to go so that she might continue her search.

Business Should Display Increase

Steady Upward Trend Of Business In 1935 Will Be Accompanied By Higher Wages

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 23.—With the mental attitude of business leaders the only doubtful factor, general business should gain about eight per cent in volume during the first six months of next year, Leonard M. Spangenberg, staff economist of Babson Reports, Inc., predicted before the Chamber of Commerce here today.

The steady upward trend will be marked by a corresponding increase in wages and commodity prices, and will be reflected in the stock and bond markets, as well as real estate rentals, the economist declared.

Doubts Experimentation

He expressed doubt that President Roosevelt would interpret the Democratic election victory as a mandate for further experimentation.

Henry H. Stafford, Babson commodity expert, pointed out that demand and supply should exert a greater influence on prices as price-fixing under codes is removed. Developments in Washington will determine the speed of price increases, he added.

Love Cheater Is Caught At Polls

(International News Service)

ROCKVILLE, Md.—On the last registration day here a woman voter appeared, gave her name and then was asked what party she was affiliated with.

Abruptly she turned and fled from the booth.

Asked later why she had not registered, she said:

"When they asked me what party I was affiliated with, his wife was standing right behind me."

PIED PIPERS PAID 20 CENTS A HEAD IN ANTI-RAT WAR

(International News Service)

BUCHAREST.—Bucharest is enlisting pied pipers to lure away the millions of rats pestering the city.

The tearing down of numerous old buildings in a program of improvement has sent rats wandering about, looking for new quarters. Late at night dense packs of rodents cross the Calea Victoriei, Bucharest's Broadway, and many a woman in evening dress is frightened out of her wits by the gruesome nocturnal processions of homeless rats.

To assist in ending the plague, the Rumanian association of dog breeders has organized rat catching contests and a special arena has been built for this new sport. The equivalent of 20 cents is paid for each live rat brought to the arena as a sacrifice to the dogs.

Thus, Rumania's canine species are trained in the noble sport of rat-catching while hundreds of jobless have found employment.

BUCHAREST—A young and attractive wife's masquerade as a man for nine months while searching for her missing husband was revealed in a police raid on a cafe.

She is Marusia Smaiul. After her husband deserted her more than a year ago, a fortune-teller told her she would find him if she dressed as a man and went into the thieves dens in the lowest quarter of the port of Braila.

For nine months she moved among the most disreputable dives, scrutinising every new face.

Her story was revealed when she underwent a police examination after a raid on one of these haunts. Though they detained 50 suspects for further investigation, they allowed Marusia to go so that she might continue her search.

Business Should Display Increase

Steady Upward Trend Of Business In 1935 Will Be Accompanied By Higher Wages

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 23.—With the mental attitude of business leaders the only doubtful factor, general business should gain about eight per cent in volume during the first six months of next year, Leonard M. Spangenberg, staff economist of Babson Reports, Inc., predicted before the Chamber of Commerce here today.

The steady upward trend will be marked by a corresponding increase in wages and commodity prices, and will be reflected in the stock and bond markets, as well as real estate rentals, the economist declared.

Doubts Experimentation

He expressed doubt that President Roosevelt would interpret the Democratic election victory as a mandate for further experimentation.

Henry H. Stafford, Babson commodity expert, pointed out that demand and supply should exert a greater influence on prices as price-fixing under codes is removed. Developments in Washington will determine the speed of price increases, he added.

Love Cheater Is Caught At Polls

(International News Service)

ROCKVILLE, Md.—On the last registration day here a woman voter appeared, gave her name and then was asked what party she was affiliated with.

Abruptly she turned and fled from the booth.

Asked later why she had not registered, she said:

PIED PIPERS PAID 20 CENTS A HEAD IN ANTI-RAT WAR

(International News Service)

BUCHAREST.—Bucharest is enlisting pied pipers to lure away the millions of rats pestering the city.

The tearing down of numerous old buildings in a program of improvement has sent rats wandering about, looking for new quarters. Late at night dense packs of rodents cross the Calea Victoriei, Bucharest's Broadway, and many a woman in evening dress is frightened out of her wits by the gruesome nocturnal processions of homeless rats.

To assist in ending the plague, the Rumanian association of dog breeders has organized rat catching contests and a special arena has been built for this new sport. The equivalent of 20 cents is paid for each live rat brought to the arena as a sacrifice to the dogs.

Thus, Rumania's canine species are trained in the noble sport of rat-catching while hundreds of jobless have found employment.

Democrats By Hundreds Apply

After 44 Lean Years Great Army Of State Democrats Seeks Jobs

TWO DEPARTMENTS STILL HELD BY G. O. P.

By SYDNEY H. EIGES
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 23.—Although inauguration day is more than a month away, Governor-elect George H. Earle has already been deluged with literally hundreds of requests for jobs from Democrats throughout the state.

Few if any governors in recent years have been subjected to the terrific patronage pressure which manifested itself almost from the very moment Earle was conceded victory, in the opinion of political observers.

The steady flow of job requests was believed to have motivated Earle's early apopintment of David L. Lawrence, Democratic state chairman, as secretary of the commonwealth. A large part of the work of scrutinizing applications for state positions and the qualifications of the applicants was expected to fall on Lawrence's shoulders.

First Time In 44 Years.

The great rush for jobs was believed to have resulted in part from the fact that Democrats for the first time in 44 years are now in control of the state government and from Earle's campaign pledge to cut all "Mellon-Grundy political hacks" from the state payroll.

After 44 lean years, the Democratic administration now has about 3,000 jobs at the state capitol and about 15,000 more in state institutions throughout the commonwealth at its disposal. Only the auditor general's department and the treasury, both headed by Republican incumbents with two more years to serve, seem safe for G. O. P. followers although the public service commission is also considered in this category.

Today

Here's A Mare's Nest.
Saint Alexander.
Old Men, Mark.
100 Mayors, One Problem.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

GEN. SMEDLEY D. BUTLER, of the United States Marines, gives names and addresses of gentlemen in Wall Street who, he says, asked him to march on Washington with 500,000 war veterans, and form a dictatorship, a la Mussolini-Stalin-Kemal Pasha-Hitler. Those wicked, bad and outrageous Wall Street men were prepared to make it worth the general's while.

But Gen. Butler spurned them, "and how," according to his friends, who suggest that Gen. Johnson, formerly of NRA, was selected for the United States dictatorship.

When Gen. Johnson was questioned about that, his language did not desert him. Said he:

"He had better be pretty damn careful. If anybody said a word to me about dictatorship, I'd throw him out of the window."

Somebody may have been deceiving Gen. Butler.

In any case, we are a long way from dictatorship here, Wall Street brand, or any other brand. And of all localities, under the Stars and Stripes, Wall Street would have most to fear from dictatorship.

AUTHORITIES of the Serbian Orthodox Church have decided to canonize King Alexander, recently murdered, because, having died "a martyr to the nation," he deserves to be included among the saints. The Serbian newspeper, "Varda," shows a picture of Christ "welcoming Alexander to sit at his right hand in the Kingdom of Heaven."

Many saints are in heaven, some that, unlike King Alexander, lived in poverty and humility and never shipped millions to other countries, as Alexander did.

Which of those well-established saints, some of them in Heaven more than a thousand years, will have to make way for the new Serbian saint? Merely being shot would seem too easy a way of securing so glorious a seat for all eternity.

OLD MEN are invited to rejoice at this news:

Dr. Wilder D. Bancroft, teacher of chemistry at Cornell University, says:

"Small doses of sodium rhodanate will prolong life at least two years."

The National Academy of Sciences discussed that statement. Some doubted the wisdom of "prolonging life for the average man." They had in mind, perhaps, the sad lines:

"When he is forsaken,
Withered and shaken,
What can an old man do but die?"

In that condition, he certainly does not want to swallow rhodanate and go on living.

Of all nature's kindnesses, death is the greatest, ending disappointment, wiping out debt, forgiving failure, offering another chance. Sodium rhodanate is for men that are certain that they have a useful job, and are attending to it.

MAYOR LAGUARDIA, of New York, and more than one hundred other American mayors, are in Chicago, asking each other:

"What should we do and where can we get the money to do it?"

They all have the same problem, MONEY.

Every important city needs public works. Improvements have been neglected during the depression. But city credits are low, or nil. Bankers, frightened, naturally ask how they are to be paid, and the national government says:

"We shall lend, but you must pay with interest."

CITIES, OVER a period of 33 years, could easily pay back WITHOUT interest, or with nominal one-eighth of one per cent interest, to save the face of conservatism. But new ideas are always feared.

The French printed too many assignats, Germany printed too many marks, and, of course, the United States could not resist the temptation to print too many dollars.

All of which is nonsense. The country should print and spend what money it needs, without insisting on the pawnbroker policy of interest uncalled for, that doubles the amount finally paid.

This government, that owes twenty-seven billion dollars now, will pay, with interest, fifty-four billion dollars. A $1,000 government bond on yellow paper is worth as much as $1,000 of government currency on green paper, and no more. The only value in each case is the government's name.

MR. PAUL HOLLISTER, executive vice president for this writer's active young friend, Percy S. Straus, tells the Association of National Advertisers at Atlantic City that it is a mistake to hamstring enterprise by regulating prices, providing merchants with straitjackets in which to operate. Those were not his words, but that was what he meant.

Mr. Hollister remarked that incomes have shrunk, but not the desire to buy goods. That desire, on which return of prosperity depends, should be encouraged, and the way to encourage buying, with money scarce, is to make prices as reasonable as possible.

THAT IS AS plain as Pike's Peak on a clear day. If the ancient Greeks had ruled in their Olympic games: "Young ladies and gentlemen must all run side by side, it is forbidden for one to run faster than the other," that person from Marathon would have arrived several hours later than he did.

GERMANY, ACCORDING to a Paris report, will have in 1935 a military force of 5,500,000 men, ready on few days' notice to march toward the French frontier.

Five and a half million men would make a big army.

Five and a half million rabbits would also make a big army.

And men, marching on the ground, with or without the goose step, will not be important in future wars. What a few eagles could do to 5,500,000 rabbits, a few airplanes will do to any collection of marching soldiers.

The question is, how many fighting planes will Germany have in 1935 and will anybody be foolish enough to release them against foreign cities, knowing how foreign planes would retaliate?

SOME IN BRITAIN and Japan are agitated by rumors that the United States will extend its fortified zones in the Pacific Ocean." Great Britain is fortifying Singapore with energy, establishing there a fighting base as useful in controlling Asia as a policeman's gun pointed at the stomach of a criminal.

But, that Uncle Sam should fortify Guam, establishing there, as he should do, a great air base, with another in the Philippines, seems quite unthinkable, in Europe.

What right, Europe asks, has the United States to display international intelligence instead of continuing to receive instructions from other countries, as we did at the Washington conference?

Life Sentence For Young Man At Greensburg

(International News Service)

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 23.—On the recommendation of a jury that found him guilty of killing his landlady, Robert Frye, 25, today faced life imprisonment.

The decision, returned after six hours deliberation, marked the second time Frye had been convicted of killing the landlady, Mrs. Mae Clemens. After the first trial, the defendant's attorneys appealed successfully for a new trial on the ground that he was a mental incompetent.

Bring Man Back On Bigamy Charge

Michael Georgeff of Cleveland, about 25 years of age was returned to New Castle Thursday night on a charge of bigamy. He was arraigned before Alderman L. C. Mantz, pleaded not guilty and waived a hearing. He will be tried in the December term of court.

Georgeff's story is that he married his first wife when he was but 18 years of age. After living with him six months he claims she left him and he saw nothing of her until this week. He had assumed he had been divorced and on September 1 came to New Castle and married again.

Benjamin Franklin was the first American to bring the game of chess into prominence, both as a player and a writer.

Republican State Officials To End Duties

Most Of Pinchot Cabinet Will Return To Private Work Or Practice

By G. EVERETT DOYING
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Nov. 23.—Half a dozen or more professions and businesses will absorb departmental chiefs of the Pinchot administration next year when the Democratic forces take over capitol hill, a survey by International News Service disclosed today.

Lawyers' shingles will be hung up by several cabinet officials, five of whom were recruits from the ranks of the bar. The farm, the mines, the financial world and surgery each will call one department head.

Unemployed Problem

Not all departmental secretaries know exactly what the new year will bring. Several of them share the attitude of secretary of labor and industry Charlotte E. Carr who said succinctly:

"Next year? I think I'll probably be engaged in a personal study of the unemployment situation."

Gov. Gifford Pinchot has not yet indicated what he intends to do upon retiring from the executive mansion on January 15 although many of his friends believe he plans to go to Washington and keep abreast of current happenings in the country.

Lieut. Governor Edward C. Shannon may retain his post as commander of the Pennsylvania National Guard for another four years, augmenting his military activity with that of running his shirt factory in Columbia.

Many Will Stay

The other elective state officials do not leave office in January. Terms of both fiscal department chiefs expire in May, 1937.

Over in the offices of Secretary of Internal affairs Phillip H. Dewey he and his staff are planning to "hole in" for the winter, in the words of one employe, by "throwing another Logue (log) on the fire and staying until May."

Thomas A. Logue, the secretary of internal affairs-elect, does not take office until May, 1935.

The term of Dr. James N. Rule, superintendent of public instruction, likewise does not expire until May and inasmuch as this position is not considered a political plum he may continue in office after that time.

Many Are Attorneys

The attorneys now heading departments are Attorney General William A. Schnader, secretaries John J. Owens, of the state department; Leon D. Metzger, of revenue; Sam S. Lewis, of Highways and adjutant general David J. Davis.

Schnader, unsuccessful Republican opponent of Governor-elect George H. Earle, Owens and Metzger all plan to return to the practice of law, in Philadelphia, Scranton and Harrisburg respectively. Owens probably will continue to mix in politics in Lackawanna county. Metzger expects to continue teaching at Dickinson College.

Secretary of Banking William D. Gordon said he plans to take a financial position with some private concern, probably in Philadelphia. Mrs. Alice F. Liveright, secretary of welfare, may also return to Philadelphia.

Returns To Farm

More work on his farm at Furniss and renewed activity in the prohibition cause is the future charted for himself by secretary of agriculture John A. McSparran, candidate for governor in 1922 and 1934.

Remodeling work is understood to have already been started on the new offices to be occupied next year by Dr. Theodore B. Appel, secretary of health, and his son, in Lancaster. Dr. Appel practiced medicine and surgery in Lancaster for many years before coming to Harrisburg under former Gov. John S. Fisher.

Secretary of Mines Walter Glasgow expects to hunt around for a technical mining position while Secretary of Forests and Waters Lewis E. Staley, who has been on the state payroll since 1906 with the exception of three years in the late 20's, expects to continue in his profession somewhere.

Poses As A Man To Find Husband

(International News Service)

BUCHAREST—A young and attractive wife's masquerade as a man for nine months while searching for her missing husband was revealed in a police raid on a cafe.

She is Marusia Smaiul. After her husband deserted her more than a year ago, a fortune-teller told her she would find him if she dressed as a man and went into the thieves dens in the lowest quarter of the port of Braila.

For nine months she moved among the most disreputable dives, scrutinising every new face.

Her story was revealed when she underwent a police examination after a raid on one of these haunts. Though they detained 50 suspects for further investigation, they allowed Marusia to go so that she might continue her search.

Business Should Display Increase

Steady Upward Trend Of Business In 1935 Will Be Accompanied By Higher Wages

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 23.—With the mental attitude of business leaders the only doubtful factor, general business should gain about eight per cent in volume during the first six months of next year, Leonard M. Spangenberg, staff economist of Babson Reports, Inc., predicted before the Chamber of Commerce here today.

The steady upward trend will be marked by a corresponding increase in wages and commodity prices, and will be reflected in the stock and bond markets, as well as real estate rentals, the economist declared.

Doubts Experimentation

He expressed doubt that President Roosevelt would interpret the Democratic election victory as a mandate for further experimentation.

Henry H. Stafford, Babson commodity expert, pointed out that demand and supply should exert a greater influence on prices as price-fixing under codes is removed. Developments in Washington will determine the speed of price increases, he added.

Love Cheater Is Caught At Polls

(International News Service)

ROCKVILLE, Md.—On the last registration day here a woman voter appeared, gave her name and then was asked what party she was affiliated with.

Abruptly she turned and fled from the booth.

Asked later why she had not registered, she said:

"When they asked me what party I was affiliated with, his wife was standing right behind me."

PIED PIPERS PAID 20 CENTS A HEAD IN ANTI-RAT WAR

(International News Service)

BUCHAREST.—Bucharest is enlisting pied pipers to lure away the millions of rats pestering the city.

The tearing down of numerous old buildings in a program of improvement has sent rats wandering about, looking for new quarters. Late at night dense packs of rodents cross the Calea Victoriei, Bucharest's Broadway, and many a woman in evening dress is frightened out of her wits by the gruesome nocturnal processions of homeless rats.

To assist in ending the plague, the Rumanian association of dog breeders has organized rat catching contests and a special arena has been built for this new sport. The equivalent of 20 cents is paid for each live rat brought to the arena as a sacrifice to the dogs.

Thus, Rumania's canine species are trained in the noble sport of rat-catching while hundreds of jobless have found employment.

33,000 Acres Of Kentucky Caves In New U. S. Park

(International News Service)

FRANKFORD, Ky.—Responsibility for establishment of a national park at Mammoth Cave in Edmonson, Hart and Barren counties now rests in the hands of the federal government.

Nalm, chairman of the Kentucky National Park Commission, formally transferring the land to the federal government. George A. Moskey, assistant director and legal officer of the National Park Service accepted the deeds in behalf of the federal government.

In addition, the Kentucky National Park Commission and the Mammoth Cave Association jointly turned over to the federal government $93,050.45 for further improvement of the park.

HAVANA—Charged with extorting money from local merchants, A. O. Amanaguer, 27, and Luis Martinez, 29, members of the KKKK (Klu Klux Klan Kubano) were jailed by national police. They vigorously deny the charges, claiming they are authorized representatives of the Ku Klux Klan of the United States.

Margaret Jean Dodd Munsell, Reveals Once Wealthy Husband Now In "Flop-House"

(International News Service)

SWANS ISLAND, Me., Nov. 23.—Living on this peaceful island in a colonial cottage, Margaret Jean Dodd Munsell, today blamed "delayed adolescence" for the act of her husband, Alexander Ector Orr Munsell, in giving away a million dollars.

Munsell is now an inmate of a New York City "flop-house" and is seeking work after turning over his million dollar fortune for the "benefit of mankind."

Acts Were Secret

Declaring that her husband's acts of charity would have been forever a secret as far as she was concerned if he had not told the world himself, the wife said:

It is quite possible that my point of view is feminine and maternal, but I consider it normal. My husband thought more of humanity than he did of his family."

Mrs. Munsell denied she had any idea of divorcing her husband.

Mystery Murder Of Aged Recluse Still Unsolved

State Police Dogging Trail Of Assassin Who Shot Old Tim Day

NO MOTIVE IS KNOWN FOR CRIME

(International News Service)

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Nov. 23.—Through the wild hills north of here Pennsylvania State police still are dogging the trail of the man who murdered Old Tim Day in his isolated farm home.

Like the Royal Mounted of the cold northwest officers of the picturesque constabulary will never rest until they have "got their man." Already they know a great deal about him.

They know what kind of a gun he used when he crept up with stealthy tread the evening of March 29 to take deliberate aim and speed a bullet into the head of the aged recluse as he sat, framed in a kitchen window, reading his daily paper.

They know there's a motive more sinister than robbery. For the man who fired the fatal shot never crossed the threshhold of the home of the dead Tim Day.

There's a dark hint of hexeral, although the gray-garbed officers discount this theory. But among the scattered neighbors of Day who till Rocky Mountain farms old superstitions still hold sway.

It was young William Wright, a farm boy who attends high school in the village of Liberty a dozen miles away, who discovered the murder of Tim Day. Young Wright all last winter tended a trap line for fur-bearing animals and at least once each day passed near the old man's home.

It was on a Thursday morning that Young William Wright last saw the recluse alive. On the following Friday and Saturday, according to the story he told police, there was no sign of the old man and no smoke curled from the chimney.

Sunday morning, having more time than on school days, young Wright went to the home to investigate.

On the floor of the kitchen he found Tim Day dead at the foot of his chair. Crumbled in his rigid hands was a newspaper he had been reading when death struck unexpectedly.

The paper in Tim Day's dead hands established the time of his death. The hole in the window and the bullet in his head told how he had died. But there were no clues to tell why or by whom he had been shot down as he sat peacefully reading after completing his day's work.

The police know that the silent hills hold many secrets. Who murdered Old Tim Day is one of them.

But some time, somewhere, always unrelenting they believe they will "get their man."

Abolishes Guillotine As King Protests

(International News Service)

BANGKOK, Siam, Nov. 23.—Shooting is to replace decapitation as the death penalty in Siam, and executions will be private.

In former days executions took place in public, close to a "wat" or temple. The condemned man, who appeared to be drugged, sat cross-legged on the ground. As the taking of life is contrary to the Buddhist religion, the executioner was supposed to be intoxicated and approached his victim dancing and making wild gestures, brandishing his huge, sharp sword.

Differences over revision of the laws governing capital punishment precipitated the crisis which caused the King to preserve the ancient law making the King's consent necessary before executions could be carried out.

Abolishes Guillotine As King Protests

(International News Service)

BANGKOK, Siam, Nov. 23.—Shooting is to replace decapitation as the death penalty in Siam, and executions will be private.

In former days executions took place in public, close to a "wat" or temple. The condemned man, who appeared to be drugged, sat cross-legged on the ground. As the taking of life is contrary to the Buddhist religion, the executioner was supposed to be intoxicated and approached his victim dancing and making wild gestures, brandishing his huge, sharp sword.

Differences over revision of the laws governing capital punishment precipitated the crisis which caused the King to preserve the ancient law making the King's consent necessary before executions could be carried out.

Million Given To Charity, Man Now Seeks Work

Margaret Jean Dodd Munsell, Reveals Once Wealthy Husband Now In "Flop-House"

(International News Service)

SWANS ISLAND, Me., Nov. 23.—Living on this peaceful island in a colonial cottage, Margaret Jean Dodd Munsell, today blamed "delayed adolescence" for the act of her husband, Alexander Ector Orr Munsell, in giving away a million dollars.

Munsell is now an inmate of a New York City "flop-house" and is seeking work after turning over his million dollar fortune for the "benefit of mankind."

Acts Were Secret

Declaring that her husband's acts of charity would have been forever a secret as far as she was concerned if he had not told the world himself, the wife said:

"I don't want to appear critical. I don't want to question the actions of my husband. But Alexander never seemed to share my ideas on certain phases of life. It is quite possible that my point of view is feminine and maternal, but I consider it normal. My husband thought more of humanity than he did of his family."

Mrs. Munsell denied she had any idea of divorcing her husband.

Counterfeiting Ring Is Active

East Is Being Flooded With $10.00 Notes Of Almost Perfect Reproduction

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Treasury officials reported today a new counterfeiting ring is flooding the east with almost perfect reproductions of $10 federal reserve notes. The operators are believed to be working independent of the gang whose headquarters at Tenafly, N. J., was raided a few days ago.

The $10 notes are a reproduction of federal reserve notes of the federal reserve bank of Kansas City, they compare with the finest counterfeits ever turned out in the United States. Only a variation in the shades that tint the portrait of Alexander Hamilton on the note's face gives away the fake.

Fire Threatens Farm Buildings

Farmers Battle Blaze Of Serious Proportions In Union Township

Farmers residing near the Union township-North Beaver township line, battled a grass fire of serious proportions about 7:30 last evening, and finally succeeded in getting the blaze under control. Spread by a high wind, the blaze threatened farm buildings, but as far as can be learned no buildings were destroyed.

Close to a hundred farmers of the district participated in the battle against the blaze, which was visible for a considerable distance and attracted much attention. Later in the evening a drenching downpour ended all danger to property, effectively quenching the blaze where it still smouldered in spots.

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Matthew 25:21—"Well done, good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will set thee over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Nov. 25 is Matthew 25: 14-30 the Golden Text being verse 21 "Well done, good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will set thee over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy Lord.")

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

The important part of "Geniuses" is "uses." Geniuses are not abnormal freaks of nature: they only make use of their abilities. There is no aristocracy of ability. Longfellow explains their rise thus, "They, while their companions slept were toiling upward in the night."

Jesus applied this rule to the kingdom of heaven in his parable of the talents, saying, "it is as when a man, going into another country, called his own servants, and delivered unto them his goods. And unto one he gave five talents, to another two, to another one: to each according to his several ability; and he went on his journey." God's gifts are not equally distributed. But their distribution is more in accord with out ability and willingness to use them than we are sometimes willing to admit. In general, if not in particular instances, the rule still applies: "According to his several ability." Even in the face of inequalities in distribution men may still make equally good use of unequal endowments. Both the five-talent man and the two-talent man made the same proportionate improvement of their endowments, and received from their master the identical commendation: "Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will set thee over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." It was not ability the master appreciated and rewarded it was application, diligence and faithfulness.

The Abuse of Talents

The five talent man and the two-talent man made report of their efficient and faithful stewardship in but fourteen words: "Lord, thou deliveredst unto me five talents; lo, I have gained another five talents." But the unfaithful servant used three times as many words to frame the alibi for his indifference and slothfulness, even venturing to condemn his master in his futile self-defense: "Lord, I knew thee that thou are a hard man, reaping where thou didst not scatter: and I was afraid, and went away and hid thy talent in the earth; lo, thou hast thine own." What an alibi for unfaithfulness! But how futile, by verbose explanations and abuse of others, to try to defend, and cover up our own unfaithfulness. How typical this is, too, of the source of rancid criticism of the church and of every good cause. Too often it is a smoke screen to hide one's own unfaithfulness. But judgement came, as come it must upon this spirit: "Thou wicked and slothful servant..Take away the talent from him, and give it unto him that hath the ten talents. For unto everyone that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance; but from him that hath not, even that which he hath shall be taken away. And cast ye the unprofitable servant into the outer darkness. Faithfulness brings ever increasing rewards, while unfaithfulness in little or in much brings atrophy, decay and loss of unimproved talents.

Water Level At Dam Reaches May Stage

GREENVILLE, Nov. 23.—Now at a height of 995.44 feet above sea level, the Pymatuning reservoir today reached the level of last May, prior to the release of water for valley industries during the dry summer months.

Ralph E. Ferris, resident engineer at Jamestown, indicated that water would be flowing over the spillway, 1,008 feet above sea level before next summer, providing a normal rain and snow fall is experienced. This will necessitate a rise of less than 13 feet.

No water is being released, due to the height of the river, which reads 3.35 today.

Fire Threatens Farm Buildings

Farmers Battle Blaze Of Serious Proportions In Union Township

Farmers residing near the Union township-North Beaver township line, battled a grass fire of serious proportions about 7:30 last evening, and finally succeeded in getting the blaze under control. Spread by a high wind, the blaze threatened farm buildings, but as far as can be learned no buildings were destroyed.

Close to a hundred farmers of the district participated in the battle against the blaze, which was visible for a considerable distance and attracted much attention. Later in the evening a drenching downpour ended all danger to property, effectively quenching the blaze where it still smouldered in spots.

Mystery Murder Of Aged Recluse Still Unsolved

State Police Dogging Trail Of Assassin Who Shot Old Tim Day

NO MOTIVE IS KNOWN FOR CRIME

(International News Service)

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Nov. 23.—Through the wild hills north of here Pennsylvania State police still are dogging the trail of the man who murdered Old Tim Day in his isolated farm home.

Like the Royal Mounted of the cold northwest officers of the picturesque constabulary will never rest until they have "got their man." Already they know a great deal about him.

They know what kind of a gun he used when he crept up with stealthy tread the evening of March 29 to take deliberate aim and speed a bullet into the head of the aged recluse as he sat, framed in a kitchen window, reading his daily paper.

They know there's a motive more sinister than robbery. For the man who fired the fatal shot never crossed the threshhold of the home of the dead Tim Day.

There's a dark hint of hexerai, although the gray-garbed officers discount this theory. But among the scattered neighbors of Day who till Rocky Mountain farms old superstitions still hold sway.

It was young William Wright, a farm boy who attends high school in the village of Liberty a dozen miles away, who discovered the murder of Tim Day. Young Wright all last winter tended a trap line for fur-bearing animals and at least once each day passed near the old man's home.

It was on a Thursday morning that Young William Wright last saw the recluse alive. On the following Friday and Saturday, according to the story he told police, there was no sign of the old man and no smoke curled from the chimney.

Sunday morning, having more time than on school days, young Wright went to the home to investigate.

On the floor of the kitchen he found Tim Day dead at the foot of his chair. Crumbled in his rigid hands was a newspaper he had been reading when death struck unexpectedly.

The paper in Tim Day's dead hands established the time of his death. The hole in the window and the bullet in his head told how he had died. But there were no clues to tell why or by whom he had been shot down as he sat peacefully reading after completing his day's work.

The police know that the silent hills hold many secrets. Who murdered Old Tim Day is one of them.

But some time, somewhere, always unrelenting they believe they will "get their man."

Abolishes Guillotine As King Protests

(International News Service)

BANGKOK, Siam, Nov. 23.—Shooting is to replace decapitation as the death penalty in Siam, and executions will be private.

In former days executions took place in public, close to a "wat" or temple. The condemned man, who appeared to be drugged, sat cross-legged on the ground. As the taking of life is contrary to the Buddhist religion, the executioner was supposed to be intoxicated and approached his victim dancing and making wild gestures, brandishing his huge, sharp sword.

Differences over revision of the laws governing capital punishment precipitated the crisis which caused the King to preserve the ancient law making the King's consent necessary before executions could be carried out.

John Charles Thomas Thrills His Audience

Satisfactory as they may be, the radio and the screen can never hope to replace flesh and blood appearances of stars of the entertainment world successfully. A thousand people proved this to their own satisfaction Thursday night, November 22, in the Cathedral, when John Charles Thomas appeared in a song recital.

To the music lover his concert was like a feast of good things after a protracted famine. Not in some time has there been a really fine singer appear in concert here and happily Mr. Thomas piled the plate high and then gave out a second helping. He is the complete artist, his personality and voice seem to reach out over the footlights and simply hold the audience until the last golden note had gone.

More Than A Success

The recital was more than just a success, it was a triumph for Mr. Thomas insofar as New Castle is concerned. Big and round and mellow his tones welled up and out in a cascade of melody that was sheer delight. Few singers there are who sing as easily and as smoothly as he does. Apparently it is no effort and long sustained passages he makes appear ridiculously easy. To it add a dramatic ability that enhanced the melody if anything could have been done to add to that voice of his.

He opened with a group of songs in the German (with one exception.) A group of numbers not as tuneful as his succeeding groups but more difficult of presentation. His second group was one of French songs, lighter, more vivacious, more colorful. He closed with a group in English. To many the recital was a success if only for the encores. He sang the "Toreador" song from Carmen and for a spell the auditorium was transplanted to Spain and the stage became an arena, so magic was his spell. Other encores included "Annie Laurie," "Home On the Range," "I Love Life" and several others. He would have sung the rest of the night had time permitted but he had to bring the program to a conclusion in order to get a 10:42 train.

Accompanist Pleases

Carroll Hollister, who accompanied Mr. Thomas is more than just an accompanist. He is part of the song and his skill adds no little to the success of the vocalist. He presented three piano numbers himself to the delight of the crowd. His technique is clean and sharp and precise and over and above all he used no score all evening either for his own numbers or the numbers he accompanied.

It is to be hoped the sponsors of the recital came out whole on the venture. They deserved a better fate insofar as the size of the crowd was concerned for the John Charles Thomas recital brought happiness and delight to every one who attended it.

Fortune In Million Cattle Gone In Two Generations

(International News Service)

SAN JOSE, Cal. Nov. 23.— The last heir to a name once famous throughout the west, in the pioneer cattle firm of Miller and Lux Charles Lux victim of infantile paralysis is dead, after a 51-day struggle for life in a respirator.

Never, to the end did he lose courage or fail to smile although he knew he was to die and was practically penniless. He whose family had once ruled an empire. In spirit he carried on the tradition of a man who rose from the position of humble butcher in San Francisco to lord of a domain on which the "sun never set."

In 1852, Charles Lux, the first went into partnership with a sub-by little German butcher boy Henry Miller, who made his start selling weenies on the streets of San Francisco. Thirty-five years later, on Lux's death, they ran a million head of cattle over three million acres of their own land.

So vast were their holdings that they estimated the area by square miles instead of acres and could drive cattle from the Mexican border to the Canadian line and bivouac each night in a cow camp, on their own possessions.

Their brand, the triple bar cross, was known around the world and either partner could draw a check for a half million dollars and have it cashed without question.

For years they had an informal arrangement between them which left the account open to both. The story is told that at one time, their balance showed $500,000 in cash which Lux thought it advisable to put into some other investment. Miller who had undying confidence in western land, drew the lot overnight, and reported to his partner the next day, "now there's no longer that money to bother you. Instead we own fifty square miles more of good California land."

In two generations a fortune that once embraced the largest holdings ever under the control of one firm, has vanished. The Lux estate, for 13 years paid a legal retainer of $1000 a month alone; changed times the decline of the cattle industry, and the death of the heroic pioneer visionaries have done the rest.

But on his death young Charles showed the same high spirit that has marked the breed, for, in his last hours with every breath a dying agony he dictated a message of courage to his mother, to be opened after his death.

"It is for you I have fought these eight long weeks," the dying boy wrote. "Don't lose faith, but go on without me dearest mother. I stop, for the pain hurts so. God be with you, for you are close to God. Your son, Charles Lux."

SAYS INDO-VIN IS WONDERFUL

A "Godsend" To This Lady's Health; Had Stomach and Kidney Affliction.

Mrs. Josephine Favorite, of Fairbanks, Pa., has now come forward with her REMARKABLE statement praising the new, scientific mixture of Extracts from Medical Plants, known as Indo-Vin, which is now being introduced to the public daily here in the city of New Castle at Eckerd's Drug Store.

Mrs. Favorite

Following is this widely-known lady's statement: "For a period of YEARS I had been almost a 'wreck in health'", said Mrs. Favorite. "Everything that I ate would disagree with me and turn sour and form regular loads of gas inside of me and bloat up my stomach organs so that I could hardly stand it. Then my kidneys simply kept me in CONSTANT misery too, in fact, I was so stiff and sore in my back when I got up in the mornings that I could hardly EVEN WALK, and I had to keep rising with my kidneys all night long, which broke up my sleep and rest. My bowels were always constipated and I had to keep taking physics.

"My condition was awful and Indo-Vin was the first medicine in YEARS that had any effect on me, and it has worked the misery out of my whole body. It has put a complete stop to all the gas misery and awful bloating spells I used to have. My kidneys are normal now. They don't get me up at nights like they used to, and it put an end to the sharp pains in my back and the soreness and misery across my kidneys is gone. It has a wonderful action on my bowels and regulated them perfectly. I am GLAD to endorse this medicine, for it deserves anybody's praise."

Indo-Vin is now being introduced to the public daily here in New Castle at Eckerd's Drug Store and sold by every good druggist in all the nearby towns throughout this whole section.

City Rising In Arctic Where Nights Are 3-Months Long

(International News Service)

MOSCOW—Dickson Island, far north in the Artic where it is night all winter long, has been chosen by the Soviet government as an industrial center.

A new port is being built capable of harboring the biggest ships which ply in Arctic waters, a powerful wireless station is being installed and a power plant built to provide electricity to light the settlement 24 hours a day.

A city will be built and people will live there all the year around At present the island is inhabited by a skeleton corps of scientists and explorers who run the weather station and send reports with a small wireless set.

Also a big landing ground will be made so that regular air communication can be established.

All this is a step in the Soviet drive to "Conquer the Arctic" and "Make a Soviet Arctic," and provide Russia with a sea route to the Pacific.

The island will henceforth be one of the main stopping points of the Great Northern Sea route from the Baltic to the Pacific.

Despite its location in the deep Arctic, the climate of Dickson Island is more temperate than that of many parts of Russia further south.

Fire Threatens Farm Buildings

Farmers Battle Blaze Of Serious Proportions In Union Township

Farmers residing near the Union township-North Beaver township line, battled a grass fire of serious proportions about 7:30 last evening, and finally succeeded in getting the blaze under control. Spread by a high wind, the blaze threatened farm buildings, but as far as can be learned no buildings were destroyed.

Close to a hundred farmers of the district participated in the battle against the blaze, which was visible for a considerable distance and attracted much attention. Later in the evening a drenching downpour ended all danger to property, effectively quenching the blaze where it still smouldered in spots.

The program was in charge of the social chairman, who introduced the president of the club, John Brentin, who gave the address of welcome and then introduced the toastmaster of the evening, W. D. Cunningham of New Castle. A guitar duet, W. Lynch and W. D. Cunningham; T. Cunningham gave a short talk on the achievements of the club and Hugh A. Hannon, comedian, served the laughs. Rev. Pirulli talked on the impressions of the club on the church; Burgess Montgomery gave a short talk on the benefits of the town and several impromptu talks which included A. A. Shoup, chief of police; V. I. Mandich, clerk of Bessemer bank; Joseph Lagnese of the Hillsville club; J. V. "Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Matthew 25:21—"Well done, good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will set thee over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Nov. 25 is Matthew 25: 14-30 the Golden Text being verse 21 "Well done, good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will set thee over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy Lord.")

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

The important part of "Geniuses" is "uses." Geniuses are not abnormal freaks of nature: they only make use of their abilities. There is no aristocracy of ability. Longfellow explains their rise thus, "They, while their companions slept were toiling upward in the night."

Jesus applied this rule to the kingdom of heaven in his parable of the talents, saying, "it is as when a man, going into another country, called his own servants, and delivered unto them his goods. And unto one he gave five talents, to another two, to another one: to each according to his several ability; and he went on his journey." God's gifts are not equally distributed. But their distribution is more in accord with out ability and willingness to use them than we are sometimes willing to admit. In general, if not in particular instances, the rule still applies: "According to his several ability." Even in the face of inequalities in distribution men may still make equally good use of unequal endowments. Both the five-talent man and the two-talent man made the same proportionate improvement of their endowments, and received from their master the identical commendation: "Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will set thee over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." It was not ability the master appreciated and rewarded it was application, diligence and faithfulness.

The Abuse of Talents

The five talent man and the two-talent man made report of their efficient and faithful stewardship in but fourteen words: "Lord, thou deliveredst unto me five talents; lo, I have gained another five talents." But the unfaithful servant used three times as many words to frame the alibi for his indifference and slothfulness, even venturing to condemn his master in his futile self-defense: "Lord, I knew thee that thou are a hard man, reaping where thou didst not scatter: and I was afraid, and went away and hid thy talent in the earth; lo, thou hast thine own." What an alibi for unfaithfulness! But how futile, by verbose explanations and abuse of others, to try to defend, and cover up our own unfaithfulness. How typical this is, too, of the source of rancid criticism of the church and of every good cause. Too often it is a smoke screen to hide one's own unfaithfulness. But judgement came, as come it must upon this spirit: "Thou wicked and slothful servant..Take away the talent from him, and give it unto him that hath the ten talents. For unto everyone that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance; but from him that hath not, even that which he hath shall be taken away. And cast ye the unprofitable servant into the outer darkness. Faithfulness brings ever increasing rewards, while unfaithfulness in little or in much brings atrophy, decay and loss of unimproved talents.

Water Level At Dam Reaches May Stage

GREENVILLE, Nov. 23.—Now at a height of 995.44 feet above sea level, the Pymatuning reservoir today reached the level of last May, prior to the release of water for valley industries during the dry summer months.

Ralph E. Ferris, resident engineer at Jamestown, indicated that water would be flowing over the spillway, 1,008 feet above sea level before next summer, providing a normal rain and snow fall is experienced. This will necessitate a rise of less than 13 feet.

No water is being released, due to the height of the river, which reads 3.35 today.

New Castle Man Proves Self Hero

In Butler Hospital With Serious Injuries As Result Of Efforts

LEAPS ON CAR RUNNING WILD

Roger Dorcey, 23, of 312 North Beaver street, a truck driver, is in the Butler hospital today with a fractured arm and leg, but a lot of Butler school children are unharmed because of his heroism. Heedless of his own safety, Mr. Dorcey boarded a driverless car that was running down hill towards a group of children and as he attempted to bring the car under control, it swerved into a truck. In the crash Dorcey's arm and leg were fractured.

He was in Butler with his own truck on delivery work. As he was working on a hill street he noticed a group of children crossing. A moment later the careening car came speeding down the hill. Dorcey jumped onto the running board of the car and endeavored to stop it.

His injuries are painful but not necessarily critical. Had he not risked his own life there might have been a disaster that would have cost the lives of several of the Butler tots.

Further Arrests Expected As Result Of Fatal Pennsy Wreck Near McDonald

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 23.—Further arrests were expected today in connection with the fatal wreck of a Pennsylvania railroad flyer near McDonald October 21, following the apprehension and reported confession of Kenneth Smith, 24, Sturgeon negro.

Engineer Paul E. Black was killed and four others were injured when the train left the rails.

The day after the crash, railroad police announced that spikes had been pulled from the rails, permitting the tracks to spread under the weight of the train.

Smith was said to have confessed after a two hours' grilling in county detective headquarters.

Militarism Grips Japan

Huge Budget Is Submitted For Army And Navy Of Nation

(International News Service)

TOKIO, Nov. 23.—Militarism held sway in Japan today as the cabinet prepared to submit to the Diet a record budget of more than a billion yen—exceeding $300,000,000—for the army and navy.

The army estimate calls for 490,000,000 yen ($147,000,000) for 1934-35, and the navy's 530,000,000 yen ($159,000,000), for a total of 1,020,000,000 yen ($306,000,000).

Expenditures for the current year aggregated 938,000,000 yen ($281,400,000).

Other members of the cabinet yielded to War Minister Hayashi and Navy Minister Osumi's insistence that "we must take into consideration the threatening international situation" only after a heated session that lasted all night.

Lone Skeleton Guards Isle Of Hundred-Thousand Goats

(International News Service)

CALIENTE, Cal.—An abandoned island peopled solely by a hundred thousand goats, wild cats and strange sea monsters; where the wreck of a schooner that left its skeleton dead on the cliff is the only mark of man within a century—such an island is Guadalupe, 250 miles off the coast of Mexico, according to James Glenn, one of the few living men to have seen its inhospitable shores, and a resident of California since 1867.

Twenty years ago this month Glenn shipped out from San Diego aboard the three masted schooner, Mary Dodge, in charge of an expedition to the unknown island of Guadalupe. In his pocket he carried permission from the Mexican government to bring back 4,000 goats to be canned, in this country for war supplies—if he could.

"The moment we put ashore," said Glenn, 'we felt as if we were in a magic world. It was perfectly silent, only from the cliff's face a thousand eyes watched our approach. In keeping with the felling, we found on the beach a strange species of monster, half fish and half mammal, called the sea elephant, existing I am told, in no other waters in the world. From the front they looked like gigantic hogs without legs, but were scaly and had huge fins and tails. They played in and out of the water but towered ten feet high, a mountain of flesh as they lay on the sand.

"There was only one side of the island from which the top could be reached and as we ascended we drove thousands of goats before us. Once on top we found droves of cats that had gone wild a hundred years ago when the Mexican prison located there had been abandoned.

"We organized a drive ad herded our goats successfully aboard the schooner. Hundreds of the wild things preferred death to captivity and leapt down into the sea. It was not a pleasant sight nor shall I soon forget it.

'Before we set sail we explored the crest of the rocks, past the moulding ruins of the old fort, and there on a peak we found him. The skeleton of a man, prostrate and looking out towards the endless ocean. How long he had been there or why he was deserted no one will ever know."

They left him there where he could watch the sea, custodian of the goats and cats and weird sea monsters, for since that time no ship has visited his strange domain.

Delay In Starting Bridge Building

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Nov. 23—A months delay in the start of construction of the North avenue bridge over Wolf Creek is causing local residents considerable inconvenience, since the bridge has been closed to all but pedestrian traffic. Four weeks ago the bids were opened and the Reliance Steel Products Co. of Rankin, Pa., was the low bidder, but PWA officials have not given final approval to the project. Five Smaller bridges in this district were included in the opening of bids last month.

Local residents fear that bad weather will prevent the construction until next spring, and that the detour will be in effect all winter.

New Castle Man Proves Self Hero

LEAPS ON CAR RUNNING WILD

Roger Dorcey, 23, of 312 North Beaver street, a truck driver, is in the Butler hospital today with a fractured arm and leg, but a lot of Butler school children are unharmed because of his heroism. Heedless of his own safety, Mr. Dorcey boarded a driverless car that was running down hill towards a group of children and as he attempted to bring the car under control, it swerved into a truck. In the crash Dorcey's arm and leg were fractured.

He was in Butler with his own truck on delivery work. As he was working on a hill street he noticed a group of children crossing. A moment later the careening car came speeding down the hill. Dorcey jumped onto the running board of the car and endeavored to stop it.

His injuries are painful but not necessarily critical. Had he not risked his own life there might have been a disaster that would have cost the lives of several of the Butler tots.

Negro Confesses Train Wrecking

Further Arrests Expected As Result Of Fatal Pennsy Wreck Near McDonald

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 23.—Further arrests were expected today in connection with the fatal wreck of a Pennsylvania railroad flyer near McDonald October 21, following the apprehension and reported confession of Kenneth Smith, 24, Sturgeon negro.

Engineer Paul E. Black was killed and four others were injured when the train left the rails.

The day after the crash, railroad police announced that spikes had been pulled from the rails, permitting the tracks to spread under the weight of the train.

Smith was said to have confessed after a two hours' grilling in county detective headquarters.

Militarism Grips Japan

Huge Budget Is Submitted For Army And Navy Of Nation

(International News Service)

TOKIO, Nov. 23.—Militarism held sway in Japan today as the cabinet prepared to submit to the Diet a record budget of more than a billion yen—exceeding $300,000,000—for the army and navy.

The army estimate calls for 490,000,000 yen ($147,000,000) for 1934-35, and the navy's 530,000,000 yen ($159,000,000), for a total of 1,020,000,000 yen ($306,000,000).

Expenditures for the current year aggregated 938,000,000 yen ($281,400,000).

Other members of the cabinet yielded to War Minister Hayashi and Navy Minister Osumi's insistence that "we must take into consideration the threatening international situation" only after a heated session that lasted all night.

Lone Skeleton Guards Isle Of Hundred-Thousand Goats

(International News Service)

CALIENTE, Cal.—An abandoned island peopled solely by a hundred thousand goats, wild cats and strange sea monsters; where the wreck of a schooner that left its skeleton dead on the cliff is the only mark of man within a century—such an island is Guadalupe, 250 miles off the coast of Mexico, according to James Glenn, one of the few living men to have seen its inhospitable shores, and a resident of California since 1867.

Twenty years ago this month Glenn shipped out from San Diego aboard the three masted schooner, Mary Dodge, in charge of an expedition to the unknown island of Guadalupe. In his pocket he carried permission from the Mexican government to bring back 4,000 goats to be canned in this country for war supplies—if he could.

"The moment we put ashore," said Glenn, 'we felt as if we were in a magic world. It was perfectly silent, only from the cliff's face a thousand eyes watched our approach. In keeping with the felling, we found on the beach a strange species of monster, half fish and half mammal, called the sea elephant, existing I am told, in no other waters in the world. From the front they looked like gigantic hogs without legs, but were scaly and had huge fins and tails. They played in and out of the water but towered ten feet high, a mountain of flesh as they lay on the sand.

"There was only one side of the island from which the top could be reached and as we ascended we drove thousands of goats before us. Once on top we found droves of cats that had gone wild a hundred years ago when the Mexican prison located there had been abandoned.

"We organized a drive ad herded our goats successfully aboard the schooner. Hundreds of the wild things preferred death to captivity and leapt down into the sea. It was not a pleasant sight nor shall I soon forget it.

'Before we set sail we explored the crest of the rocks, past the moulding ruins of the old fort, and there on a peak we found him. The skeleton of a man, prostrate and looking out towards the endless ocean. How long he had been there or why he was deserted no one will ever know."

They left him there where he could watch the sea, custodian of the goats and cats and weird sea monsters, for since that time no ship has visited his strange domain.

Delay In Starting Bridge Building

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Nov. 23—A months delay in the start of construction of the North avenue bridge over Wolf Creek is causing local residents considerable inconvenience, since the bridge has been closed to all but pedestrian traffic. Four weeks ago the bids were opened and the Reliance Steel Products Co. of Rankin, Pa., was the low bidder, but PWA officials have not given final approval to the project. Five Smaller bridges in this district were included in the opening of bids last month.

Local residents fear that bad weather will prevent the construction until next spring, and that the detour will be in effect all winter.

John Charles Thomas Thrills His Audience

Satisfactory as they may be, the radio and the screen can never hope to replace flesh and blood appearances of stars of the entertainment world successfully. A thousand people proved this to their own satisfaction Thursday night, November 22, in the Cathedral, when John Charles Thomas appeared in a song recital.

To the music lover his concert was like a feast of good things after a protracted famine. Not in some time has there been a really fine singer appear in concert here and happily Mr. Thomas piled the plate high and then gave out a second helping. He is the complete artist, his personality and voice seem to reach out over the footlights and simply hold the audience until the last golden note had gone.

More Than A Success

The recital was more than just a success, it was a triumph for Mr. Thomas insofar as New Castle is concerned. Big and round and mellow his tones welled up and out in a cascade of melody that was sheer delight. Few singers there are who sing as easily and as smoothly as he does. Apparently it is no effort and long sustained passages he makes appear ridiculously easy. To it add a dramatic ability that enhanced the melody if anything could have been done to add to that voice of his.

He opened with a group of songs in the German (with one exception.) A group of numbers not as tuneful as his succeeding groups but more difficult of presentation. His second group was one of French songs, lighter, more vivacious, more colorful. He closed with a group in English. To many the recital was a success if only for the encores. He sang the "Torcador" song from Carmen and for a spell the auditorium was transplanted to Spain and the stage became an arena, so magic was his spell. Other encores included "Annie Laurie," "Home On the Range," "I Love Life" and several others. He would have sung the rest of the night had time permitted but he had to bring the program to a conclusion in order to get a 10:42 train.

Accompanist Pleases

Carroll Hollister, who accompanied Mr. Thomas is more than just an accompanist. He is part of the song and his skill adds no little to the success of the vocalist. He presented three piano numbers himself to the delight of the crowd. His technique is clean and sharp and precise and over and above all he used no score all evening either for his own numbers or the numbers he accompanied.

It is to be hoped the sponsors of the recital came out whole on the venture. They deserved a better fate insofar as the size of the crowd was concerned for the John Charles Thomas recital brought happiness and delight to every one who attended it.

President Talks Over Power Plans

Confers With Federal Power Commission Members At Warm Springs

SECRETARY TUGWELL IS ALSO VISITOR

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 23.—Administration plans for a broad national program of production of cheaper power received the attention of President Roosevelt today.

Chairman Frank R. McNinch of the federal power commission, and Vice-Chairman Basil Manly, were here at the request of the president to talk things over.

The two were to confer with Mr. Roosevelt today. The executive made a thorough inspection of his Tennessee valley authority power and rehabilitation experiment on his way here from Washington, and he had a number of ideas which he wants to carry out. With McNinch and Manly the president planned to go over the existing projects.

In addition to McNinch and Manly, Undersecretary of Agriculture Rexford G. Tugwell was a guest at the president's cottage. Tugwell, as usual, told reporters that he came here simply to talk over agriculture conditions in general with the president. At the same time Tugwell revealed that officials in his department are giving considerable thought to negotiations now going on with a view to the accomplishment of reciprocal trade treaties between this country and other nations.

When he arrived at the Dutch frontier he was presented with flowers by the customs officials, and his native village turned out "en masse" to meet him with music and flowers.

MRS. W. E. HORNER ENTERTAINS CLUB

Three tables of bridge interested members of the W. A. G. club Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. W. E. Horner, West Madison avenue.

All members were present, including Mrs. A. J. Hand, of Pittsburgh. A lovely lunch was served by Mrs. Horner, assisted by Mrs. W. H. Mauermann and Mrs. Hand.

It was decided, during a business period over which Mrs. W. H. Leicht presided, to have the annual Christmas party on Thursday, December 20, at the Elks club. Dinner will be enjoyed and the exchange of gifts will take place.

ANNOUNCE BIRTH

Constable Gets Large Pheasant

One of the largest ringnecked pheasants of the season was shot by Robert Stewart, of North Liberty street, a special officer for the school board, Wednesday. It was a beautiful 5 pounder and spread its wings for the last time in the Leesburg vicinity.

Another pheasant tale makes its feathered way to The News today. William Weltz, of West Madison avenue, was out hunting the other day, west of town. He had with him a cocker spaniel; the dog was more for companionship than anything else. However the spaniel, although not a hunter, decided to have the game if not the name and did some high powered "pointing." Mr. Weltz noticed the pointing and so gave the "siccem" signal. The dog leaped and emerged from the brush with a fine cock pheasant.

Seventy-First Birthday Honored

The 71st birthday of Charles E. Dungan, of Newell avenue, was celebrated at a small family gathering in his home Wednesday evening. A lunch was served and the honored one received a host of good wishes for the year to come.

Present from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Dickson and family, from Edenburg, and Charles Dungan, of New York City.

Mr. Dungan has long been a resident of seventh ward and is a service station owner here.

HAVE HIGH SCORES

Prize winners at Thursday evening's card party held at Lyceum hall, corner of Second and Clayton streets, were Patrick Ronan, for 500, and Miss Mary Ronan, for bridge. The party was in charge of Mrs. Steve Cushion and Mrs. George Wilson. A Thanksgiving turkey was awarded to R. P. Hannon, of the Mahoning road. The final pre-advent party will be held next Wednesday evening, November 28.

THREE-LEGGED BUNNY

A rabbit shot by David Bender, Jr., of this ward, was equipped with only three legs instead of the conventional four. The hunter surmised that the rabbit had lost its fourth limb in some previous hunting season. It met its Waterloo north of Valley View cemetery.

AUXILIARY MEETS

A well attended meeting of the G. I. A. to B. of L. E. took place in the city building Thursday afternoon. Plans were made to meet at 12 o'clock noon on December 13, for a tureen dinner to be followed at 2 o'clock by a regular meeting.

President Talks Over Power Plans

Confers With Federal Power Commission Members At Warm Springs

SECRETARY TUGWELL IS ALSO VISITOR

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 23.—Administration plans for a broad national program of production of cheaper power received the attention of President Roosevelt today.

Chairman Frank R. McNinch of the federal power commission, and Vice-Chairman Basil Manly, were here at the request of the president to talk things over.

The two were to confer with Mr. Roosevelt today. The executive made a thorough inspection of his Tennessee valley authority power and rehabilitation experiment on his way here from Washington, and he had a number of ideas which he wants to carry out. With McNinch and Manly the president planned to go over the existing projects.

In addition to McNinch and Manly, Undersecretary of Agriculture Rexford G. Tugwell was a guest at the president's cottage. Tugwell, as usual, told reporters that he came here simply to talk over agriculture conditions in general with the president. At the same time Tugwell revealed that officials in his department are giving considerable thought to negotiations now going on with a view to the accomplishment of reciprocal trade treaties between this country and other nations.

Fortune In Million Cattle Gone In Two Generations

(International News Service)

SAN JOSE, Cal. Nov. 23—The last heir to a name once famous throughout the west, in the pioneer cattle firm of Miller and Lux Charles Lux victim of infantile paralysis is dead, after a 51-day struggle for life in a respirator.

Never, to the end did he lose courage or fail to smile although he knew he was to die and was practically penniless. He whose family had once ruled an empire in spirit he carried on the tradition of a man who rose from the position of humble butcher in San Francisco lord of a domain on which the "sun never set."

In 1852, Charles Lux, the first went into partnership with a subby little German butcher boy Henry Miller, who made his start selling weenies on the streets of San Francisco. Thirty-five years later, on Lux's death, they ran a million head of cattle over three million acres of their own land.

So vast were their holdings that they estimated the area by square miles instead of acres and could drive cattle from the Mexican border to the Canadian line and bivouac each night in a cow camp, on their own possessions.

Their brand, the triple bar cross, was known around the world and either partner could draw a check for a half million dollars and have it cashed without question.

For years they had an informal arrangement between them which left the account open to both. The story is told that at one time, their balance showed $500,000 in cash which Lux thought it advisable to put into some other investment. Miller who had undying confidence in western land, drew the lot overnight, and reported to his partner the next day, "now there's no longer that money to bother you. Instead we own fifty square miles more of good California land."

In two generations a fortune that once embraced the largest holdings ever under the control of one firm, has vanished. The Lux estate, for 13 years paid a legal retainer of $1000 a month alone; changed times the decline of the cattle industry, and the death of the heroic pioneer visionaries have done the rest.

But on his death young Charles showed the same high spirit that has marked the breed, for, in his last hours with every breath a flying agony he dictated a message of courage to his mother, to be opened after his death.

"It is for you I have fought these right long weeks," the dying boy wrote. "Don't lose faith, but go on without me dearest mother, I stop, for the pain hurts so. God be with you, for you are close to God. Your son, Charles Lux."

SAYS INDO-VIN IS WONDERFUL

A "Godsend" To This Lady's Health; Had Stomach and Kidney Affliction.

Mrs. Josephine Favorite, of Fairbanks, Pa., has now come forward with her REMARKABLE statement praising the new, scientific mixture of Extracts from Medical Plants, known as Indo-Vin, which is now being introduced to the public daily here in the city of New Castle at Eckerd's Drug Store.

Following is this widely-known lady's statement:

"For a period of YEARS I had been almost a 'wreck in health'", said Mrs. Favorite. "Everything that I ate would disagree with me and turn sour and form regular loads of gas inside of me and bloat up my stomach organs so that I could hardly stand it. Then my kidneys simply kept me in CONSTANT misery too. In fact, I was so stiff and sore in my back when I got up in the mornings that I could hardly EVEN WALK, and I had to keep rising with my kidneys all night long, which broke up my sleep and rest. My bowels were always constipated and I had to keep taking physics.

"My condition was awful and Indo-Vin was the first medicine in YEARS that had any effect on me, and it has worked the misery out of my whole body. It has put a complete stop to all the gas misery and awful bloating spells I used to have. My kidneys are normal now. They don't get me up at nights like they used to, and it put an end to the sharp pains in my back and the soreness and misery across my kidneys is gone. It has a wonderful action on my bowels and regulates them perfectly. I am GLAD to endorse this medicine, for it deserves anybody's praise."

Indo-Vin is now being introduced to the public daily here in New Castle at Eckerd's Drug Store and sold by every good druggist in all the nearby towns throughout this whole section.

Mayor Needs Cash To Give Dinners

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 23.—Mayor William N. McNair is considering having the city establish an entertainment fund so that he will not be embarrassed when distinguished guests visit the city.

Recently, Jack Dempsey, the former heavyweight boxing champion visited the golden triangle. The mayor was "broke". Dempsey was not extended an invitation for luncheon. Said the mayor:

"Jack Dempsey was in town and I met him. I would have liked to take him to lunch, but I didn't have the money. It's for occasions like these that an entertainment fund would come in handy."

City Rising In Arctic Where Nights Are 3-Months Long

(International News Service)

MOSCOW—Dickson Island, far north in the Artic where it is night all winter long, has been chosen by the Soviet government as an industrial center.

A new port is being built capable of harboring the biggest ships which ply in Arctic waters, a powerful wireless station is being installed and a power plant built to provide electricity to light the settlement 24 hours a day.

A city will be built and people will live there all the year around At present the island is inhabited by a skeleton corps of scientists and explorers who run the weather station and send reports with a small wireless set.

Also a big landing ground will be made so that regular air communication can be established.

All this is a step in the Soviet drive to "Conquer the Arctic" and "Make a Soviet Arctic," and provide Russia with a sea route to the Pacific.

The island will henceforth be one of the main stopping points of the Great Northern Sea route from the Baltic to the Pacific.

Despite its location in the deep Arctic, the climate of Dickson Island is more temperate than that of many parts of Russia further south.

Problem Arises On Sunday Sale Of Beer In Clubs

County Treasurer Is Without Enforcement Fund He Says

HAS CONTROL OF BEER ONLY PLACES

Closing all the clubs in New Castle on Sunday may be a little more complex matter than it first appeared to be. On Thursday District Attorney Mont L. Ailey announced that his office was ready and willing to render whatever aid was necessary to State Investigator Michael Sarko in stopping the clubs from selling alcoholic beverages on Sunday. Today it appears that those clubs selling only beer under a license issued by the County Treasurer are outside the scope of the State Liquor Control Board.

A review of the Act of 1933, Special Session, covering malt liquors, licenses for which are issued by the county treasurer, specifically prohibits clubs from operating on Sundays and election days. Asked his opinion in the matter County Treasurer W. O. Pitts said, "that is true and I am perfectly willing to enforce the law but not at my own expense. I revoked one license but the County Controller would not approve the vouchers for the expense. I paid the $80 costs out of my own pocket. It seems to me that I am hardly expected to conduct an enforcement campaign and pay the expenses personally.

Pass Responsibility

"With the experience I had in revoking one license I took the matter up with such law enforcement agencies as the sheriff, the county detective, and the state police. All of them passed the responsibility back to me. They all said that it was my job to see that no beer was sold in clubs operating under a beer license from this office. The county treasurer has no enforcement officers nor has he any appropriation to carry out the law. I am willing to shoulder all the responsibility of the office but I will not spend my personal funds for a duty that should be paid for by the county."

As the matter stands nobody seems to know whether or not the "beer only" clubs will be closed on Sunday. The law says they are not permitted to sell on Sunday.

City Orders New Grating Installed

Councilman Butler Denies That Damage Done During Resurfacing

Instead of the city paying $6.50 damages, council today adopted a motion submitted by Councilman D. O. Davies, ordering the owners of the W. G. Dunn property, East Washington street, to put the grating in the rear of the property in a safe condition.

According to a communication given to council, in session at City Hall today, William P. Smith asked the city for $6.50, for repairing a grating in the rear of the property in Sycamore Way.

Councilman Butler told colleagues that it was not correct, as stated, that a grating had been broken while the thoroughfare was being resurfaced. He also said that only one rod in the grating had been repaired.

Solicitor White said the city does not have to pay for the damages as the grating is not supposed to be in the street and the property owners have it there only as licensee.

Following White's opinion, Councilman Davies submitted the motion which passed, instructing the property owners to install what council considers a safe grating.

Not Yet Able To Deliver Clear Deed

Cannot Give Clear Deed Until Tax And Penalty Problem Is Adjusted

Sometime ago Dr. W. F. Guy purchased from the city at a tax sale a lot the deed for which has not yet been delivered. During council meeting as city hall today Solicitor White informed council he is not responsible for the delay.

He told council that the purchaser had paid sufficient money to pay all the taxes against the property but due to delay penalties had been added to the taxes.

The purchaser took the matter up with the school board and secured a pro rata adjustment but the county has not yet acted upon the lawyer's request for a similar adjustment, White said.

He said that until such an agreement was had it would be impossible for the city to give Dr. Guy a clear deed for the property.

In line with the training and education that the investigators in the local office of the Federal Housing Administration are receiving, the employes listened to a prepared illustrated lecture, presented on a "visomatic" machine sent here from Washington, in the office of the Federal Housing Administration in the Greer building, Thursday afternoon.

The information imparted gave the investigators further insight into the program mapped out by the heads of the Federal Housing Administration in Washington, as to the course they shall pursue in their work here, which will be started in the near future.

Many ways in which the home owner can improve his property, and if deserving of a loan, will be helped by the financial institutions for this purpose, were outlined.

At the present time, there are 45 employes in the local office, of which Marcus Feuchtwanger is executive chairman, including both men and women, who have been going through a regular course in training so that when they do contact the home owners, they will be fully equipped to answer all questions.

City Purchases Granite Curb

Buys Curb Rejected For Butler Avenue; To Pay 25 Cents A Foot

Council today received from T. H. Byrd, Salisburg, N. C., a communication in which he accepted the city's price of 25 cents a foot for the granite curb which years ago was rejected when Butler Avenue was resurfaced.

The curb was not up to specifications and the city would not permit Woods and Golder to use it and the latter then would not accept the curb.

The curb has laid along Butler Avenue since that time and considerable of it has been stolen, according to city officials.

The purchase was made at the suggestion of City Engineer Hoskins who said several days ago the city would be able to use the curbing.

The city does not know exactly how much curbing is left. Originally there were 1,000 feet, it was said during council meeting.

New Castle Man Proves Self Hero

LEAPS ON CAR RUNNING WILD

Roger Dorcey, 23, of 312 North Beaver street, a truck driver, is in the Butler hospital today with a fractured arm and leg, but a lot of Butler school children are unharmed because of his heroism. Heedless of his own safety, Mr. Dorcey boarded a driverless car that was running down hill towards a group of children and as he attempted to bring the car under control, it swerved into a truck. In the crash Dorcey's arm and leg were fractured.

He was in Butler with his own truck on delivery work. As he was working on a hill street he noticed a group of children crossing. A moment later the careening car came speeding down the hill. Dorcey jumped onto the running board of the car and endeavored to stop it.

His injuries are painful but not necessarily critical. Had he not risked his own life there might have been a disaster that would have cost the lives of several of the Butler tots.

The day after the crash, railroad police announced that spikes had been pulled from the rails, permitting the tracks to spread under the weight of the train.

Smith was said to have confessed after a two hours' grilling in county detective headquarters.

Huge Budget Is Submitted For Army And Navy Of Nation

(International News Service)

TOKIO, Nov. 23.—Militarism held sway in Japan today as the cabinet prepared to submit to the Diet a record budget of more than a billion yen—exceeding $300,000,000—for the army and navy.

The army estimate calls for 490,000,000 yen ($147,000,000) for 1934-35, and the navy's 530,000,000 yen ($159,000,000), for a total of 1,020,000,000 yen ($306,000,000).

Expenditures for the current year aggregated 938,000,000 yen ($281,400,000).

Other members of the cabinet yielded to War Minister Hayashi and Navy Minister Osumi's insistence that "we must take into consideration the threatening international situntion" only after a heated session that lasted all night.

Lone Skeleton Guards Isle Of Hundred-Thousand Goats

(International News Service)

CALIENTE, Cal.—An abandoned island peopled solely by a hundred thousand goats, wild cats and strange sea monsters; where the wreck of a schooner that left its skeleton dead on the cliff is the only mark of man within a century—such an island is Guadalupe, 250 miles off the coast of Mexico, according to James Glenn, one of the few living men to have seen its inhospitable shores, and a resident of California since 1867.

Twenty years ago this month Glenn shipped out from San Diego aboard the three masted schooner, Mary Dodge, in charge of an expedition to the unknown island of Guadalupe. In his pocket he carried permission from the Mexican government to bring back 4,000 goats to be canned in this country for war supplies—if he could.

"The moment we put ashore," said Glenn, 'we felt as if we were in a magic world. It was perfectly silent, only from the cliff's face a thousand eyes watched our approach. In keeping with the felling, we found on the beach a strange species of monster, half fish and half mammal, called the sea elephant, existing I am told, in no other waters in the world. From the front they looked like gigantic hogs without legs, but were scaly and had huge fins and tails. They played in and out of the water but towered ten feet high, a mountain of flesh as they lay on the sand.

"There was only one side of the island from which the top could be reached and as we ascended we drove thousands of goats before us. Once on top we found droves of cats that had gone wild a hundred years ago when the Mexican prison located there had been abandoned.

"We organized a drive ad herded our goats successfully aboard the schooner. Hundreds of the wild things preferred death to captivity and leapt down into the sea. It was not a pleasant sight nor shall I soon forget it.

'Before we set sail we explored the crest of the rocks, past the moulding ruins of the old fort, and there on a peak we found him. The skeleton of a man, prostrate and looking out towards the endless ocean. How long he had been there or why he was deserted no one will ever know."

They left him there where he could watch the sea, custodian of the goats and cats and weird sea monsters, for since that time no ship has visited his strange domain.

Delay In Starting Bridge Building

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Nov. 23—A months delay in the start of construction of the North avenue bridge over Wolf Creek is causing local residents considerable inconvenience, since the bridge has been closed to all but pedestrian traffic. Four weeks ago the bids were opened and the Reliance Steel Products Co. of Rankin, Pa., was the low bidder, but PWA officials have not given final approval to the project. Five Smaller bridges in this district were included in the opening of bids last month.

Local residents fear that bad weather will prevent the construction until next spring, and that the detour will be in effect all winter.

National Grange Asks For Increase In Price Of Gold To Stabilize Prices

(International News Service)

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 23.—The National Grange was on record today as favoring an increase in the price of gold sufficient to bring about a balance between commodities and inflexible prices.

President Roosevelt was requested to take necessary steps to "set and maintain" such a desired price for gold in a resolution adopted by the grange at the closing session of its convention last night.

Another resolution opposed "unlimited issuance of currency without adequate gold backing and to the issuance of bonds for government expense" and favored issuance of $3,000,000,000 in non-interest-bearing treasury certificates for retirement of United States bonds, or "payment of expenses incurred by the public relief program."

Changes Proposed

Proposed changes in the national relief program were embodied in resolutions which provided:

1—That government owes no able-bodied man a living, only a chance to make a living.

2—That the public works administration regulate both hours and compensation for labor in harmony with private business in the same section.

3—That every able-bodied person receiving direct relief from society be required to render to society a dollar's worth of service for every dollar of relief received, and,

4—That relief be administered by local authorities as much as possible.

Forest Fires Still Raging

Despite Heavy Rainfall, Forest Fires Rage In West Virginia

(International News Service)

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 23.—Despite an inch and one-half rainfall last night, hundreds of forest fires were still roaring through West Virginia's wooded areas today.

D. B. Griffith, assistant state forester in charge of fire prevention work, reported after a state-wide survey, that 5,000 men were fighting the blazes.

The most severe fire, Griffith reported, is on the state game refuge in Logan county.

A 24-hour drenching rain will be necessary to entirely quench the fires, Griffith said.

The fire on the state game refuge was driving out deer by the score, fire-fighters reported.

Griffith said that no towns are believed endangered although Whitesville, a coal town of 4,000 population in Boone county, was imperiled early this morning when flames neared. The fire was driven back by conscripted crews of fire-fighters.

Tract Of Virgin Hemlock Timber Would Be Used As "Natural Laboratory"

(International News Service)

KANE, Pa., Nov. 23—Purchase of 4,300 acres of virgin hemlock timber located in McKean and Warren counties by the National Forest Reservation commission was reported scheduled for consummation in Washington today.

Termed the "only remaining stand of virgin hardwood hemlock in eastern United States," the tract will be used as a "natural laboratory" in the Allegheny National forest, now embracing 400,776 acres.

Protests Heard

Although the Central Pennsylvania Lumber Co., owners of the land, are reported willing to sell, employes of the concern were to be represented as protestants at the Washington hearing today.

Their objection is that sale of the land would cut short logging operations by three years and eventually throw them out of work.

Currency-Banking Reforms Will Come In Next Congress

Reform Leaders Converge On Washington For Series Of Conferences

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—A battle in the new congress over currency and banking reforms was assured today as the reform leaders converged on the national capital for a series of conferences.

A legislative program undoubtedly will be drafted by the reform leaders before congress meets. They were led by Senator Elmer Thomas (D) of Oklahoma and the Rev. Charles Coughlin, the Detroit "radio priest". Others supporting the reform move included George Le Blanc, formerly of the Equitable Trust company; Robert Harriss, New York broker, and James H. R. Cromwell, step-son of E. T. Stotesbury, the Philadelphia capitalist.

Restoration of Prices.

The group will fight for restoration of 1926 prices. They may offer a wide series of legislative means for reaching this goal. One suggestion has been the creation of a central bank of issue, which would issue all American money and thereby take from national and federal reserve banks the right to issue money. It has met with little favor in congressional circles.

Another plan, previously proposed, is to increase open market operations by the government. This would mean the purchase of government bonds on the open market with currency issued against the monetary reserves now in the treasury. The reformers declare the devaluation of the gold dollar doubled the value of the gold in the treasury vaults and that billions of dollars of treasury notes could be issued against the gold, without giving the nation true inflation, such as destroyed the German mark some years ago.

Demand Free Coinage.

The silver bloc meanwhile will demand free coinage of silver and its actual remonetization. The silverites may join the currency reformers on a combined program.

The administration's views on monetary reforms probably will not be known until congress meets. The president undoubtedly will touch this subject in his usual message to a convening congress.

Heart Flutters Are Photographed

Lovers Can No Longer Conceal Their Emotions When New Camera Is Used

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—Fluttering of the heart and other valvular disturbances commonly ascribed to lovers, can no longer be concealed—in fact, the beat of your heart can now be photographed.

A demonstration of the "heart-action camera" in Hannemann hospital here lent an atmosphere of the cinema to the large sun porch where the invention of G. Howlett Davis, Jr., a radio engineer and sound expert from Detroit, excited favorable comment from medical men witnessing the procedure.

An attractive nurse bent over the bed of a sick young man, placed a small black box over his heart and the scene was "shot". Pulsations of the patient's heart were picked up by the small box, converted into electrical impulses, amplified and registered on a swiftly moving film.

"The little box," explained Davis, who addressed the eastern homeopathic medical convention here, "contains a sensitive button which pulses with the heart when pressed against the chest."

"The apparatus, which is equipped with double parts can register simultaneously on the same film the behaviour of any two valves of the heart," the inventor added.

Costly Gifts For Marina And George

(International News Service)

LONDON, Nov. 23. — An ancient cumbersome coach of black and gold, dragged by six powerful horses, lumbered into the courtyard of Buckingham Palace this morning, and the smiling Lord Mayor of London, Sir Stephen Molyneaux Killik, stepped out with the wedding gift of the City of London to Princess Marina and the Duke of Kent.

The stately arrival of the Lord Mayor marked the beginning of a stream of visitors bringing presents from every important town and many villages of the Kingdom.

The engaged couple personally received the gifts, adding them to the costly array.

Tonight Marina and George make their first formal appearance together.

Controversy Over Location Of Pump

Mad Anthony Wayne And Gen. Robert E. Lee Once Stopped At Landmark

(International News Service)

WAYNESBORO, Pa. — Location of the old, historic town pump, where such celebrated figures as Gen. Anthony Wayne and Gen. Robert E. Lee paused in the heat of battle to water their horses, has become the subject of a raging controversy.

The old pump has furnished water for scores of families for years in the vicinity of Center Square. Although many of the older inhabitants differ as to its position, the site was believed established in a number of photographs uncovered by members of early families.

The primitive utility is easily discernible on several pictures made in 1882 when Center Square was a cobblestone thoroughfare. It was located just slightly west of the line which well be followed by the sanitary sewer excavation now in progress.

It was at the ancient pump that General Wayne, after whom Waynesboro was named, stopped to water his horse, and after drinking the water, remarked:

"What a lovely place to build a town."

The Confederate General, Lee, enroute to the crucial battle at Gettysburg, also paused at this same pump.

MacGuire Starts Counter-Attack

Demands Congressman Prove Statement He Has $18,000 Fascist Fund

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Gerald P. MacGuire, named by Major General Smedley D. Butler as the agent for the "fascist plotters" the general said were planning a dictatorship in the United States, launched a counter-attack upon his accuser today.

The Wall street bond salesman challenged Representative Samuel Dickstein to prove his statement to the press that he (MacGuire) possesses a bank account "considerably in excess of $18,000," obtained because of his alleged position as key man in the fascist movement or withdraw it. Dickstein made the statement in his capacity as vice chairman of the congressional committee investigating un-American activities in this country, before which MacGuire was summoned after Butler made his spectacular charges.

Strong Denials

MacGuire's challenge was issued through his counsel, Norman L. Marks, as the bond salesman went before the committee for the fourth time, in secret session today.

"If Dickstein doesn't withdraw that ridiculous statement we will open Mr. MacGuire's bank accounts to newspapermen so they can see for themselves it is untrue," said Marks.

National Grange Asks For Increase In Price Of Gold To Stabilize Prices

(International News Service)

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 23.—The National Grange was on record today as favoring an increase in the price of gold sufficient to bring about a balance between commodities and inflexible prices.

President Roosevelt was requested to take necessary steps to "set and maintain" such a desired price for gold in a resolution adopted by the grange at the closing session of its convention last night.

Another resolution opposed "unlimited issuance of currency without adequate gold backing and to the issuance of bonds for government expense" and favored issuance of $3,000,000,000 in non-interest-bearing treasury certificates for retirement of United States bonds, or "payment of expenses incurred by the public relief program."

Changes Proposed

Proposed changes in the national relief program were embodied in resolutions which provided:

1—That government owes no able-bodied man a living, only a chance to make a living.

2—That the public works administration regulate both hours and compensation for labor in harmony with private business in the same section.

3—That every able-bodied person receiving direct relief from society be required to render to society a dollar's worth of service for every dollar of relief received, and,

4—That relief be administered by local authorities as much as possible.

Forest Fires Still Raging

Despite Heavy Rainfall, Forest Fires Rage In West Virginia

(International News Service)

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 23.—Despite an inch and one-half rainfall last night, hundreds of forest fires were still roaring through West Virginia's wooded areas today.

D. B. Griffith, assistant state forester in charge of fire prevention work, reported after a state-wide survey, that 5,000 men were fghting the blazes.

The most severe fire, Griffith reported, is on the state game refuge in Logan county.

A 24-hour drenching rain will be necessary to entirely quench the fires, Griffith said.

The fire on the state game refuge was driving out deer by the score, fire-fighters reported.

Griffith said that no towns are believed endangered although Whitesville, a coal town of 4,000 population in Boone county, was imperiled early this morning when flames neared. The fire was driven back by conscripted crews of fire-fighters.

Government Would Buy Virgin Timber

Tract Of Virgin Hemlock Timber Would Be Used As "Natural Laboratory"

(International News Service)

KANE, Pa., Nov. 23—Purchase of 4,300 acres of virgin hemlock timber located in McKean and Warren counties by the National Forest Reservation commission was reported scheduled for consummation in Washington today.

Termed the "only remaining stand of virgin hardwood hemlock in eastern United States," the tract will be used as a "natural laboratory" in the Allegheny National forest, now embracing 400,776 acres.

Protests Heard

Although the Central Pennsylvania Lumber Co., owners of the land, are reported willing to sell, employes of the concern were to be represented as protestants at the Washington hearing today.

Their objection is that sale of the land would cut short logging operations by three years and eventually throw them out of work.

Currency-Banking Reforms Will Come In Next Congress

Reform Leaders Converge On Washington For Series Of Conferences

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—A battle in the new congress over currency and banking reforms was assured today as the reform leaders converged on the national capital for a series of conferences.

A legislative program undoubtedly will be drafted by the reform leaders before congress meets. They were led by Senator Elmer Thomas (D) of Oklahoma and the Rev. Charles Coughlin, the Detroit "radio priest". Others supporting the reform move included George Le Blanc, formerly of the Equitable Trust company; Robert Harriss, New York broker, and James H. R. Cromwell, step-son of E. T. Stotesbury, the Philadelphia capitalist.

Restoration of Prices.

The group will fight for restoration of 1926 prices. They may offer a wide series of legislative means for reaching this goal. One suggestion has been the creation of a central bank of issue, which would issue all American money and thereby take from national and federal reserve banks the right to issue money. It has met with little favor in congressional circles.

Another plan, previously proposed, is to increase open market operations by the government. This would mean the purchase of government bonds on the open market with currency issued against the monetary reserves now in the treasury. The reformers declare the devaluation of the gold dollar doubled the value of the gold in the treasury vaults and that billions of dollars of treasury notes could be issued against the gold, without giving the nation true inflation, such as destroyed the German mark some years ago.

Demand Free Coinage.

The silver bloc meanwhile will demand free coinage of silver and its actual remonetization. The silverites may join the currency reformers on a combined program.

The administration's views on monetary reforms probably will not be known until congress meets. The president undoubtedly will touch this subject in his usual message to a convening congress.

Heart Flutters Are Photographed

Lovers Can No Longer Conceal Their Emotions When New Camera Is Used

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—Fluttering of the heart and other valvular disturbances commonly ascribed to lovers, can no longer be concealed—in fact, the beat of your heart can now be photographed.

A demonstration of the "heart-action camera" in Hannemann hospital here lent an atmosphere of the cinema to the large sun porch where the invention of G. Howlett Davis, Jr., a radio engineer and sound expert from Detroit, excited favorable comment from medical men witnessing the procedure.

An attractive nurse bent over the bed of a sick young man, placed a small black box over his heart and the scene was "shot". Pulsations of the patient's heart were picked up by the small box, converted into electrical impulses, amplified and registered on a swiftly moving film.

"The little box," explained Davis, who addressed the eastern homeopathic medical convention here, "contains a sensitive button which pulses with the heart when pressed against the chest."

"The apparatus, which is equipped with double parts can register simultaneously on the same film the behaviour of any two valves of the heart," the inventor added.

Costly Gifts For Marina And George

(International News Service)

LONDON, Nov. 23. — An ancient cumbersome coach of black and gold, dragged by six powerful horses, lumbered into the courtyard of Buckingham Palace this morning, and the smiling Lord Mayor of London, Sir Stephen Molyneaux Killik, stepped out with the wedding gift of the City of London to Princess Marina and the Duke of Kent.

The stately arrival of the Lord Mayor marked the beginning of a stream of visitors bringing presents from every important town and many villages of the Kingdom.

The engaged couple personally received the gifts, adding them to the costly array.

Tonight Marina and George make their first formal appearance together.

Controversy Over Location Of Pump

Mad Anthony Wayne And Gen. Robert E. Lee Once Stopped At Landmark

(International News Service)

WAYNESBORO, Pa. — Location of the old, historic town pump, where such celebrated figures as Gen. Anthony Wayne and Gen. Robert E. Lee paused in the heat of battle to water their horses, has become the subject of a raging controversy.

The old pump has furnished water for scores of families for years in the vicinity of Center Square. Although many of the older inhabitants differ as to its position, the site was believed established in a number of photographs uncovered by members of early families.

The primitive utility is easily discernible on several pictures made in 1882 when Center Square was a cobblestone thoroughfare. It was located just slightly west of the line which well be followed by the sanitary sewer excavation now in progress.

It was at the ancient pump that General Wayne, after whom Waynesboro was named, stopped to water his horse, and after drinking the water, remarked:

"What a lovely place to build a town."

The Confederate General, Lee, enroute to the crucial battle at Gettysburg, also paused at this same pump.

MacGuire Starts Counter-Attack

Demands Congressman Prove Statement He Has $18,000 Fascist Fund

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Gerald P. MacGuire, named by Major General Smedley D. Butler as the agent for the "fascist plotters" the general said were planning a dictatorship in the United States, launched a counter-attack upon his accuser today.

The Wall street bond salesman challenged Representative Samuel Dickstein to prove his statement to the press that he (MacGuire) possesses a bank account "considerably in excess of $18,000," obtained because of his alleged position as key man in the fascist movement or withdraw it. Dickstein made the statement in his capacity as vice chairman of the congressional commitee investigating un-American activities in this country, before which MacGuire was summoned after Butler made his spectacular charges.

Strong Denials

MacGuire's challenge was issued through his counsel, Norman L. Marks, as the bond salesman went before the committee for the fourth time, in secret session today.

"If Dickstein doesn't withdraw that ridiculous statement we will open Mr. MacGuire's bank accounts to newspapermen so they can see for themselves it is untrue," said Marks.

Common Names Head List In Name Survey

"Mary" Most Popular For A Girl's Name And "John" Leads Boy's List

RELIGIOUS ORIGIN IS SEEN IN NAMES

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 23.—What's in a name?

One kind of an answer to that question comes from the bureau of vital statistics in the state department of health where Anna P. Halkovich has just finished a statistical summary of the given names of babies born in 1933 in five Pennsylvania counties.

The counties used in the survey were Adams, Chester, Dauphin, Lackawanna and Lancaster. A total of 14,481 births were considered.

Out of the survey came the fact that Dorothy, Elizabeth, Mary, James, John, Robert and William were the most popular names in 1933. Mary led the list in all but Adams county where it shared honors with Dolores. The latter appeared only in that county as the name of eight out of every 100 babies.

John, of boys' names, ranked first in all but Chester and Dauphin counties where Robert and Joseph, respectively, were high.

Besides Dolores, other names which appeared only in some of the five counties were Anna, missing in Dauphin; Helen, appearing only in Dauphin; Joan, missing in Adams and Lancaster; Margaret, missing in Adams and Dauphin; Shirley and Nancy appearing only in Lancaster; Charles, missing in Adams and Lackawanna; Joseph, missing in Adams, Dauphin and Lancaster; Paul, missing in Chester, Dauphin and Lackawanna; Richard, missing in Chester and Lackawanna, and Thomas, appearing only in Lackawanna.

Another observation developed from the survey was that 60 per cent of the names were of religious origin. Patriotically inclined parents thought up "United States Liberty" and "Christmas New Year" for two children.

Famous persons were remembered by many parents, with President Franklin D. Roosevelt having a namesake in every county but Lackawanna during 1933. Other notables included:

Robert Lee, John Milton, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Benjamin Franklin, George Washington, Theodore Roosevelt, Richard Byrd, John Wesley, the poet Vergil, Lord Byron, Walter Scott and Thomas Jefferson.

Movie stars given namesakes were Janet Gaynor, John Gilbert, Kay Francis, Anne Harding and John Bennett.

Britain Develops 'Silent' Bomber

By HOWARD BERRY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(International News Service)

LONDON, Nov. 23—Night bombing aircraft of the British Royal Air Force will in future be silent messengers of death and destruction.

These giant birds of prey when in flight are to be fitted with an added menace—a new type of engine silencer so efficient that when flying above a height of 10,000 feet the planes will be inaudible from the ground.

All previous silencing devices for aero-engines have had two great disadvantages. They have been too heavy and have had an adverse effect on the engine's power by setting up powerful back-pressure.

The new silencer is relatively light and its use involves only a small loss, not exceeding 2 per cent, of the engine's power output. This was shown in the course of recent test at Hanworth Airdrome, where three different types of aircraft were fitted with the silencer.

Its adoption will add greatly to the difficulties of ground defences relying upon "sound-locators," for the detection of enemy raiders at night.

Blackstone Robes For Sale In U. S.

Official Robes Of English Jurist Remarkably Well Preserved

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The action of Judge James H. Wilkerson, who is presiding over the trial of Samuel Insull in Chicago federal court, in donning judicial robes, threatens to re-establish an ancient custom among federal jurists, who have discarded for many years the traditional black garb of justices of the supreme court in this country and in all courts abroad.

And, if any judge desires, he may acquire and wear the judicial robes of Sir William Blackstone, one of the keystones of the legal profession, whose works have been the foundation of the legal educations of great lawyers for two centuries.

The Blackstone robes and a collection of other rarities identified with the life and work of the eminent English jurist have been sent to New York by their British owners and are in the safekeeping of the Guaranty Trust Co., pending their sale to a collector in this country.

The official robes are remarkably well preserved considering their great age and the relatively perishable nature of the material. The garments include his judge's robe and ermine fur tippet, his silk scarf, "D. D." hood, and black hat. The robes are bright red in color and lined with silk.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m. November 22, seven arrests on charges as follows: Violation of traffic ordinance 3, exceeding speed limit 1, and suspicion 3.

Harry Hoskins was as happy as a child with a Christmas toy when he reported to his superiors in city hall yesterday. He said all the projects which the city wants the RWD to do were approved at Harrisburg. He said that generally 10 days time is necessary before any project can be acted finally upon. He pointed out that he presented the city's plans Monday and informal approval was given Thursday and he anticipates a formal approval will arrive here within a few days.

Sometime ago Chief of Police Haven placed a stop sign at the intersection of Hazelcroft avenue and North Mercer street and also at Clenmore boulevard and North Mercer street. The intersections were considered dangerous. Yesterday an accident occurred at North Mercer street and Euclid avenue. No Stop sign is there. The chief said when he placed the signs at the other intersections that he realized the west side of North Mercer street is out of the city limits but believes safety first drivers will obey the signs. It is probable that more stop signs will be placed on the east side of North Mercer street.

Charles O'Brien, clerk at the department of streets, said yesterday that the entire personnel is striving hard to have various dirt streets in good shape by the time winter arrives. There are 30 men in the department and daily they work in different sections. Among their lot soon will be turning out of bed at night when snow makes the paved hills a sheet of ice.

City sewer department employes today were instructed to make repairs to a sanitary sewer in Cunningham avenue. Three houses are connected to the sewer which is blocked. The blockade was reported and the city has started to remedy the situation. City officials said today the employes may have to dig up Cunningham avenue where it joins Arlington avenue to locate the trouble.

Loses Last Tooth At 106, Minus Gas

(International News Service)

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. Nov. 23—Dentists hold no terrors now for Miss Mary Ann Vaughn, 106, Southampton's oldest inhabitant.

One by one Miss Vaughn's teeth came out with increasing age, until only one remained—a solitary diehard. When it grew stubborn and ached terribly, Miss Vaughn went to see the dentist for the last time.

The dentist decided it was unsafe to give her gas or cocaine, but Miss Vaughn is made of sterner stuff than most.

"Take it out without," she said.

And the dentist did, and Miss Vaghn now is in the best of spirits again.

This Farmer Must Be Making Money

(International News Service)

YORK, Pa., Nov. 23. — Chauncey Weltcamp, a farmer of near Spry, had the last laugh on three bandits who held him up at the point of a gun. The men went through Weltcamp's clothing without finding anything, overlooking a small foot-rule side pocket in his overalls where he carried $76 in bills.

Don't Pay Over 25c For Medicine Friday And Saturday

IF YOU SUFFER FROM STOMACH TROUBLE, LAZY LIVER, CONSTIPATION, NERVOUSNESS OR WEAK KIDNEYS

Are you run-down from hard work; has a spell of sickness left you weak; has your energy deserted you? If so, here is your chance to try a wonderful medicine that combines with the food in your stomach and gives marvelous relief.

Every man and woman in this city and vicinity who suffers, can have a full Introductory bottle of this NEW medicine to try, for 25c. Simply read the offer below. Hundreds of people right here in town have already taken Vendol and praise it highly. We believe there are other hundreds who have not yet given it a trial. Likely even you who read this, may have said to yourself, "Sometime I'm going to try Vendol," so that is why we make this unusual two-day trial offer.

Don't expect Vendol to "cure everything under the sun"—it won't do it, but it has helped nine people out of every ten who took it for a system cleanser. That is why we offer this Introductory bottle for 25c, because we believe the people who find a medicine that proves to be what they need, will keep on using it. The regular large bottle sells for $1.25.

The Vendol Man who offers Friday and Saturday only, a special Introductory bottle of Vendol at a fraction of usual cost.

WHAT VENDOL IS

VENDOL is a medicine made on advanced methods from the juices of herbs, barks, roots, seeds and leaves of medicinal plants. These juices combine with the juices of the stomach, such as the Pancreatic juice, the Gastric juice and others, and help to digest what we eat, delivering the food value to the different vital organs, then pass the refuse out through the bowels thoroughly and regularly. Vendol contains no iron, mercury, potash or other harsh, drastic chemicals.

Take Vendol either before or after eating, for by mixing with the juices of the stomach, it aids digestion, thus helping to rid the stomach of poisons that cause trouble.

In ten minutes after the first dose, you will be relieved of gas, sourness, heartburn, palpitation, acid risings, belching, cramps and sick stomach. Vendol relieves constipation, biliousness, dizzy spells, coated tongue, bad breath. It dries up skin eruptions that are caused by impurities in the organs—clears a "muddy" complexion due to a lazy liver.

WHAT VENDOL WILL DO

Do you realize what constipation does? If you knew from a medical standpoint the damage constipation does to the system, you would lose no time in taking a treatment of Vendol and clearing your system of this dread disease.

Do you get up mornings feeling as tired as when you went to bed? Blue? Worry about little things? Are your nerves on edge so that any little noise annoys you? Most likely you have eaten something that disagreed with you, upset your digestion, or your liver may be lazy. Vendol will quickly relieve those disagreeable feelings.

The action of Vendol is smooth and easy—not harsh or strong—yet it will cleanse your liver, stomach and bowels THOROUGHLY and COMPLETELY. It does not gripe or nauseate like many liver medicines, yet it works off the bile.

But you can prove this to yourself in a better way than by taking our word for it, and it is surely worth 25c to make the trial; so take advantage of this Introductory offer for two days only—Friday and Saturday.

After taking Vendol, you will notice many symptoms pass off such as gas in the stomach and bowels, dizziness, headaches, that tired-out, no energy, all-gone feeling, soreness and stiffness especially of mornings. The acid condition, that heavy feeling in the pit of the stomach, lump in the throat, shortness of breath, sour, acid risings will disappear and the breath will be pure and clean.

Talk about eating! Why you'll have the best appetite you ever knew!

Vendol will sweeten the stomach, work off the bile from the liver, correct kidney weakness relieve pains in the back, arms, muscles and joints, put a stop to getting up all during the night, by flushing out the impurities which may have been lodged in your system for months. It will make you LOOK better and FEEL better and seem that you are YEARS YOUNGER.

Don't miss this great chance to get your trial bottle, because you positively will not have another opportunity after Friday and Saturday. So bring this coupon to the store named below.

This Farmer Must Be Making Money

(International News Service)

YORK, Pa., Nov. 23. — Chanucey Weltcamp, a farmer of near Spry, had the last laugh on three bandits who held him up at the point of a gun. The men went through Weltcamp's clothing without finding anything, overlooking a small foot-rule side pocket in his overalls where he carried $70 in bills.

Don't Pay Over 25c For Medicine Friday And Saturday

IF YOU SUFFER FROM STOMACH TROUBLE, LAZY LIVER, CONSTIPATION, NERVOUSNESS OR WEAK KIDNEYS

Are you run-down from hard work; has a spell of sickness left you weak; has your energy deserted you? If so, here is your chance to try a wonderful medicine that combines with the food in your stomach and gives marvelous relief.

Every man and woman in this city and vicinity who suffers, can have a full Introductory bottle of this NEW medicine to try, for 25c. Simply read the offer below. Hundreds of people right here in town have already taken Vendol and praise it highly. We believe there are other hundreds who have not yet given it a trial. Likely even you who read this, may have said to yourself, "Sometime I'm going to try Vendol," so that is why we make this unusual two-day trial offer.

Don't expect Vendol to "cure everything under the sun"—it won't do it, but it has helped nine people out of every ten who took it for a system cleanser. That is why we offer this Introductory bottle for 25c, because we believe the people who find a medicine that proves to be what they need, will keep on using it. The regular large bottle sells for $1.25.

The Vendol Man who offers Friday and Saturday only, a special Introductory bottle of Vendol at a fraction of usual cost.

WHAT VENDOL IS

VENDOL is a medicine made on advanced methods from the juices of herbs, barks, roots, seeds and leaves of medicinal plants. These juices combine with the juices of the stomach, such as the Pancreatic juice, the Gastric juice and others, and help to digest what we eat, delivering the food value to the different vital organs, then pass the refuse out through the bowels thoroughly and regularly. Vendol contains no iron, mercury, potash or other harsh, drastic chemicals.

Take Vendol either before or after eating, for by mixing with the juices of the stomach, it aids digestion, thus helping to rid the stomach of poisons that cause trouble.

In ten minutes after the first dose, you will be relieved of gas, sourness, heartburn, palpitation, acid risings, belching, cramps and sick stomach. Vendol relieves constipation, biliousness, dizzy spells, coated tongue, bad breath. It dries up skin eruptions that are caused by impurities in the organs—clears a "muddy" complexion due to a lazy liver.

WHAT VENDOL WILL DO

Do you realize what constipation does? If you knew from a medical standpoint the damage constipation does to the system, you would lose no time in taking a treatment of Vendol and clearing your system of this dread disease.

Do you get up mornings feeling as tired as when you went to bed? Blue? Worry about little things? Are your nerves on edge so that any little noise annoys you? Most likely you have eaten something that disagreed with you, upset your digestion, or your liver may be lazy. Vendol will quickly relieve those disagreeable feelings.

The action of Vendol is smooth and easy—not harsh or strong—yet it will cleanse your liver, stomach and bowels THOROUGHLY and COMPLETELY. It does not gripe or nauseate like many liver medicines, yet it works off the bile.

But you can prove this to yourself in a better way than by taking our word for it, and it is surely worth 25c to make the trial; so take advantage of this Introductory offer for two days only—Friday and Saturday.

After taking Vendol, you will notice many symptoms pass off such as gas in the stomach and bowels, dizziness, headaches, that tired-out, no energy, all-gone feeling, soreness and stiffness especially of mornings. The acid condition, that heavy feeling in the pit of the stomach, lump in the throat, shortness of breath, sour, acid risings will disappear and the breath will be pure and clean.

Talk about eating! Why you'll have the best appetite you ever knew!

Vendol will sweeten the stomach, work off the bile from the liver, correct kidney weakness relieve pains in the back, arms, muscles and joints, put a stop to getting up all during the night, by flushing out the impurities which may have been lodged in your system for months. It will make you LOOK better and FEEL better and seem that you are YEARS YOUNGER.

Don't miss this great chance to get your trial bottle, because you positively will not have another opportunity after Friday and Saturday. So bring this coupon to the store named below.

Boak Writes Of Grange Sessions

State Master In Attendance At National Grange Meetings In Hartford

In a letter to the New Castle News, State Grange Master J. Audley Boak tells in interesting fashion of the National grange which is being held in Hartford, Connecticut. With his wife Mr. Boak is attending the national sessions. The letter follows.

Editor of the New Castle News:

Thinking that some of your readers might be interested in our attendance of the National grange being held in Hartford, Conn., I will write a few lines.

Mrs. Boak and I left New Castle via PRR the evening of November 13 arriving in Hartford the next PM. Hartford is an ideal convention city. Its population is 175,000 and is one of the most prosperous cities in the country. They scarcely know we have a depression. It is the insurance center of the world. one of its important industries is that of manufacturing typewriters.

The National grange opened Wednesday morning November 14. There are thirty four state granges and all are represented here. While each state is entitled to only two delegates many guests are present. During the first week a large auditorium was necessary to hold the meetings but this week they are held in the ballroom of the Bond hotel.

Friday was the big day. fully 20,000 grangers being in Hartford, it being Seventh Degree day, when 12,678 members received the highest degree. The degree team began work at nine a. m. and continued until midnight. Mrs. Boak had the honor of being in the court for 3 classes. This is the largest class ever initiated into a fraternal order.

Last week many banquets and sight-seeing trips were planned. This week we are quite busy disposing of the 94 resolutions that have been presented. On Monday the invitation of the California State grange to entertain the National grange in 1935 was accepted.

Nearly 200 people from Pennsylvania are in attendance. I regret that we were unable to house this great assembly so that we might be able to do it in 1936.

Counsel For Fallen Utility Magnate Paints Innocent Picture For Jury

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Samuel Insull and his associates acted in all innocence when they formed the Corporation Securities company, Floyd E. Thompson, counsel for the fallen utility magnate, told a jury today.

The men charged with defrauding the public of $120,000,000 through sales of Corporation Securities stock, acted with only the best intentions, Thompson declared in continuation of his closing statement.

Leslie E. Salter, special assistant to the attorney general, was to step to the rostrum at the conclusion of Thompson's address.

Bitter Tone.

Thompson's tone was tinged with bitterness as he bewailed the blast of inflation in Wall and Lasalle streets which stripped the defendants and left them in terror.

He said:

"Of the 120,000,000 people in this country, only a trifling few know what the stock market is. I doubt if 5,000 of the 20,000 Corporation Securities stockholders ever were in the market."

People who knew nothing of the market operations were impelled to go into the market solely in the hope that they could sell their purchases to somebody else at a little higher price, the attorney declared. It was this speculators' market that caused Samuel Insull's ruin, Thompson said.

If you haven't thought of it before, stick that bit of fur that has been lying around the house for so long on your hat. Fur trimmed hats are very swanky.

Black Panther Being Hunted

Big Black Panther Is Reported Trapped In Cave Near Uniontown, Pa.

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 23—Sheriff's deputies and backwoods huntsman camped today outside the lair of what they believed is a large black panther, fearful lest the animal strike down women and children in the Beaver Creek Valley.

His escape cut off by Fayette county's gas bomb squad and expert police riflemen, the animal was trapped in a mountain cave high above Beaver Creek Valley, about 15 miles east of here.

Several woodsmen who crept to within a few feet of the entrance reported seing a black paw, beyond their reach. Gas bombs and shots failed to dislodge the fugitive animal as the city officers and mountaineers stood by, determined to "wait out" their prey.

Problem Arises On Sunday Sale Of Beer In Clubs

County Treasurer Is Without Enforcement Fund He Says

HAS CONTROL OF BEER ONLY PLACES

Closing all the clubs in New Castle on Sunday may be a little more complex matter than it first appeared to be. On Thursday District Attorney Mont L. Ailey announced that his office was ready and willing to render whatever aid was necessary to State Investigator Michael Sarko in stopping the clubs from selling alcoholic beverages on Sunday. Today it appears that those clubs selling only beer under a license issued by the County Treasurer are outside the scope of the State Liquor Control Board.

A review of the Act of 1933, Special Session, covering malt liquors, licenses for which are issued by the county treasurer, specifically prohibits clubs from operating on Sundays and election days. Asked his opinion in the matter County Treasurer W. O. Pitts said, "that is true and I am perfectly willing to enforce the law but not at my own expense. I revoked one license but the County Controller would not approve the vouchers for the expense. I paid the $80 costs out of my own pocket. It seems to me that I am hardly expected to conduct an enforcement campaign and pay the expenses personally.

Pass Responsibility

"With the experience I had in revoking one license I took the matter up with such law enforcement agencies as the sheriff, the county detective, and the state police. All of them passed the responsibility back to me. They all said that it was my job to see that no beer was sold in clubs operating under a beer license from this office. The county treasurer has no enforcement officers nor has he any appropriation to carry out the law. I am willing to shoulder all the responsibility of the office but I will not spend my personal funds for a duty that should be paid for by the county."

As the matter stands nobody seems to know whether or not the "beer only" clubs will be closed on Sunday. The law says they are not permitted to sell on Sunday.

City Orders New Grating Installed

Councilman Butler Denies That Damage Done During Resurfacing

Instead of the city paying $6.50 damages, council today adopted a motion submitted by Councilman D. O. Davies, ordering the owners of the W. G. Dunn property, East Washington street, to put the grating in the rear of the property in a safe condition.

According to a communication given to council, in session at City Hall today, William P. Smith asked the city for $6.50, for repairing a grating in the rear of the property in Sycamore Way.

Councilman Butler told colleagues that it was not correct, as stated, that a grating had been broken while the thoroughfare was being resurfaced. He also said that only one rod in the grating had been repaired.

Solicitor White said the city does not have to pay for the damages as the grating is not supposed to be in the street and the property owners have it there only as licensee.

Following White's opinion, Councilman Davies submitted the motion which passed, instructing the property owners to install what council considers a safe grating.

Not Yet Able To Deliver Clear Deed

Cannot Give Clear Deed Until Tax And Penalty Problem Is Adjusted

Sometime ago Dr. W. F. Guy purchased from the city at a tax sale a lot the deed for which has not yet been delivered. During council meeting as city hall today Solicitor White informed council he is not responsible for the delay.

He told council that the purchaser had paid sufficient money to pay all the taxes against the property but due to delay penalties had been added to the taxes.

The purchaser took the matter up with the school board and secured a pro rata adjustment but the county has not yet acted upon the lawyer's request for a similar adjustment, White said.

He said that until such an agreement was had it would be impossible for the city to give Dr. Guy a clear deed for the property.

FHA Employes Given Training

Information Is Imparted To Staff Of Federal Housing Administration Office

TO START DUTIES IN NEAR FUTURE

In line with the training and education that the investigators in the local office of the Federal Housing Administration are receiving, the employes listened to a prepared illustrated lecture, presented on a "visomatic" machine sent here from Washington, in the office of the Federal Housing Administration in the Greer building, Thursday afternoon.

The information imparted gave the investigators further insight into the program mapped out by the heads of the Federal Housing Administration in Washington, as to the course they shall pursue in their work here, which will be started in the near future.

Many ways in which the home owner can improve his property, and if deserving of a loan, will be helped by the financial institutions for this purpose, were outlined.

At the present time, there are 45 employes in the local office, of which Marcus Feuchtwanger is executive chairman, including both men and women, who have been going through a regular course in training so that when they do contact the home owners, they will be fully equipped to answer all questions.

Hold Eight Boys For Thefts On South Side

City detectives today announced they had solved the robberies at the Lebo store, a Long avenue poultry market, several shoe shops and Becky's place and that eight boys have been taken into custody. The boys over 16 years of age will be held for aldermanic hearing and the others have been turned over to the juvenile officer of Lawrence county.

City Purchases Granite Curb

Buys Curb Rejected For Butler Avenue; To Pay 25 Cents A Foot

Council today received from T. H. Byrd, Salisburg, N. C., a communication in which he accepted the city's price of 25 cents a foot for the granite curb which years ago was rejected when Butler Avenue was resurfaced.

The curb was not up to specifications and the city would not permit Woods and Golder to use it and the latter then would not accept the curb.

The curb has laid along Butler Avenue since that time and considerable of it has been stolen, according to city officials.

The purchase was made at the suggestion of City Engineer Hoskins who said several days ago the city would be able to use the curbing.

The city does not know exactly how much curbing is left. Originally there were 1,000 feet, it was said during council meeting.

The girl died two hours after being admitted to Rossman-Bashline hospital, Grove City.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

HENS MUST EAT PLENTY FOR HIGH PRODUCTION

Feed consumption has a marked influence on egg production.

Thirty-five farms on which the feed consumption was more than 80 pounds per bird had an average of 171 eggs per bird for the year. On farms with an average feed consumption of about 65 pounds a bird, the average egg production was only 105.

The chief source of income from poultry is eggs and the chief item of expense is feed. When feed costs were subtracted from egg receipts, the high-producing flocks returned $1.82 per bird, while the low-producing flocks were returning 61 cents for eggs above the cost of feed.

Pullets in reasonably heavy egg production may not eat enough grain to maintain their body weight. A drop in production results and often a molt accompanies this drop. The following mixture fed at the rate of three pounds (before moistening) to each 100 birds daily may aid in maintaining feed consumption and consequently body weight: 10 pounds ground yellow corn, 10 pounds ground rolled oats, and 10 pounds condensed milk. It should be fed in a crumbly form.

If dried milk is used in place of condensed, it should be practical from an economy standpoint to use one-third as much.

POTATOES MAY BE FED WITH GRAIN TO SWINE

Several farmers have asked about the value of potatoes as feed for swine.

Potatoes contain a large percentage of water. The dry matter is high in carbonhydrates and very low in both mineral matter and fiber. These facts should be considered in the successful feeding of potatoes to hogs.

Experimental results show that, on the average, 420 pounds of potatoes cooked are equal to 100 pounds of shelled corn if properly balanced with other feed and fed in the proportion of not more than 4 pounds of potatoes to 1 pound of grain.

Potatoes should be cooked until soft, and the surplus water thrown away as this water contains a bitter, poisonous ingredient which is unpalabable and objectionable. This cooking increases the effeciency of the potatoes one-third. If the potatoes have started to sprout, the sprouts should be removed and thrown away before the potatoes are cooked.

Three parts of shelled corn, 3 parts of ground whole oats, and 2 parts of 60 per cent tankage by weight is a good ration to supplement potatoes. One pound of this grain mixture should be fed with each 4 pounds of potatoes.

In addition to the grain mixture a mineral mixture should be fed either free choice or with the feed at the rate of 1 or 2 pounds to 100 pounds of grain. A satisfactory mineral mixture is composed of equal parts by weight of ground limestone, air-slacked or hydrated lime, acid phosphate, charcoal, and salt.

MULCH ON STRAWBERRIES NEEDED FOR PROTECTION

Severe winter weather last year served to emphasize again the importance of mulching strawberries, especially in the case of numerous growers who had become increasingly lax in regard to this practice during the several previous very mild winters.

Although the strawberry is relatively hardy, the low temperatures of last winter were fatal to large numbers of plants in certain patches which were not protected by mulch. Little if any such winter-killing was observed in plantings which were adequately mulched.

In the average winter, the prevention of winter killing is one of the less important features in the use of a mulch. More important is the fact that mulch, when applied to frozen ground, tends to keep it frozen, thus preventing alternate freezing and thawing which "heaves" some plants out of the ground, seriously injures the roots of others, and materially reduces the yield of fruit later.

Damage from spring frosts may be largely avoided by leaving the mulch on as long as possible in the spring. Blossoming may thus be delayed as much as 10 days to 2 weeks. A very light mulch will not do this, as the plants will grow up through it. Where a heavy application is made, however, the plants will not grow through, and the material may be left in place until some of the leaves begin to show yellowish color. Enough of the mulch must be removed at this time to allow the plants to grow up through that which remains.

During the picking season the mulch keeps the berries clean and free from grit, and helps to conserve the soil moisture and to smother weeds.

Wheat straw is perhaps the best material for mulching. However, various other materials have been successfully used. Rye straw is fairly good, but is a little coarse unless chopped. Barley, buckwheat, and oats straw are widely used, but they tend to pack down rather tightly and smother the plants somewhat. Even corn stalks, potato vines, shredded corn fodder, or leaves may be considered superior to no mulch.

Whatever the material used, it should be free from grain, grass, and weed seeds. If too many foreign seeds are introduced into the strawberry patch, the weed problem may become so great as to more than offset the benefits of the mulch.

In Pennsylvania the best time for applying the material is usually in late November or early December, about the first time the ground becomes well frozen. The mulch should be spread several inches deep over the plants and the area between the rows. An application of 4 to 5 tons of straw per acre is usually sufficient.

It is often advisable to haul out the mulching material and distribute it in small piles at intervals along the patch several weeks before it is to be spread. Thus it becomes damp and is more likely to remain in place when spread. Dry straw may blow away badly before it has become sufficiently settled.

WOOLEN FABRICS HAVE INTERESTING FEATURES

Several points are outstanding in summing up the characteristics of the new woolens, according to Miss Eleanor Drury, home economics extension representative.

There are very few smooth surface materials. Interesting weaves and rough surfaces characterize the fall materials. This roughness is obtained by irregular nubs or ribs, by boucles or by crinkles, giving the tree bark surface.

An outstanding novelty in the new materials is the use of metal threads (gold or silver) in all types of wool materials, from the formal to the practical, jersey being a good example of the latter. Cellophane threads are mixed with wool or form stripes on the surface. Materials of this type are often not a good choice if the garment is to be worn more than one season.

Printed velveteen is being used for dresses and suits alone and in combination with wool; for example a wool plaid skirt has a velveteen jacket which repeats one of the colors of the plaid; an afternoon costume is made up of a black velveteen skirt and scarf, with a plaid wool jacket. Hairs on the surface of materials give a frosty look to all sorts of weaves. Reversible fabrics of all kinds are popular and many give a changeable effect. Plaid mohairs are used for blouses and coat linings. Many of the dress woolens are sheer.

Hand-knit garments are as popular as ever and even here metal or cellophane threads are mixed with the wool.

Street suits and street dresses are colorful, in plain colors, tweed mixture, large or small plaids, checks or stripes.

Beautiful material need no complication of dress design but is enhanced by simplicity and perfection of cut, Miss Drury concludes.

Drugs and appliances supplied under National Health Insurance in England average 75 cents per insured person a year.

Barley, buckwheat, and oats straw are widely used, but they tend to pack down rather tightly and smother the plants somewhat. Even corn stalks, potato vines, shredded corn fodder, or leaves may be considered superior to no mulch.

Whatever the material used, it should be free from grain, grass, and weed seeds. If too many foreign seeds are introduced into the strawberry patch, the weed problem may become so great as to more than offset the benefits of the mulch.

In Pennsylvania the best time for applying the material is usually in late November or early December, about the first time the ground becomes well frozen. The mulch should be spread several inches deep over the plants and the area between the rows. An application of 4 to 5 tons of straw per acre is usually sufficient.

It is often advisable to haul out the mulching material and distribute it in small piles at intervals along the patch several weeks before it is to be spread. Thus it becomes damp and is more likely to remain in place when spread. Dry straw may blow away badly before it has become sufficiently settled.

WOOLEN FABRICS HAVE INTERESTING FEATURES

Several points are outstanding in summing up the characteristics of the new woolens, according to Miss Eleanor Drury, home economics extension representative.

There are very few smooth surface materials. Interesting weaves and rough surfaces characterize the fall materials. This roughness is obtained by irregular nubs or ribs, by boucles or by crinkles, giving the tree bark surface.

An outstanding novelty in the new materials is the use of metal threads (gold or silver) in all types of wool materials, from the formal to the practical, jersey being a good example of the latter. Cellophane threads are mixed with wool or form stripes on the surface. Materials of this type are often not a good choice if the garment is to be worn more than one season.

Printed velveteen is being used for dresses and suits alone and in combination with wool; for example a wool plaid skirt has a velveteen jacket which repeats one of the colors of the plaid; an afternoon costume is made up of a black velveteen skirt and scarf, with a plaid wool jacket. Hairs on the surface of materials give a frosty look to all sorts of weaves. Reversible fabrics of all kinds are popular and many give a changeable effect. Plaid mohairs are used for blouses and coat linings. Many of the dress woolens are sheer.

Hand-knit garments are as popular as ever and even here metal or cellophane threads are mixed with the wool.

Street suits and street dresses are colorful, in plain colors, tweed mixture, large or small plaids, checks or stripes.

Beautiful material need no complication of dress design but is enhanced by simplicity and perfection of cut, Miss Drury concludes.

Drugs and appliances supplied under National Health Insurance in England average 75 cents per insured person a year.

Controversy Over Location Of Pump

Mad Anthony Wayne And Gen. Robert E. Lee Once Stopped At Landmark

(International News Service)

WAYNESBORO, Pa.— Location of the old, historic town pump, where such celebrated figures as Gen. Anthony Wayne and Gen. Robert E. Lee paused in the heat of battle to water their horses, has become the subject of a raging controversy.

The old pump has furnished water for scores of families for years in the vicinity of Center Square. Although many of the older inhabitants differ as to its position, the site was believed established in a number of photographs uncovered by members of early families.

The primitive utility is easily discernible on several pictures made in 1882 when Center Square was a cobblestone thoroughfare. It was located just slightly west of the line which will be followed by the sanitary sewer excavation now in progress.

It was at the ancient pump that General Wayne, after whom Waynesboro was named, stopped to water his horse, and after drinking the water, remarked:

"What a lovely place to build a town."

The Confederate General, Lee, enroute to the crucial battle at Gettysburg, also paused at this same pump.

National Grange Asks For Increase In Price Of Gold To Stabilize Prices

(International News Service)

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 23.—The National Grange was on record today as favoring an increase in the price of gold sufficient to bring about a balance between commodities and inflexible prices.

President Roosevelt was requested to take necessary steps to "set and maintain" such a desired price for gold in a resolution adopted by the grange at the closing session of its convention last night.

Another resolution opposed "unlimited issuance of currency without adequate gold backing and to the issuance of bonds for government expense" and favored issuance of $3,000,000,000 in non-interest-bearing treasury certificates for retirement of United States bonds, or "payment of expenses incurred by the public relief program."

Changes Proposed

Proposed changes in the national relief program were embodied in resolutions which provided:

1—That government owes no able-bodied man a living, only a chance to make a living.

2—That the public works administration regulate both hours and compensation for labor in harmony with private business in the same section.

3—That every able-bodied person receiving direct relief from society be required to render to society a dollar's worth of service for every dollar of relief received, and,

4—That relief be administered by local authorities as much as possible.

Forest Fires Still Raging

Despite Heavy Rainfall, Forest Fires Rage In West Virginia

(International News Service)

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 23.—Despite an inch and one-half rainfall last night, hundreds of forest fires were still roaring through West Virginia's wooded areas today.

D. B. Griffith, assistant state forester in charge of fire prevention work, reported after a state-wide survey, that 5,000 men were fighting the blazes.

The most severe fire, Griffith reported, is on the state game refuge in Logan county.

A 24-hour drenching rain will be necessary to entirely quench the fires, Griffith said.

The fire on the state game refuge was driving out deer by the score, fire-fighters reported.

Griffith said that no towns are believed endangered although Whitesville, a coal town of 4,000 population in Boone county, was imperiled early this morning when flames neared. The fire was driven back by conscripted crews of fire-fighters.

Government Would Buy Virgin Timber

Tract Of Virgin Hemlock Timber Would Be Used As "Natural Laboratory"

(International News Service)

KANE, Pa., Nov. 23—Purchase of 4,300 acres of virgin hemlock timber located in McKean and Warren counties by the National Forest Reservation commission was reported scheduled for consummation in Washington today.

Termed the "only remaining stand of virgin hardwood hemlock in eastern United States," the tract will be used as a "natural laboratory" in the Allegheny National forest, now embracing 469,776 acres.

Protests Heard

Although the Central Pennsylvania Lumber Co., owners of the land, are reported willing to sell, employes of the concern were to be represented as protestants at the Washington hearing today.

Their objection is that sale of the land would cut short logging operations by three years and eventually throw them out of work.

Currency-Banking Reforms Will Come In Next Congress

Reform Leaders Converge On Washington For Series Of Conferences

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—A battle in the new congress over currency and banking reforms was assured today as the reform leaders converged on the national capital for a series of conferences.

A legislative program undoubtedly will be drafted by the reform leaders before congress meets. They were led by Senator Elmer Thomas (D) of Oklahoma and the Rev. Charles Coughlin, the Detroit "radio priest". Others supporting the reform move included George Le Blanc, formerly of the Equitable Trust company; Robert Harriss, New York broker, and James H. R. Cromwell, step-son of E. T. Stotesbury, the Philadelphia capitalist.

Restoration of Prices.

The group will fight for restoration of 1926 prices. They may offer a wide series of legislative means for reaching this goal. One suggestion has been the creation of a central bank of issue, which would issue all American money and thereby take from national and federal reserve banks the right to issue money. It has met with little favor in congressional circles.

Another plan, previously proposed, is to increase open market operations by the government. This would mean the purchase of government bonds on the open market with currency issued against the monetary reserves now in the treasury. The reformers declare the devaluation of the gold dollar doubled the value of the gold in the treasury vaults and that billions of dollars of treasury notes could be issued against the gold, without giving the nation true inflation, such as destroyed the German mark some years ago.

Demand Free Coinage.

The silver bloc meanwhile will demand free coinage of silver and its actual remonetization. The silverites may join the currency reformers on a combined program.

The administration's views on monetary reforms probably will not be known until congress meets. The president undoubtedly will touch this subject in his usual message to a convening congress.

Heart Flutters Are Photographed

Lovers Can No Longer Conceal Their Emotions When New Camera Is Used

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—Fluttering of the heart and other valvular disturbances commonly ascribed to lovers, can no longer be concealed—in fact, the beat of your heart can now be photographed.

A demonstration of the "heart-action camera" in Hahnemann hospital here lent an atmosphere of the cinema to the large sun porch where the invention of G. Howlett Davis, Jr., a radio engineer and sound expert from Detroit, excited favorable comment from medical men witnessing the procedure.

An attractive nurse bent over the bed of a sick young man, placed a small black box over his heart and the scene was "shot". Pulsations of the patient's heart were picked up by the small box, converted into electrical impulses, amplified and registered on a swiftly moving film.

"The little box," explained Davis, who addressed the eastern homeopathic medical convention here, "contains a sensitive button which pulses with the heart when pressed against the chest."

"The apparatus, which is equipped with double parts can register simultaneously on the same film the behaviour of any two valves of the heart," the inventor added.

Attempt To Kidnap Two Chorus Girls Foiled In Boston

Costly Gifts For Marina And George

(International News Service)

LONDON, Nov. 23. — An ancient cumbersome coach of black and gold, dragged by six powerful horses, lumbered into the courtyard of Buckingham Palace this morning, and the smiling Lord Mayor of London, Sir Stephen Molyneaux Killik, stepped out with the wedding gift of the City of London to Princess Marina and the Duke of Kent.

The stately arrival of the Lord Mayor marked the beginning of a stream of visitors bringing presents from every important town and many villages of the Kingdom.

The engaged couple personally received the gifts, adding them to the costly array.

Tonight Marina and George make their first formal appearance together.

MacGuire Starts Counter-Attack

Demands Congressman Prove Statement He Has $18,000 Fascist Fund

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Gerald P. MacGuire, named by Major General Smedley D. Butler as the agent for the "fascist plotters" the general said were planning a dictatorship in the United States, launched a counter-attack upon his accuser today.

The Wall street bond salesman challenged Representative Samuel Dickstein to prove his statement to the press that he (MacGuire) possesses a bank account "considerably in excess of $18,000," obtained because of his alleged position as key man in the fascist movement or withdraw it. Dickstein made the statement in his capacity as vice chairman of the congressional committee investigating un-American activities in this country, before which MacGuire was summoned after Butler made his spectacular charges.

Strong Denials

MacGuire's challenge was issued through his counsel, Norman L. Marks, as the bond salesman went before the committee for the fourth time, in secret session today.

"If Dickstein doesn't withdraw that ridiculous statement we will open Mr. MacGuire's bank accounts to newspapermen so they can see for themselves it is untrue," said Marks.

TARENTUM, Pa., Nov. 23.—After serving 18 years, Rev. William J. Dickey, known as the dean of Allegheny Valley ministers, has resigned his pastorate at the Tarentum First United Presbyterian church to accept a call at the Glade Inn United Presbyterian church in Cooperstown.

The Dramatic club of the school will present two of their best and most popular one-act plays.

CHAPEL HONORS SQUADS

Today a recognition service was held in honor of those students who have made the student service division an outstanding organization for the betterment of the school. It is the purpose of this body to keep the various activities of the school running smoothly and in an orderly manner.

The program was begun by the regular devotionals. Principal F. L. Orth then introduced the two speakers for the special chapel. Judge J. A. Chambers gave an address on "Citizenship in the City" and immediately following his spech, Dr. C. C. Green spoke to the students on the topic "Citizenship in the school."

The Student Service then stood and repeated the school oath which Mr. Orth administered to them. Following the taking of the oath each squad was presented to Mr. Orth and in turn received their badges.

Those squads receiving badges were:

Assembly squad—Capt. Richard Hamilton, Capt. John Glenn.

Dismissal squad—Capt. William Warnock.

Equipment squad—Capt. William Shira.

Hall Patrol squad—Capt. Thomas Trodden.

Library squad—Frances Lutton.

Information squad—Capt. Margaret McCracken.

In addition to these were the office squad, which has no captain, and the football ushers who received no badges on account of their armbands being given to them at the game. Nevertheless these squads received due recognition.

After the student body sang one verse of the Alma Mater, the students remained seated until the Student Service division had filed out of the auditorium. This mark of recognition closed the chapel program.

HEAR LECTURE

On Tuesday morning the upper classmen of senior high school listened to a lecture given by James A. W. Killip, a noted alcohol educator from Philadelphia. He spoke not to persuade the younger generation to give up the drinking of alcoholic beverages, but rather as a teacher to instruct the pupils in the danger and ultimate results of the continual practice of drinking. Mr. Killip's speech was forceful, instructive and entertaining.

Mr. Killip is well educated in the subject as he has spoken in high schools and grammar schools thruout both New Jersey and Pennsylvania. He is president of the Pennsylvania young people's branch of the association of Y. P. B. workers and has served as chairman of the United States Prohibition Emergency commission. Since 1931, he has devoted all his time to the study and presentations of alcoholic education. He is well versed in the education particularly of young people and has spent the last six years as a recreational director in Pennsylvania for the Y. P. B. and also has been an active worker in the New Jersey encampment movement. He has traveled through central and eastern United States from Mexico to Canada, studying the habits of youth. He is the author of the playlet, "We'll Tell the World About Ethyl." Today, his work is generally at the W. C. T. U. headquarters at Harrisburg.

ONE-ACT PLAYS GIVEN

As in previous semesters, the Dramatic club of the school has been extremely busy preparing one-act plays as a part of their dramatic curriculum. These plays are under the general direction of the more active and experienced members of the Dramatic club. This year the six pupils chosen for this job were Willy Leonhardt, Ruth Shale, Doris Marvin, Layte Wheeler, Betty McConahy and Helen Bauman. This method of studying dramatics gives the pupils a chance not only for learning the general elements of good dramatics but also gives them a chance to develop their executive and administrative abilities in this line of work.

Their productions have been given throughout the city at various club meetings, church organizations and they are available for almost any association in or about the city who need a feature for their entertainment program. In this way the student actresses and actors may study the reaction of many different types of audiences. The plays this season have ranged from comedy and satire to melo-dramas. This season of the present series of one-act plays for the class is now rapidly coming to a close as the students are now beginning to practice for the most important item of the semester, the senior A play.

REPRESENTATIVES MEET

The Student Representatives held their bi-monthly meeting on Tuesday. Ralph Gardner, the faculty manager, gave a talk on the advanced sale of tickets for the Thanksgiving football game. Reserved tickets can only be secured from the students of the high school up to November 27. A contest will be held between all the classes and the class selling the greatest number of tickets will be given a worth while award. In addition to this award of special recognition, each class will receive a certain percentage of the amount received from their sale.

Donna Jean Beall, chairman of the student committee, explained the method that would be used for the selling of these tickets.

JUNIOR B'S ARE CHAMPS

The girls' entry class volley ball season for this semester has been completed after six weeks of active playing among the six class teams. This series of games ended with the junior B's as the school champions, having defeated all other teams during this athletic competition. As a symbol of their victory, these girls have been presented with letters similar to the football and basketball letters presented to the boy athletes of the school. In this way, though the girls of the school are deprived of the pleasure of competing with other schools, they may yet receive some athletic recognition by their interclass play.

Common Names Head List In Name Survey

"Mary" Most Popular For A Girl's Name And "John" Leads Boy's List

RELIGIOUS ORIGIN IS SEEN IN NAMES

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 23.—What's in a name?

One kind of an answer to that question comes from the bureau of vital statistics in the state department of health where Anna P. Halkovich has just finished a statistical summary of the given names of babies born in 1933 in five Pennsylvania counties.

The counties used in the survey were Adams, Chester, Dauphin, Lackawanna and Lancaster. A total of 14,481 births were considered.

Out of the survey came the fact that Dorothy, Elizabeth, Mary, James, John, Robert and William were the most popular names in 1933. Mary led the list in all but Adams county where it shared honors with Dolores. The latter appeared only in that county as the name of eight out of every 100 babies.

John, of boys' names, ranked first in all but Chester and Dauphin counties where Robert and Joseph, respectively, were high.

Besides Dolores, other names which appeared only in some of the five counties were Anna, missing in Dauphin; Helen, appearing only in Dauphin; Joan, missing in Adams and Lancaster; Margaret, missing in Adams and Dauphin; Shirley and Nancy appearing only in Lancaster; Charles, missing in Adams and Lackawanna; Joseph, missing in Adams, Dauphin and Lancaster; Paul, missing in Chester, Dauphin and Lackawanna; Richard, missing in Chester and Lackawanna, and Thomas, appearing only in Lackawanna.

Another observation developed from the survey was that 60 per cent of the names were of religious origin. Patriotically inclined parents thought up "United States Liberty" and "Christmas New Year" for two children.

Famous persons were remembered by many parents, with President Franklin D. Roosevelt having a namesake in every county but Lackawanna during 1933. Other notables included:

Robert Lee, John Milton, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Benjamin Franklin, George Washington, Theodore Roosevelt, Richard Byrd, John Wesley, the poet Vergil, Lord Byron, Walter Scott and Thomas Jefferson.

Movie stars given namesakes were Janet Gaynor, John Gilbert, Kay Francis, Anne Harding and John Bennett.

Britain Develops 'Silent' Bomber

By HOWARD BERRY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(International News Service)

LONDON, Nov. 23—Night bombing aircraft of the British Royal Air Force will in future be silent messengers of death and destruction.

These giant birds of prey when in flight are to be fitted with an added menace—a new type of engine silencer so efficient that when flying above a height of 10,000 feet the planes will be inaudible from the ground.

All previous silencing devices for aero-engines have had two great disadvantages. They have been too heavy and have had an adverse effect on the engine's power by setting up powerful back-pressure.

The new silencer is relatively light and its use involves only a small loss, not exceeding 2 per cent, of the engine's power output. This was shown in the course of recent test at Hanworth Airdrome, where three different types of aircraft were fitted with the silencer.

Its adoption will add greatly to the difficulties of ground defences relying upon "sound-locators," for the detection of enemy raiders at night.

Blackstone Robes For Sale In U. S.

Official Robes Of English Jurist Remarkably Well Preserved

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The action of Judge James H. Wilkerson, who is presiding over the trial of Samuel Insull in Chicago federal court, in donning judicial robes, threatens to re-establish an ancient custom among federal jurists, who have discarded for many years the traditional black garb of justices of the supreme court in this country and in all courts abroad.

And, if any judge desires, he may acquire and wear the judicial robes of Sir William Blackstone, one of the keystones of the legal profession, whose works have been the foundation of the legal educations of great lawyers for two centuries.

The Blackstone robes and a collection of other rarities identified with the life and work of the eminent English jurist have been sent to New York by their British owners and are in the safekeeping of the Guaranty Trust Co., pending their sale to a collector in this country.

The official robes are remarkably well preserved considering their great age and the relatively perishable nature of the material. The garments include his judge's robe and ermine fur tippet, his silk scarf, "D. D." hood, and black hat. The robes are bright red in color and lined with silk.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m. November 22, seven arrests on charges as follows: Violation of traffic ordinance 3, exceeding speed limit 1, and suspicion 3.

Harry Hoskins was as happy as a child with a Christmas toy when he reported to his superiors in city hall yesterday. He said all the projects which the city wants the RWD to do were approved at Harrisburg. He said that generally 10 days time is necessary before any project can be acted finally upon. He pointed out that he presented the city's plans Monday and informal approval was given Thursday and he anticipates a formal approval will arrive here within a few days.

Sometime ago Chief of Police Haven placed a stop sign at the intersection of Hazelcroft avenue and North Mercer street and also at Clenmore boulevard and North Mercer street. The intersections were considered dangerous. Yesterday an accident occurred at North Mercer street and Euclid avenue. No Stop sign is there. The chief said when he placed the signs at the other intersections that he realized the west side of North Mercer street is out of the city limits but believes safety first drivers will obey the signs. It is probable that more stop signs will be placed on the east side of North Mercer street.

Charles O'Brien, clerk at the department of streets, said yesterday that the entire personnel is striving hard to have various dirt streets in good shape by the time winter arrives. There are 30 men in the department and daily they work in different sections. Among their lot soon will be turning out of bed at night when snow makes the paved hills a sheet of ice.

City sewer department employes today were instructed to make repairs to a sanitary sewer in Cunningham avenue. Three houses are connected to the sewer which is blocked. The blockade was reported and the city has started to remedy the situation. City officials said today the employes may have to dig up Cunningham avenue where it joins Arlington avenue to locate the trouble.

This Farmer Must Be Making Money

(International News Service)

YORK, Pa., Nov. 23. — Chanucey Weltcamp, a farmer of near Spry, had the last laugh on three bandits who held him up at the point of a gun. The men went through Weltcamp's clothing without finding anything, overlooking a small foot-rule side pocket in his overalls where he carried $70 in bills.

Don't Pay Over 25c For Medicine Friday And Saturday

IF YOU SUFFER FROM STOMACH TROUBLE, LAZY LIVER, CONSTIPATION, NERVOUSNESS OR WEAK KIDNEYS

Are you run-down from hard work; has a spell of sickness left you weak; has your energy deserted you? If so, here is your chance to try a wonderful medicine that combines with the food in your stomach and gives marvelous relief.

Every man and woman in this city and vicinity who suffers, can have a full Introductory bottle of this NEW medicine to try, for 25c. Simply read the offer below. Hundreds of people right here in town have already taken Vendol and praise it highly. We believe there are other hundreds who have not yet given it a trial. Likely even you who read this, may have said to yourself, "Sometime I'm going to try Vendol," so that is why we make this unusual two-day trial offer.

Don't expect Vendol to "cure everything under the sun"—it won't do it, but it has helped nine people out of every ten who took it for a system cleanser. That is why we offer this Introductory bottle for 25c, because we believe the people who find a medicine that proves to be what they need, will keep on using it. The regular large bottle sells for $1.25.

The Vendol Man who offers Friday and Saturday only, a special Introductory bottle of Vendol at a fraction of usual cost.

WHAT VENDOL IS

VENDOL is a medicine made on advanced methods from the juices of herbs, barks, roots, seeds and leaves of medicinal plants. These juices combine with the juices of the stomach, such as the Pancreatic juice, the Gastric juice and others, and help to digest what we eat, delivering the food value to the different vital organs, then pass the refuse out through the bowels thoroughly and regularly. Vendol contains no iron, mercury, potash or other harsh, drastic chemicals.

Take Vendol either before or after eating, for by mixing with the juices of the stomach, it aids digestion, thus helping to rid the stomach of poisons that cause trouble.

In ten minutes after the first dose, you will be relieved of gas, sourness, heartburn, palpitation, acid risings, belching, cramps and sick stomach. Vendol relieves constipation, biliousness, dizzy spells, coated tongue, bad breath. It dries up skin eruptions that are caused by impurities in the organs—clears a "muddy" complexion due to a lazy liver.

WHAT VENDOL WILL DO

Do you realize what constipation does? If you knew from a medical standpoint the damage constipation does to the system, you would lose no time in taking a treatment of Vendol and clearing your system of this dread disease.

Do you get up mornings feeling as tired as when you went to bed? Blue? Worry about little things? Are your nerves on edge so that any little noise annoys you? Most likely you have eaten something that disagreed with you, upset your digestion, or your liver may be lazy. Vendol will quickly relieve those disagreeable feelings.

The action of Vendol is smooth and easy—not harsh or strong—yet it will cleanse your liver, stomach and bowels THOROUGHLY and COMPLETELY. It does not gripe or nauseate like many liver medicines, yet it works off the bile.

But you can prove this to yourself in a better way than by taking our word for it, and it is surely worth 25c to make the trial; so take advantage of this Introductory offer for two days only—Friday and Saturday.

After taking Vendol, you will notice many symptoms pass off such as gas in the stomach and bowels, dizziness, headaches, that tired-out, no energy, all-gone feeling, soreness and stiffness especially of mornings. The acid condition, that heavy feeling in the pit of the stomach, lump in the throat, shortness of breath, sour, acid risings will disappear and the breath will be pure and clean.

Talk about eating! Why you'll have the best appetite you ever knew!

Vendol will sweeten the stomach, work off the bile from the liver, correct kidney weakness relieve pains in the back, arms, muscles and joints, put a stop to getting up all during the night, by flushing out the impurities which may have been lodged in your system for months. It will make you LOOK better and FEEL better and seem that you are YEARS YOUNGER.

Don't miss this great chance to get your trial bottle, because you positively will not have another opportunity after Friday and Saturday. So bring this coupon to the store named below.

Loses Last Tooth At 106, Minus Gas

(International News Service)

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. Nov. 23—Dentists hold no terrors now for Miss Mary Ann Vaughn, 106, Southampton's oldest inhabitant.

One by one Miss Vaughn's teeth came out with increasing age, until only one remained—a solitary diehard. When it grew stubborn and ached terribly, Miss Vaughn went to see the dentist for the last time.

The dentist decided it was unsafe to give her gas or cocaine, but Miss Vaughn is made of sterner stuff than most.

"Take it out without," she said.

And the dentist did, and Miss Vaghn now is in the best of spirits again.

Nearly 760 Get Turkey Dinner

Pupils Of George Washington Junior High Have Treat Thursday

Six hundred eighty students were served a delicious turkey dinner in the bright and beautiful cafeteria of George Washington junior high Thursday.

For 15 cents the students received bountiful plates of turkey, dressing, mashed potatoes and pickles. Pickles were served instead of the traditional cranberries because past experience has indicated that many of the students have antipathy against cranberries. The food was prepared entirely by four women.

One hundred and fifty of the turkey dinners were served at the senior high school on Wednesday and an estimated number of 600 or 700 will be served at Benjamin Franklin junior high school next Tuesday. The total number served at the three schols will be well over 1,500.

Increasing use of the school cafeterias in the past several years has been noted by Mrs. Rachel Pollock Taylor, manager, a fact seeming to indicate that parents are realizing that it is more healthful for children to eat a simple hot lunch at the school and that it is also cheaper than carrying a lunch. Low prices prevail due to centralization of the cafeterias and economy in production and administration.

"The school cafeteria teaches the students to spend wisely, to know good food, to form good habits, to observe cleanliness and sanitary conditions under which the food is prepared, to eat in a mannerly fashion and to assume civic responsibilities through their daily contacts at lunch hour," Mrs. Taylor said today. "Growing girls and boys need a warm, wholesome lunch. The cafeteria ministers to sound nutrition of growing bodies instead of catering to appetite whims. It serves as an educational center, teaching wise food habits, courtesy and consideration for others."

Boak Writes Of Grange Sessions

State Master In Attendance At National Grange Meetings In Hartford

In a letter to the New Castle News, State Grange Master J. Audley Boak tells in interesting fashion of the National grange which is being held in Hartford, Connecticut. With his wife Mr. Boak is attending the national sessions. The letter follows.

Editor of the New Castle News:

Thinking that some of your readers might be interested in our attendance of the National grange being held in Hartford, Conn., I will write a few lines.

Mrs. Boak and I left New Castle via PRR the evening of November 12 arriving in Hartford the next PM. Hartford is an ideal convention city. Its population is 175,000 and is one of the most prosperous cities in the country. They scarcely know we have a depression. It is the insurance center of the world. one of its important industries is that of manufacturing typewriters.

The National grange opened Wednesday morning November 14. There are thirty four state granges and all are represented here. While each state is entitled to only two delegates many guests are present. During the first week a large auditorium was necessary to hold the meetings but this week they are held in the ballroom of the Bond hotel.

Friday was the big day. fully 20,000 grangers being in Hartford, it being Seventh Degree day, when 12,678 members received the highest degree. The degree team began work at nine a. m. and continued until midnight. Mrs. Boak had the honor of being in the court for 3 classes. This is the largest class ever initiated into a fraternal order.

Last week many banquets and sight-seeing trips were planned. This week we are quite busy disposing of the 94 resolutions that have been presented. On Monday the invitation of the California State grange to entertain the National grange in 1935 was accepted.

Nearly 200 people from Pennsylvania are in attendance. I regret that we were unable to house this great assembly so that we might be able to do it in 1936.

Insull Acted In Innocence

Counsel For Fallen Utility Magnate Paints Innocent Picture For Jury

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Samuel Insull and his associates acted in all innocence when they formed the Corporation Securities company, Floyd E. Thompson, counsel for the fallen utility magnate, told a jury today.

The men charged with defrauding the public of $120,000,000 through sales of Corporation Securities stock, acted with only the best intentions, Thompson declared in continuation of his closing statement.

Leslie E. Salter, special assistant to the attorney general, was to step to the rostrum at the conclusion of Thompson's address.

Bitter Tone.

Thompson's tone was tinged with bitterness as he bewailed the blast of inflation in Wall and Lasalle streets which stripped the defendants and left them in terror.

He said:

"Of the 120,000,000 people in this country, only a trifling few know what the stock market is. I doubt if 5,000 of the 20,000 Corporation Securities stockholders ever were in the market."

People who knew nothing of the market operations were impelled to go into the market solely in the hope that they could sell their purchases to somebody else at a little higher price, the attorney declared. It was this speculators' market that caused Samuel Insull's ruin, Thompson said.

If you haven't thought of it before, stick that bit of fur that has been lying around the house for so long on your hat. Fur trimmed hats are very swanky.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23. — Ruby Clark, 36-year-old Vermont teacher, now living in Nyack, N. Y., was freed today of a charge of homicide by Magistrate David Hirshfield when she was arranged in connection with the finding of the bodies of three infants in a trunk she had stored in a Brooklyn warehouse two years ago.

Miss Clarke said she knew nothing about the presence of the bodies in her trunk. Representatives from the warehouse admitted the possibility someone might have opened the trunk.

"There is no evidence against you and you are discharged," the magistrate told Miss Clarke in dismissing the complaint against her.

Black Panther Being Hunted

Big Black Panther Is Reported Trapped In Cave Near Uniontown, Pa.

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 23—Sheriff's deputies and backwoods huntsman camped today outside the lair of what they believed is a large black panther, fearful lest the animal strike down women and children in the Beaver Creek Valley.

His escape cut off by Fayette county's gas bomb squad and expert police riflemen, the animal was trapped in a mountain cave high above Beaver Creek Valley, about 15 miles east of here.

Several woodsmen who crept to within a few feet of the entrance reported seing a black paw, beyond their reach. Gas bombs and shots failed to dislodge the fugitive animal as the city officers and mountaineers stood by, determined to "wait out" their prey.

Buried Ruins Of Aztec City Discovered In Wilderness

(International News Service)

DOUGLAS, Ariz.—Discovery of an ancient city of luxury, a Babylon which is believed to have been the northernmost outpost of the Aztec civilization, was reported here by Dr. Eduardo Villa, noted archaeologist of Mazatlan, Mexico.

He and a party of seven other scientists explored the ruins recently in the Uaqui Indian country, south of Mermosillo, Sonora.

Buried partly beneath several feet of dirt, which the winds of three centuries had swept over the crumbling walls, the city was found in a veritable jungle wilderness where few white men had penetrated. It stretches for one mile in width and more than two miles in length, and is estimated by Dr. Villa to have housed some 15,000 Indians about the time Cortez was laying seige to Montezuma's metropolis.

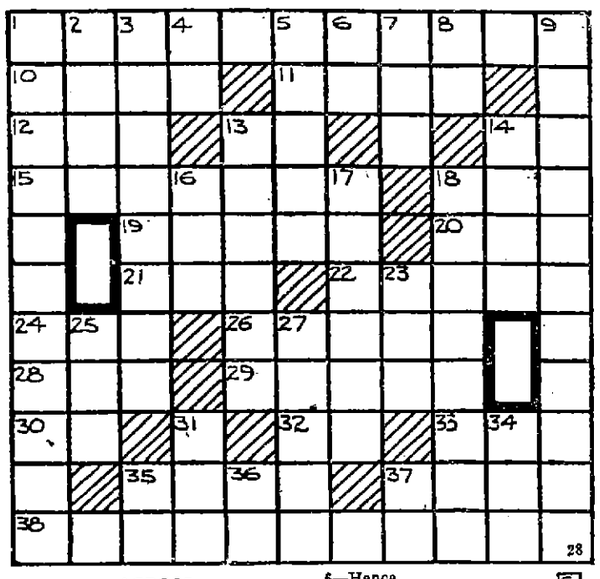

A great aqueduct rivaling those of the Romans, carried water from the Maya river several miles distant. Since it was constructed similar to those about Mexico City, it is believed that the town was an Aztec barrier against the nomadic savages from Arizona and New Mexico.

High on the bluff of a mountain wihch overlooks the ancient city, the savants stumbled across a great sacrificial platform of stone. Near the center was a rock couch where the victim lay while a fanatic priest plunged a knife of flint into the heart.

'The pagan ceremonies probably were held at twilight," Dr. Villa said. "It is easy to picture the ghostly scene as scores held torchlights aloft, marching from the town below, dragging along the human scarifices, men and women taken in battle. Once on the platform, the priest undoubtedly intoned long rituals while the victims quivered at the thought that death would soon follow. Then while the mob of religious zealots burst into mad cries, their voices screaming praises unto their gods, hearts would be torn viciously from the naked chests.

A burial ground, in which hammered and gold ornaments were found, has been partly excavated. The remains of hammocks, copper mugs and costumes of animal skins, gave evidence of a life of ease.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

HENS MUST EAT PLENTY FOR HIGH PRODUCTION

Feed consumption has a marked influence on egg production.

Thirty-five farms on which the feed consumption was more than 80 pounds per bird had an average of 171 eggs per bird for the year. On farms with an average feed consumption of about 65 pounds a bird, the average egg production was only 105.

The chief source of income from poultry is eggs and the chief item of expense is feed. When feed costs were subtracted from egg receipts, the high-producing flocks returned $1.82 per bird, while the low-producing flocks were returning 61 cents for eggs above the cost of feed.

Pullets in reasonably heavy egg production may not eat enough grain to maintain their body weight. A drop in production results and often a molt accompanies this drop. The following mixture fed at the rate of three pounds (before moistening) to each 100 birds daily may aid in maintaining feed consumption and consequently body weight: 10 pounds ground yellow corn, 10 pounds ground rolled oats, and 10 pounds condensed milk. It should be fed in a crumbly form.

If dried milk is used in place of condensed, it should be practical from an economy standpoint to use one-third as much.

POTATOES MAY BE FED WITH GRAIN TO SWINE

Several farmers have asked about the value of potatoes as feed for swine.

Potatoes contain a large percentage of water. The dry matter is high in carbonhydrates and very low in both mineral matter and fiber. These facts should be considered in the successful feeding of potatoes to hogs.

Experimental results show that, on the average, 420 pounds of potatoes cooked are equal to 100 pounds of shelled corn if properly balanced with other feed and fed in the proportion of not more than 4 pounds of potatoes to 1 pound of grain.

Potatoes should be cooked until soft, and the surplus water thrown away as this water contains a bitter, poisonous ingredient which is unpalabable and objectionable. This cooking increases the effeciency of the potatoes one-third. If the potatoes have started to sprout, the sprouts should be removed and thrown away before the potatoes are cooked.

Three parts of shelled corn, 3 parts of ground whole oats, and 2 parts of 60 per cent tankage by weight is a good ration to supplement potatoes. One pound of this grain mixture should be fed with each 4 pounds of potatoes.

In addition to the grain mixture a mineral mixture should be fed either free choice or with the feed at the rate of 1 or 2 pounds to 100 pounds of grain. A satisfactory mineral mixture is composed of equal parts by weight of ground limestone, air-slacked or hydrated lime, acid phosphate, charcoal, and salt.

MULCH ON STRAWBERRIES NEEDED FOR PROTECTION

Severe winter weather last year served to emphasize again the importance of mulching strawberries, especially in the case of numerous growers who had become increasingly lax in regard to this practice during the several previous very mild winters.

Although the strawberry is relatively hardy, the low temperatures of last winter were fatal to large numbers of plants in certain patches which were not protected by mulch. Little if any such winter-killing was observed in plantings which were adequately mulched.

In the average winter, the prevention of winter killing is one of the less important features in the use of a mulch. More important is the fact that mulch, when applied to frozen ground, tends to keep it frozen, thus preventing alternate freezing and thawing which "heaves" some plants out of the ground, seriously injures the roots of others, and materially reduces the yield of fruit later.

Damage from spring frosts may be largely avoided by leaving the mulch on as long as possible in the spring. Blossoming may thus be delayed as much as 10 days to 2 weeks. A very light mulch will not do this, as the plants will grow up through it. Where a heavy application is made, however, the plants will not grow through, and the material may be left in place until some of the leaves begin to show yellowish color. Enough of the mulch must be removed at this time to allow the plants to grow up through that which remains.

During the picking season the mulch keeps the berries clean and free from grit, and helps to conserve the soil moisture and to smother weeds.

Wheat straw is perhaps the best material for mulching. However, various other materials have been successfully used. Rye straw is fairly good, but is a little coarse unless chopped. Barley, buckwheat, and oats straw are widely used, but they tend to pack down rather tightly and smother the plants somewhat. Even corn stalks, potato vines, shredded corn fodder, or leaves may be considered superior to no mulch.

Whatever the material used, it should be free from grain, grass, and weed seeds. If too many foreign seeds are introduced into the strawberry patch, the weed problem may become so great as to more than offset the benefits of the mulch.

In Pennsylvania the best time for applying the material is usually in late November or early December, about the first time the ground becomes well frozen. The mulch should be spread several inches deep over the plants and the area between the rows. An application of 4 to 5 tons of straw per acre is usually sufficient.

It is often advisable to haul out the mulching material and distribute it in small piles at intervals along the patch several weeks before it is to be spread. Thus it becomes damp and is more likely to remain in place when spread. Dry straw may blow away badly before it has become sufficiently settled.

WOOLEN FABRICS HAVE INTERESTING FEATURES

Several points are outstanding in summing up the characteristics of the new woolens, according to Miss Eleanor Drury, home economics extension representative.

There are very few smooth surface materials. Interesting weaves and rough surfaces characterize the fall materials. This roughness is obtained by irregular nubs or ribs, by boucles or by crinkles, giving the tree bark surface.

An outstanding novelty in the new materials is the use of metal threads (gold or silver) in all types of wool materials, from the formal to the practical, jersey being a good example of the latter. Cellophane threads are mixed with wool or form stripes on the surface. Materials of this type are often not a good choice if the garment is to be worn more than one season.

Printed velveteen is being used for dresses and suits alone and in combination with wool; for example a wool plaid skirt has a velveteen jacket which repeats one of the colors of the plaid; an afternoon costume is made up of a black velveteen skirt and scarf, with a plaid wool jacket. Hairs on the surface of materials give a frosty look to all sorts of weaves. Reversible fabrics of all kinds are popular and many give a changeable effect. Plaid mohairs are used for blouses and coat linings. Many of the dress woolens are sheer.

Hand-knit garments are as popular as ever and even here metal or cellophane threads are mixed with the wool.

Street suits and street dresses are colorful, in plain colors, tweed mixture, large or small plaids, checks or stripes.

Beautiful material need no complication of dress design but is enhanced by simplicity and perfection of cut, Miss Drury concludes.

Drugs and appliances supplied under National Health Insurance in England average 75 cents per insured person a year.

PANCAKE RODEO

That famed "pancake rodeo" sponsored by the local Rotary Club will be held this year on December 10 according to announcement today by E. M. Newton, president of the organization.

As has been the custom in past years, the affair will be held in the United Presbyterian church with the ladies of that congregation scheduled to uphold their reputation as being the best pancake bakers in the district.

RELIEF WORK

Following the approval of FERA construction project in the borough by council at its special meeting last week, the application was filed by Solicitor T. V. Mansell on Monday and work is expected to begin the earlier part of December if the state badge of approval is secured.

Council voted at its special session to spend not more than $300 for materials for the project after officials from the Lawrence County relief office requested the local officials to aid their program by submitting some work.

The project for which application was made consists of several improvements in the ravine at the swimming pool. The proposed improvements are: Straightening, deepening and widening of McClure Run and rip-rapping the sides to prevent damage at flood times: grading and leveling the section around the swimming pool: relocation of the scout club house.

FIREMEN BANQUET

The spacious fire hall was enlivened by a spirit of camaraderie last night, when the losers in a recent game hunt showed their sporting blood by feting the members of the winning group at a delightful chicken dinner last night.

Roast chicken, done as only a male chef can prepare, was cooked, served and dispensed to the members of the team captained by Earl Black in the game hunt last Saturday, at which time "Bus" Wilson carried off all honors and has been appropriately named "Captain of the Hunt." Various side dishes, all tempting and delicious, combined with the chicken, appeased even the heartiest appetite.

The losing team was led by Dan McQuiston. Chairman of the banquet committee was Squire J. J. Francis.

PANCAKE RODEO

That famed "pancake rodeo" sponsored by the local Rotary Club will be held this year on December 10 according to announcement today by E. M. Newton, president of the organization.

As has been the custom in past years, the affair will be held in the United Presbyterian church with the ladies of that congregation scheduled to uphold their reputation as being the best pancake bakers in the district.

PRESENT LECTURE

James Killip, of Philadelphia president of the Young People's branch of the W. C. T. U. held the interest of a crowded house at Commmunity Hall last night when he gave a stereoptican lecture under the auspices of the local W. C. T. U. chapter.

RELIEF WORK

Following the approval of FERA construction project in the borough by council at its special meeting last week, the application was filed by Solicitor T. V. Mansell on Monday and work is expected to begin the earlier part of December if the state badge of approval is secured.

Council voted at its special session to spend not more than $300 for materials for the project after officials from the Lawrence County relief office requested the local officials to aid their program by submitting some work.

The project for which application was made consists of several improvements in the ravine at the swimming pool. The proposed improvements are: Straightening, deepening and widening of McClure Run and rip-rapping the sides to prevent damage at flood times: grading and leveling the section around the swimming pool: relocation of the scout club house.

FIREMEN BANQUET

The spacious fire hall was enlivened by a spirit of camaraderie last night, when the losers in a recent game hunt showed their sporting blood by feting the members of the winning group at a delightful chicken dinner last night.

Roast chicken, done as only a male chef can prepare, was cooked, served and dispensed to the members of the team captained by Earl Black in the game hunt last Saturday, at which time "Bus" Wilson carried off all honors and has been appropriately named "Captain of the Hunt." Various side dishes, all tempting and delicious, combined with the chicken, appeased even the heartiest appetite.

The losing team was led by Dan McQuiston. Chairman of the banquet committee was Squire J. J. Francis.

SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

(Gathered and Edited by Student Reporters)

SCHOOL PARTY TONIGHT

Tonight at 7:45 o'clock will begin the first all-class party for the high school. The program is under the auspices and sponsorship of the Student Council. In order that this party may appeal to all interests of the school the council has planned to have not only dancing but they have also arranged to have a special room where many games, including the ever-popular bingo, will be played. The Dramatic club of the school will present two of their best and most popular one-act plays.

The committees have worked diligently for the past several weeks and are hoping that this event will be one of the major successes of the social calendar for the school. The committees are as follows:

Ticket committee—Walter Conover, Doris Marvin, Mildred Davies and Bill Cleland.

Publicity committee—Betty Bridenbaugh, Bob Miner, Ralph Davies, John Thomas, Dick Hamilton, Betty Cole and Jean Casselman.

Orchestra committee—Tom Cramer, Jean Pearsall and Medra Sargeant.

Bingo—Merle Walls, Walter Nelson, Barnard Chill, George Kuzma, Art Gilchrett and Bob Young.

Fortune Telling—Virginia Cook and Beatrice Connor.

Refreshments — Edith Cowden, George Yee, Pansy Martin and Lester Grimm.

Play committee—Dona Jean Beall, Doris Marvin and Willie Leonhardt.

Decoration committee — Betty Woods, Arnold Cochran, Herman Kitchen and Luella McBride.

Miscellaneous — Ruth Stevenson, Richard Gregor and Lawrence Bennett.

The entire student body has been invited to attend.

CHAPEL HONORS SQUADS

Today a recognition service was held in honor of those students who have made the student service division an outstanding organization for the betterment of the school. It is the purpose of this body to keep the various activities of the school running smoothly and in an orderly manner.

The program was begun by the regular devotionals. Principal F. L. Orth then introduced the two speakers for the special chapel. Judge J. A. Chambers gave an address on "Citizenship in the City" and immediately following his spech, Dr. C. C. Green spoke to the students on the topic "Citizenship in the school."

The Student Service then stood and repeated the school oath which Mr. Orth administered to them. Following the taking of the oath each squad was presented to Mr. Orth and in turn received their badges.

Those squads receiving badges were:

Assembly squad—Capt. Richard Hamilton, Capt. John Glenn.

Dismissal squad—Capt. William Warnock.

Equipment squad—Capt. William Shira.

Hall Patrol squad—Cajt. Thomas Trodden.

Library squad—Frances Lutton.

Information squad—Capt. Margaret McCracken.

Lunch Room squad—Deane Smith.

School Grounds squad — Lester Grim.

In addition to these were the office squad, which has no captain, and the football ushers who received no badges on account of their armbands being given to them at the game. Nevertheless these squads received due recognition.

After the student body sang one verse of the Alma Mater, the students remained seated until the Student Service division had filed out of the auditorium. This mark of recognition closed the chapel program.

HEAR LECTURE

On Tuesday morning the upper classmen of senior high school listened to a lecture given by James A. W. Killip, a noted alcohol educator from Philadelphia. He spoke not to persuade the younger generation to give up the drinking of alcoholic beverages, but rather as a teacher to instruct the pupils in the danger and ultimate results of the continual practice of drinking. Mr. Killip's speech was forceful, instructive and entertaining.

Mr. Killip is well educated in the subject as he has spoken in high schools and grammar schools thruout both New Jersey and Pennsylvania. He is president of the Pennsylvania young people's branch of the association of Y. P. B. workers and has served as chairman of the United States Prohibition Emergency commission. Since 1931, he has devoted all his time to the study and presentations of alcoholic education. He is well versed in the education particularly of young people and has spent the last six years as a recreational director in Pennsylvania for the Y. P. B. and also has been an active worker in the New Jersey encampment movement. He has traveled through central and eastern United States from Mexico to Canada, studying the habits of youth. He is the author of the playlet, "We'll Tell the World About Ethyl." Today, his work is generally at the W. C. T. U. headquarters at Harrisburg.

ONE-ACT PLAYS GIVEN

As in previous semesters, the Dramatic club of the school has been extremely busy preparing one-act plays as a part of their dramatic curriculum. These plays are under the general direction of the more active and experienced members of the Dramatic club. This year the six pupils chosen for this job were Willy Leonhardt, Ruth Shale, Doris Marvin, Layte Wheeler, Betty McConahy and Helen Bauman. This method of studying dramatics gives the pupils a chance not only for learning the general elements of good dramatics but also gives them a chance to develop their executive and administrative abilities in this line of work.

Their productions have been given throughout the city at various club meetings, church organizations and they are available for almost any association in or about the city who need a feature for their entertainment program. In this way the student actresses and actors may study the reaction of many different types of audiences. The plays this season have ranged from comedy and satire to melo-dramas. This season of the present series of one-act plays for the class is now rapidly coming to a close as the students are now beginning to practice for the most important item of the semester, the senior A play.

REPRESENTATIVES MEET

The Student Representatives held their bi-monthly meeting on Tuesday. Ralph Gardner, the faculty manager, gave a talk on the advanced sale of tickets for the Thanksgiving football game. Reserved tickets can only be secured from the students of the high school up to November 27. A contest will be held between all the classes and the class selling the greatest number of tickets will be given a worth while award. In addition to this award of special recognition, each class will receive a certain percentage of the amount received from their sale.

Donna Jean Beall, chairman of the student committee, explained the method that would be used for the selling of these tickets.

JUNIOR B'S ARE CHAMPS

The girls' entry class volley ball season for this semester has been completed after six weeks of active playing among the six class teams. This series of games ended with the junior B's as the school champions, having defeated all other teams during this athletic competition. As a symbol of their victory, these girls have been presented with letters similar to the football and basketball letters presented to the boy athletes of the school. In this way, though the girls of the school are deprived of the pleasure of competing with other schools, they may yet receive some athletic recognition by their interclass play.

VACATION NEXT WEEK

A two-day Thanksgiving vacation will give students of senior high a rest from their classes on Thursday and Friday, November 29 and 30, Principal Orth announces.

Classes will be resumed as usual on Monday morning, December 3.

WIN SHORTHAND HONORS

Shorthand honors were won by students of three high school shorthand tests, it was revealed when Gregg writer transcription tests for November were corrected recently.

Forty of Miss G. Riddle's class, 54 Miss Beatrice Gonick's class and 58 in the class taught by Miss Florence. Brownstein received honor mention.

WESTMINSTER AND GENEVA CLASH SATURDAY

Both Teams In Final Contest

Game To Be Played At New Wilmington — See Close Battle

TWELVE PLAYERS IN LAST APPEARANCE

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 23.—Westminster and Geneva end their 1934 football seasons here tomorrow in a contest which, from all indications, should be a close one, perhaps a tie game, or, what would not be at all surprising, a free-scoring event.

The Titans have three wins, a tie, and five defeats in nine starts, while the Covenanters have one win, two ties, and five defeats. There is little to choose from in the comparative scores, and the only indication of strength is that Geneva has played better ball against outstanding opposition.

Twelve In Final Game

Six Westminster players and six Geneva players will be ending their grid careers in the contest. The Geneva players are almost all certain to start, while the six Titan seniors will also be in the starting lineup.

Westminster has not defeated Geneva since 1929. That year with Dike Beede, present Geneva coach, in charge of the Titans they won 21-0 at Beaver Falls. The 1930 game was won by Geneva 7-0; the 1931 contest, 18-0; and the 1932 and 1933 games by 19-0 and 20-0 scores.

If Coaches Bill and Tom Gilbane can have all players ready for the contest, Westminster fans expect that they can be on equal terms with the Covenanters. The return to the squad of Bill Staples at fullback and Walt Young at guard is expected to bolster the United Presbyterian attack.

Expect Large Crowd

Westminster officials are making preparations to handle a large crowd for the contest. One hundred and fifty or more Geneva students and the Geneva College band will be on hand for the event. Westminster's 40-piece band, directed by Professor Donald Cameron, will appear in new uniforms at the game. Two high school groups will be guests of the Titans at the game.

Coach Dike Beede of Geneva will probably start Garda, R. Jones, C. Johnson, and Perricelli in the backfield. While all four of these men are good backs, Johnson is the man the Titans will have to watch closely. The Titan backfield will probably include Staples at full, Sweeney at left half, Laraway at right half, and Arrowsmith at quarter.

The Covenanters will wear red jersies, while the Titans will have royal blue. The contest is scheduled to start at 2:30.

Lineups:

Westminster		Geneva

Penn State To Battle Bucknell

Four State Regulars Including Capt. Morrison Play Final Game Saturday

MORRISON

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 23 — An old gridiron rivalry, the cause of many bitter battles in the past, will be renewed tomorrow afternoon in Memorial Stadium, Lewisburg, when Penn State and Bucknell clash at 2 o'clock. The Nittany Lions are playing their final game of the 1934 campaign, and Bucknell will be making its last home appearance.

Penn State will probably enter the game with the strongest lineup it as yet been able to place on the field. A few players who received slight injuries, notably Art Fry and Frank Smith, the ends, have rested this week and will be eager to get into action tomorrow. The Lions, who have won four of their seven games this season, will be striving to finish the season above the .500 mark.

Four of State's regulars will be playing their last game under Blue and White colors. They are Captain Merrill Morrison, left halfback; Harry Sigel, right halfback; Shortly Mikelonis, quarterback and Lou Kreizman, right guard. Sigel and Morrison, fastest of the multitude of fleet backs on the Penn State squad, are expected to be at top form tomorrow. Sigel, whose specialty is running back kicks, has returned at least one kick-off back to midfield or better in every game this season.

SACRED HEARTS TO MEET

Sacred Hearts of the New Castle Church League will hold a practice session at the "Y" tonight, the final one before the opening of the league. The practice will start at 8:15 o'clock. The Sacred Hearts will be sponsored by the Keystone A. C. of this city, according to Rocco P. Vigiano.

THERE THEY GO!

In the first five games this year Syracuse averaged gains of 455 yards per game.

Army-Notre Dame Holds Spotlight For Grid World

Notre Dame Is Figured To Have Too Much Power For Army This Year

SYRACUSE WILL BATTLE COLUMBIA

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—If old Joe Upset is still hanging around the collegiate gridirons this week, as he was last, the football prognosticators are in for another headache and the racketeers who operate those football pools will reap another harvest.

One of the latter gentry—a lad who has forsaken hijacking and rum running for the more artistic and aesthetic pursuit of the dollar thru pool operations—told me yesterday the Yale victory over Princeton alone was worth at least $15,000 to him last week.

And speaking of rackets reminds me that the ticket scalpers are asking $10 a copy for "choice seats behind the goal posts" for the Army-Notre Dame game and are getting all the sucker will stand for the Yale-Harvard and Columbia-Syracuse games.

Expect Big Crowd.

The Cadets and Irish may play to 70,000, the Elis and Johnnies already have an advance sale of 50,000 and the blue and orange representatives will turn them away. That's a sweet set-up for the specs.

On form, the Army-Notre Dame affair promises to be closer than the quills on a porcupine. It usually is. And a break usually decides their annual tussle. However, there's no use trying to hedge so I step right out on a limb and pick Notre Dame.

John Harvard figures to be taken by a Yale team that could outsmart Princeton but it will be no surprise to me if the Johnnies do to the Elis what the Elis did to the Tigers.

Change Starting Time Of Football Game Next Week

Faculty Manager Gardner Announces Thanksgiving Day Game Will Start At 2:15 P. M.

There has been a change of 15 minutes in the starting time of the football game for Thanksgiving Day at Taggart Stadium that brings New Castle and Turtle Creek together in a Class AA game. The time of the game is 2:15 p. m., instead of the usual 2:30 o'clock starting time.

Gardner is looking for a big crowd at the game. A section of 1,000 tickets has been sent to Turtle Creek and will more than likely meet a ready sale.

There is no advance in price for the Turkey Day battle. The same prices that have prevailed all year will be available to the fans.

In event of good weather one of the biggest crowds in the history of Taggart Stadium will no doubt witness the schoolboy battle.

Bessemer High Football Team Enjoys Banquet

Bessemer High 1934 County Class A Football Champions Dine On Turkey

Bessemer High School football team, county Class A champions for the second consecutive year, were guests last evening at a turkey dinner held in the Bessemer High School building. Coach J. K. Fredericks acted as toastmaster of the evening. A group of 60 young men, school board members, and faculty members were present.

Speeches were made by Gerald E. Nord, supervising principal of Bessemer High School, Fran. Navarra, captain of the Bessemer High team, Dr. Frank Campbell, a member of the Bessemer School Board.

Thompson-Vincent Speak

Football Coach J. D. Thompson of Slippery Rock Teachers College and Track Coach Harry Vincent of Slippery Rock were introduced by Toastmaster Fredericks and responded with very fine talks on football and athletics.

The Bessemer team came in for a lot of praise from the speakers for having won the championship two years in a row. Fredericks had a rather green team this year, but managed to get cooperation and coordination from the youngsters. Bessemer High lost only one game on the tough program that was played.

Grovers File Title Claim

Five Victories, One Tie And One Defeat For Grove City Eleven This Year

GROVE CITY, Nov. 23.—Climaxing a successful season with a brilliant victory over Thiel in the final game, the Grove City College squad recorded five victories, with one tie and one defeat to file a definite claim for the district Class B championship. It was the third season under Coach Bill Amos, whose teams lost only one game in each of the last two seasons.

Paced by Verne Smith, star fullback who scored 88 points to place third in the nation's scorers, the Grovers rolled up 140 points to 21 for their opponents. Holbrook, Slippery Rock and Bethany were blanked in the early games before Allegheny caught the Crimson on a muddy field to surprise with a 6-0 victory. Then came a 2-2 deadlock with Westminster, a 40-0 victory over Morris-Harvey, and a 25-13 decision over Thiel. The surprise element in Grove City's only defeat is shown by the fact that Thiel defeated Allegheny, 30-0, before losing to the Grovers.

Individual Crimson scorers were Bernard Orris, who followed Smith with 24 points, Wilson with 12, Johns 8, Gross 6 and Tomko 2. The latter has played four years at end and never scored a touchdown, although he caught many a pass for long gains. Orris has had seven touchdowns called back during his career at Grove City.

City Floor Loop To Meet Saturday

Alec Samuels, president of the City Basketball league will have charge of the meeting called for 7:30 o'clock at the "Y" Saturday night. It is hoped that a fast City basketball league can be organized this year.

A big student demonstration is planned for downtown New Castle next Wednesday evening. A big student parade headed by three bands, and a gigantic line of students, with yells and cheers as they start up East Washington street.

The parade will end at Taggart stadium where a gigantic bonfire will be lighted and speeches made by Coach Phil Bridenbaugh, Captain Walter Raskowski, Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner and others.

Pirates Get Guy Bush, Jim Weaver And Babe Herman For Two Star Players

(International News Service)

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 23.— Fred Lindstrom, outfielder, and Larry French, pitcher, were traded Thursday to the Chicago Cubs for three players. The Pirates get in exchange Jim Weaver and Guy Bush, pitchers, and Babe Herman, outfielder.

Manager Charlie Grimm of the Cubs immediately set out after the completion of this deal to obtain Fred Frankhouse, star hurler of the Boston Braves. He is ready, it was said, to give Boston Kiki Cuyler, Stan Hack and a considerable cash sum for Frankhouse.

Turtle Creek To Have Fast Team

Coach Ben Haldy Will Bring Turtle Creek High Here Thanksgiving Day

Turtle Creek High school football team will come to New Castle next Thursday afternoon, (Thanksgiving) for a Class AA conference battle with the "Red Hurricanes" of New Castle High school.

New Castle topped the Creekers last year at the Turtle Creek field in a classy exhibition of football, and for that reason the Haldymen would like to even up the score here.

Chance For Title

The "Red Hurricane" has a chance to play for the Class AA title if Turtle Creek is defeated. Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh is going to give the team a lot of hard work this week and Monday and Tuesday of next week.

This is one game that New Castle wants to win. The locals will shoot the works next Thursday with the strongest possible lineup. Fleming and Cox are being groomed for smashing off-tackle thrusts and big Alec Shellogg is hitting the center of the line harder than ever before. It is hoped that the injury to Fred Shelloggs leg will be healed enough to permit him to play against Turtle Creek. "New Castle will be in for a tough afternoon," according to Bill Klee who scouted Turtle Creek in their earlier games.

TOLANS AND RYANTOWN

Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Sampson street field, the Ryantown Juniors will play the Tolan A. C. football team. The Tolans are undefeated this year and a good game is expected.

WESTMINSTER AND GENEVA CLASH SATURDAY

Both Teams In Final Contest

Game To Be Played At New Wilmington — See Close Battle

TWELVE PLAYERS IN LAST APPEARANCE

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 23.—Westminster and Geneva end their 1934 football seasons here tomorrow in a contest which, from all indications, should be a close one, perhaps a tie game, or, what would not be at all surprising, a free-scoring event.

The Titans have three wins, a tie, and five defeats in nine starts, while the Covenanters have one win, two ties, and five defeats. There is little to choose from in the comparative scores, and the only indication of strength is that Geneva has played better ball against outstanding opposition.

Twelve In Final Game

Six Westminster players and six Geneva players will be ending their grid careers in the contest. The Geneva players are almost all certain to start, while the six Titan seniors will also be in the starting lineup.

Westminster has not defeated Geneva since 1929. That year with Dike Beede, present Geneva coach, in charge of the Titans they won 21-0 at Beaver Falls. The 1930 game was won by Geneva 7-0; the 1931 contest, 18-0; and the 1932 and 1933 games by 19-0 and 20-0 scores.

If Coaches Bill and Tom Gilbane can have all players ready for the contest, Westminster fans expect that they can be on equal terms with the Covenanters. The return to the squad of Bill Staples at fullback and Walt Young at guard is expected to bolster the United Presbyterian attack.

Expect Large Crowd

Westminster officials are making preparations to handle a large crowd for the contest. One hundred and fifty or more Geneva students and the Geneva College band will be on hand for the event. Westminster's 40-piece band, directed by Professor Donald Cameron, will appear in new uniforms at the game. Two high school groups will be guests of the Titans at the game.

Coach Dike Beede of Geneva will probably start Garda, R. Jones, C. Johnson, and Perricelli in the backfield. While all four of these men are good backs, Johnson is the man the Titans will have to watch closely. The Titan backfield will probably include Staples at full, Sweeney at left half, Laraway at right half, and Arrowsmith at quarter.

The Covenanters will wear red jersies, while the Titans will have royal blue. The contest is scheduled to start at 2:30.

Lineups:

Penn State To Battle Bucknell

MORRISON

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 23 — An old gridiron rivalry, the cause of many bitter battles in the past, will be renewed tomorrow afternoon in Memorial Stadium, Lewisburg, when Penn State and Bucknell clash at 2 o'clock. The Nittany Lions are playing their final game of the 1934 campaign, and Bucknell will be making its last home appearance.

Penn State will probably enter the game with the strongest lineup it as yet been able to place on the field. A few players who received slight injuries, notably Art Fry and Frank Smith, the ends, have rested this week and will be eager to get into action tomorrow. The Lions, who have won four of their seven games this season, will be striving to finish the season above the .500 mark.

Four of State's regulars will be playing their last game under Blue and White colors. They are Captain Merrill Morrison, left halfback; Harry Sigel, right halfback; Shortly Mikelonis, quarterback and Lou Kreizman, right guard. Sigel and Morrison, fastest of the multitude of fleet backs on the Penn State squad, are expected to be at top form tomorrow. Sigel, whose specialty is running back kicks, has returned at least one kick-off back to midfield or better in every game this season.

SACRED HEARTS TO MEET

Sacred Hearts of the New Castle Church League will hold a practice session at the "Y" tonight, the final one before the opening of the league. The practice will start at 8:15 o'clock. The Sacred Hearts will be sponsored by the Keystone A. C. of this city, according to Rocco P. Viggiano.

THERE THEY GO!

In the first five games this year Syracuse averaged gains of 455 yards per game.

Army-Notre Dame Holds Spotlight For Grid World

Notre Dame Is Figured To Have Too Much Power For Army This Year

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—If old Joe Upset is still hanging around the collegiate gridirons this week, as he was last, the football prognosticators are in for another headache and the racketeers who operate those football pools will reap another harvest.

One of the latter gentry—a lad who has forsaken hijacking and rum running for the more artistic and aesthetic pursuit of the dollar thru pool operations—told me yesterday the Yale victory over Princeton alone was worth at least $15,000 to him last week.

And speaking of rackets reminds me that the ticket scalpers are asking $10 a copy for "choice seats behind the goal posts" for the Army-Notre Dame game and are getting all the sucker will stand for the Yale-Harvard and Columbia-Syracuse games.

Expect Big Crowd.

The Cadets and Irish may play to 70,000, the Elis and Johnnies already have an advance sale of 50,000 and the blue and orange representatives will turn them away. That's a sweet set-up for the specs.

On form, the Army-Notre Dame affair promises to be closer than the quills on a porcupine. It usually is. And a break usually decides their annual tussle. However, there's no use trying to hedge so I step right out on a limb and pick Notre Dame.

John Harvard figures to be taken by a Yale team that could outsmart Princeton but it will be no surprise to me if the Johnnies do to the Elis what the Elis did to the Tigers.

Change Starting Time Of Football Game Next Week

Faculty Manager Gardner Announces Thanksgiving Day Game Will Start At 2:15 P. M.

There has been a change of 15 minutes in the starting time of the football game for Thanksgiving Day at Taggart Stadium that brings New Castle and Turtle Creek together in a Class AA game. The time of the game is 2:15 p. m., instead of the usual 2:30 o'clock starting time.

Gardner is looking for a big crowd at the game. A section of 1,000 tickets has been sent to Turtle Creek and will more than likely meet a ready sale.

There is no advance in price for the Turkey Day battle. The same prices that have prevailed all year will be available to the fans.

In event of good weather one of the biggest crowds in the history of Taggart Stadium will no doubt witness the schoolboy battle.

Nearly 700 Get Turkey Dinner

Pupils Of George Washington Junior High Have Treat Thursday

Six hundred eighty students were served a delicious turkey dinner in the bright and beautiful cafeteria of George Washington junior high Thursday.

For 15 cents the students received bountiful plates of turkey, dressing, mashed potatoes and pickles. Pickles were served instead of the traditional cranberries because past experience has indicated that many of the students have antipathy against cranberries. The food was prepared entirely by four women.

One hundred and fifty of the turkey dinners were served at the senior high school on Wednesday and an estimated number of 600 or 700 will be served at Benjamin Franklin junior high school next Tuesday. The total number served at the three schols will be well over 1,500.

Increasing use of the school cafeterias in the past several years has been noted by Mrs. Rachel Pollock Taylor, manager, a fact seeming to indicate that parents are realizing that it is more healthful for children to eat a simple hot lunch at the school and that it is also cheaper than carrying a lunch. Low prices prevail due to centralization of the cafeterias and economy in production and administration.

"The school cafeteria teaches the students to spend wisely, to know good food, to form good habits, to observe cleanliness and sanitary conditions under which the food is prepared, to eat in a mannerly fashion and to assume civic responsibilities through their daily contacts at lunch hour," Mrs. Taylor said today. "Growing girls and boys need a warm, wholesome lunch. The cafeteria ministers to sound nutrition of growing bodies instead of catering to appetite whims. It serves as an educational center, teaching wise food habits, courtesy and consideration for others."

Heller Thinks Geneva-Titans Will Be Tied

Says Lafayette And Lehigh Will Also Battle To Deadlock, Dukes Favored

SLIPPERY ROCK AT BLOOMSBURG

By WARREN "FATS" HELLER
(All American Halfback In 1932)
International News Service Sports Writer
(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Duty brings me here for the coming professional football title game, but whether in New York or any other place my interest remains with the collegiate elevens of my home state. With this point in mind, I shall attempt another analysis of the Saturday schedule for Pennsylvania even though it be amid foreign surroundings.

Many teams will be seen in farewell games for the 1934 season during the week-end while others, including Pitt, Carnegie Tech and a number of additional schools, wait until Thanksgiving day to wind up the season. To me, the past season has been one of the most surprising in recent times and tomorrow may add further to the many upsets.

Rivals To Meet

Lafayette and Lehigh, long-standing rivals in the eastern part of the state, battle again with all the "fight" at their command. It looks like they are evenly matched this year. Breaks will probably decide this game, but I kind of like Fafayette a little.

The Nittany Lions of Penn State are back on their legs now and should come through with a victory over Bucknell in what looks like a grand battle.

Unless Duquesne has remedied the injuries to several of the Dukes which figured in that team being held scoreless last week by Carnegie Tech, their chances against Catholic University at Pittsburgh will be much harder.

Temple-Villa Nova

"Pop" Warner and Harry Stuhldreher aren't saying much, but that does not mean they are not giving a lot of thought to the Temple-Villanova game. The schools are old rivals and past encounters make it difficult to pick a winner. I'll take the Owls, however, on a close score.

West Chester Teachers, runners-up in the State Teachers Conference in Pennsylvania, take on West State Teachers at Kalamazoo, with the Keystone state eleven my favorite. I think Lock Haven Teachers will go down to defeat when they meet Shippensburg Teachers.

Here is a good game in the western part of the state. Geneva meets Westminster and if I'm not mistaken it shapes up as a tie. Westminster has the better record, but the Convenanters are about due to "strike."

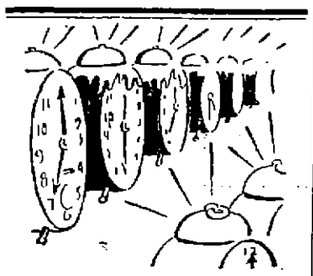

A hard scrap is looking the Waynesburg Yellow Jackets straight in the face as they prepare for Muskingum. The Ohioans boast a strong club but the Jackets play best when the opposition is toughest and, on this basis, the nod goes to the locals.

Followers of the Teachers' race are in store for another interesting tangle at Bloomsburg when Slippery Rock Teachers and Bloomsburg lock horns.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Art Lasky and Kingfish Levinsky are scheduled to battle 10 rounds tonight at Chicago.

Guy Bush, Babe Herman and Jim Weaver, obtained from the Cubs through a deal, have expressed their pleasure of having been secured to wear a Pirate uniform next season, according to messages received in Pittsburgh. Freddy Lindstrom and Larry French will go to the Cubs.

Tomorrow, dozens of cold faced alarm clocks will send us dozens of customers.

An hour after they ring . . . our cash register will start.

50c out of $1 for warm woolen hose.

$1.50 out of $5 for cozier underwear.

$3.50 out of $10 for a sweater to wear at the office.

And it won't be over fifteen minutes until those two young men looking at Overcoats will be pulling out check books and asking for fountain pens.

Everything for cold day whether it's 20 above zero or 20 below.

O'coats $21.50 to $35.00.

Judges Detriment To Boxing Game

President Of National Boxing Association Talks Against Judges At Ringside

(International News Service)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 23.—Judges at professional boxing shows are "not only superfluous, but a detriment in every way," and should be entirely eliminated, Edward C. Foster, president of one national boxing association, said today.

The observation of the N. B. A. head came following his trip to New York where he witnessed the fight between Maxie Rosenbloom and Olin.

Foster, declaring he had personally established the untruth of reports that "Slapsie Maxie" Rosenbloom and Bob Olin had been stablemates, announced that it would be wise for the association to recognize Olin as the light heavyweight champion in view of his decision victory.

Regarding the contest between Sammy Fuller of Boston, and Young Peter Jackson, President Foster said it was "a most terrible decision as Jackson was outclassed and outpunched and beaten all through the ten rounds badly." Jackson had received the decision in that fight.

County League Banquet Success

More Than Three Score Players Turn Out To Baseball Event At Elks

ATTORNEY MUSE DELIVERS TALK

Approximately 75 persons attended the banquet of the Lawrence County Baseball league held last night at the Elks club. It was one of the most successful fetes held by baseball men here in years.

Alec Samuels, president, was master of ceremonies, Vice President W. G. Andrews was toastmaster and Attorney George W. Muse delivered another of his inimitable addresses.

It developed during the session that the Italian A. A. will have a team in the Lawrence loop next season. Centennial field is to be put in good condition and they anticipate a fast team.

During the evening it was suggested by Vice President Andrews that from time to time the players hold a "smoker" and indications are next season will get away with a bang.

During his introductory remarks President Samuels paid high tribute to his colleague, Vice President Andrews, now 65, who has been engaged in baseball ever since he wore knee pants.

He also thanked the players for their cooperation with the officials and also The News for its coporation. He said that these two factors had helped make the league one of the most successful circuits hereabouts.

Vice President Andrews also stressed the point that not one protest had been placed before Mayor Mayne, Councilman Alexander and Ed. Fritz of The News.

He said the play this season had been faster than in preceding years and said that perhaps no protests had been made for fear that the Mayor might administer castor oil treatment to the guilty parties.

Mayor Recites Umpiring Days

He introduced Mayor Chas. B. Mayne, who in his day was one of the best umpires in this section. The mayor told of umpiring games in which Rube Waddell and other noted players of yesteryear participated.

The mayor also recited incidents of other games here one especially when he wore a six shooter strapped to his hip and this evidence resulted in the games going off without the umpire being chased from the field.

Councilman Alexander said that he was glad there were no protests necessary and promised his cooperation to the ball players. As director of parks he now is engaged in a cooperative plan to have athletic fields improved.

Ed. Fritz one of the organizers of the league in 1923 and who has served almost continuously as a commissioner explained the value of publicity to any undertaking and declared without it nothing can be so successful as with it.

Charlie Walthers, member of The News sports staff was called upon and explained how softball came to be originated here. Walters promised to do whatever he can to help the County league along.

Jack Gerson, a guest, was present and he said he was surprised at the number present, the fast baseball they played and said he was glad to have presented trophies to the two leading batters. The businessman further said that when next season arrives the winning team can expect to win the Gerson cup. He said that he plans to donate one of the most beautiful cups obtainable for a winning trophy.

During the evening Copple Bros. orchestra played several selections and Mike Turco rendered several numbers.

Athletics Essential

Attorney George Muse was introduced by Toastmaster Andrews as the principal speaker of the evening and as usual Mr. Muse had the boys rollicking in laughter one minute and as sober as judges the next minute. It was a typical Muse talk interspersing many fine remarks about baseball with a dash of humor.

Among the highlights of the Muse speech were the following idea: A nation without sports is not a strong nation, he cited the Chinese for example the Chinese do not participate in any kind of sports whatsoever.

Muse said that in baseball it was playing the game together that counted and that cooperation and coordination counted the most. He said that baseball creates ambition, and the ambitious young man is the leader of today.

"Baseball trains men to play the game fair and square and is excellent training for later years when the young man faces the business and political world. Mr. Muse also spoke of the thrills of baseball as numerous and one of the grandest thrills of all is the home run. Baseball develops a sense of fairness not found in any other sport. The game is faster and more scientific than it used to be many years ago. The game teaches "fair play which is the greatest thing in life. Mr. Muse finished his most excellent talk with a touch of emotion by citing a poem "Hello".

Toastmaster Andrews called upon representatives of the various teams to talk, among these being Nick Cangey of the Mahoning A. A.; Tony Onicka of West Pittsburg, Billy Pepe of Hillsville, and Jim Martin of Bessemer.

Parks Speaks

"Jake" Vessella, secretary of the league was called upon for a few remarks. Others called upon who responded with short but interesting talks were, Eddie "Lefty" Parks, one of the old time ball players of New Castle, who is still active as an umpire. Mr. Parks gave a very humorous talk and received a big hand. Mr. Irwin an umpire also was called upon to speak. Tony Sacco, a representative of the Italian A. A. was called upon for a few words.

President Alec Samuels was called upon to present the beautiful pennant to the Bessemer manager, Jim Martin and also to present the wrist watches offered by Jack Gerson to the leading batters of both Bessemer and West Pittsburg in the "World's Series" at the end of the year. The watches went to Francis Craycraft, of Bessemer, and Joe Braykovich, of West Pittsburg.

It was announced that Ellwood City and possibly the Italian A. A. of New Castle would join the league next year.

As a fitting tribute to the late Patsy Colucci of Hillsville, the entire assembledge arose and stood with bowed heads for one minute. Just before the banquet ended it was announced that a smoker would be held in February.

ARMY-NOTRE DAME HOLD SPOTLIGHT FOR GRID WORLD

Yale reached its peak last week while Harvard is just reaching its true form.

Syracuse's power house probably will be 2 to 1 over Columbia but I'm taking the latter's gulle and smartness to overcome the brute strength of the Orangemen.

Princeton-Rutgers.

Over in Jersey, an aroused Princeton team, coming back off that unexpected beating by Yale, probably will slaughter a crippled Dartmouth team and Colgate's hocus-pocus laterals should be too much for a far from weak Rutgers bunch.

Down in Pennsylvania, Pop Warner's unbeaten Temple team should out-gallop Villanova after a stiff battle. Catholic university should have a slight edge on Duquesne and it would be no surprise if Penn State and Bucknell tied after a gruelling tussle.

Moving further south, Maryland appears too strong for Georgetown, Florida should outscore Georgia Tech, which ain't what she used to be, and Georgia should take Auburn without too much trouble.

In the southwest, Southern Methodist should take Baylor in stride, Oklahoma will have a tougher time with the Aggies from the same state, and Rice should find Texas Christian easy to handle.

Chicago Vs. Illinois.

Through the midwest I'll take Chicago to take Illinois on a hunch, Marquette to edge in against Detroit, Minnesota to continue unbeaten against Wisconsin, Purdue to slaughter Indiana, Ohio State to engulf Iowa, Michigan State to beat Kansas in a close one, Northwestern to get the duke over a sad Michigan outfit and I'll let the toss of a coin decide the Kansas State-Iowa State affair. Yep, Iowa State has it.

Heading for the coast, let's pick Colorado Aggies to trim Colorado college, and let's pause a moment to pray for poor Missouri against Nebraska (I shudder to think of what will happen to Missouri) and get right on to California and Stanford.

This one may furnish the day's big upset but off their records, one must string along with Rose Bowl conscious Stanford to stop a team that seems to know everything except how to win. The Uclans should overcome Oregon State and Washington may edge in against Washington State.

Of course, there are other games. For instance, Tougaloo and Okalona will come to death grips at Okalona (and if you want to know where Okalona is, why use your own map). In any event, I'll pick Tougaloo. I like that name.

Terry Offered Carl Hubbell To Pittsburgh

But Pirates Turned Offer And Took Guy Bush, Weaver And Herman Instead

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 23.—Not a great deal was left of the annual Minor League baseball meeting this morning except the debris and, I understand, Bill Terry, although I would have you know that I'm not associating the two. They have, in fact, only one thing in common, both will go to the cleaners, unless William is able to do something to offset the Pirate-Cub deal that was consummated in the midst of yesterday's bluster and uproar. That's why William is still here, while many of the footsore and covally exhausted gentlemen of the profession are hastening back whence they came.

If you asked them why they came, they'd give you the dog-eye and change the subject.

Offered Hubbell

Anyhow, William Terry is staying behind to complete his No. 2 deal, the number one having evaporated into thin air when Freddie Lindstrom went to the Cubs in that sweeping Pittsburgh-Chicago trade yesterday. With Fred went pitcher Larry French, a good left-hander. Coming the other way were pitcher Guy Bush, pitcher Jim Weaver and outfielder Babe Herman and it was all a source of great distress to Mr. Terry. He wanted Fred as his 1935 centerfielder.

He wanted him so badly that he offered Carl Hubbell, a great left-hand pitcher, for Lindstrom and French, thinking to stop the Chicago deal and, at the same time, get the right-hand hitting outfielder he seeks but everything went wire-haired and today Mr. Terry is remaining behind the parade, where only a few hours ago he hoped to be well on his way back to Memphis. He told me last night that he was staying over to complete deal No. 2. Just what that is only two people know. The other man, I suspect, is Santa Claus.

Wants Chick Hafey

Terry was seen very much in the company of Charley Dressen, Cincinnati manager, during the meeting. The inference is and was that a deal for Chick Hafey, Cincinnati outfielder, might be the outcome. If so, it is my privilege to doubt that Hubbell would be used. If the deal he told me about last night develops, it might be for Walter Berger, of the Braves. If so, it may be a very involved transaction and Hubbell may figure. I have been tipped that Dutch Brandt, star Boston left-hander, must leave the Braves before the start of another season. In any case, all I know is that if Hubbell goes, the Giants must get a good left-hander to replace him.

There was some mention of Hal Lee, Boston outfielder, in the talk around Terry's table last night but William himself smiled in a knowing way when Lee's name came up and Dressen openly snickered. It didn't seem possible, in fact, that a Boston-New York deal could be closed without Berger figuring in it. The only difficulty was for New York to furnish a replacement who will hit thirty-five home runs for the Braves next year. If New York had a man like that, it wouldn't be making a deal at all.

Pitt Will Meet Tech For Finale

Two Pittsburgh Teams Will Battle In Stadium On Thanksgiving Day

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 23—Coach Jock Sutherland's Panthers of the University of Pittsburgh will wind up the so far highly successful football year of 1934 when they meet the scrappy clan of Tartans of Carnegie Institute of Technology from across Panther Hollow in the Stadium on Thanksgiving Day.

During the year the Pitts have met some of the greatest names in football the sections of the country can boast, from one of the best on the Pacific coast to the cream of the Atlantic Seaboard. Those Panthers gave the great Juggernaut that is Minnesota its hardest game, and went down before them to the close score of 13-7; they riddled the champion Nebraska team of the Big Six Conference; and sunk the best Navy team of many a year, the best that the East could offer, to the tune of 31-7.

Carnegie Tech, on the other hand, has had, until recently, one of its most disappointing seasons. They have been badly beaten by Temple and Notre Dame; they had a difficult time with Geneva and New York University. But they have offset these losses by the splendid way in which they handed the high-scoring Night Riders of Duquesne University a narrow, but satisfying 3-0 defeat.

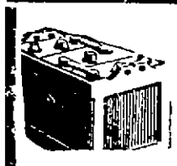

To hand Pittsburgh a defeat in the same manner would make their season a highly successful one, and for those Tartans to pull the same kind of a surprise and give the powerful Panthers a beating is not at all improbable to thinking.

In this year of upsets all over the country, stranger things have happened only so long ago as last Saturday, when the Yale Bulldog supposedly fighting a hopeless fight, sent the unbeaten Princeton Tigers down on the short end of a 7-0 score.

There is no doubt but that the same thing could easily happen to the Panthers next Thanksgiving Day.

Heller Thinks Geneva-Titans Will Be Tied

Says Lafayette And Lehigh Will Also Battle To Deadlock, Dukes Favored

SLIPPERY ROCK AT BLOOMSBURG

By WARREN "FATS" HELLER
(All American Halfback In 1932)
International News Service Sports Writer
(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Duty brings me here for the coming professional football title game, but whether in New York or any other place my interest remains with the collegiate elevens of my home state. With this point in mind, I shall attempt another analysis of the Saturday schedule for Pennsylvania even though it be amid foreign surroundings.

Many teams will be seen in farewell games for the 1934 season during the week-end while others, including Pitt, Carnegie Tech and a number of additional schools, wait until Thanksgiving day to wind up the season. To me, the past season has been one of the most surprising in recent times and tomorrow may add further to the many upsets.

Rivals To Meet

Lafayette and Lehigh, long-standing rivals in the eastern part of the state, battle again with all the "fight" at their command. It looks like they are evenly matched this year. Breaks will probably decide this game, but I kind of like Fafayette a little.

The Nittany Lions of Penn State are back on their legs now and should come through with a victory over Bucknell in what looks like a grand battle.

Unless Duquesne has remedied the injuries to several of the Dukes which figured in that team being held scoreless last week by Carnegie Tech, their chances against Catholic University at Pittsburgh will be much harder.

Temple-Villa Nova

"Pop" Warner and Harry Stuhldreher aren't saying much, but that does not mean they are not giving a lot of thought to the Temple-Villanova game. The schools are old rivals and past encounters make it difficult to pick a winner. I'll take the Owls, however, on a close score.

West Chester Teachers, runners-up in the State Teachers Conference in Pennsylvania, take on West State Teachers at Kalamazoo, with the Keystone state eleven my favorite. I think Lock Haven Teachers will go down to defeat when they meet Shippensburg Teachers.

Here is a good game in the western part of the state. Geneva meets Westminster and if I'm not mistaken it shapes up as a tie. Westminster has the better record, but the Convenanters are about due to "strike."

A hard scrap is looking the Waynesburg Yellow Jackets straight in the face as they prepare for Muskingum. The Ohioans boast a strong club but the Jackets play best when the opposition is toughest and, on this basis, the nod goes to the locals.

Followers of the Teachers' race are in store for another interesting tangle at Bloomsburg when Slippery Rock Teachers and Bloomsburg lock horns.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Art Lasky and Kingfish Levinsky are scheduled to battle 10 rounds tonight at Chicago.

Guy Bush, Babe Herman and Jim Weaver, obtained from the Cubs through a deal, have expressed their pleasure of having been secured to wear a Pirate uniform next season, according to messages received in Pittsburgh. Freddy Lindstrom and Larry French will go to the Cubs.

Tomorrow, dozens of cold faced alarm clocks will send us dozens of customers.

An hour after they ring . . . our cash register will start.

50c out of $1 for warm woolen hose.

$1.50 out of $5 for cozier underwear.

$3.50 out of $10 for a sweater to wear at the office.

And it won't be over fifteen minutes until those two young men looking at Overcoats will be pulling out check books and asking for fountain pens.

Everything for cold day whether it's 20 above zero or 20 below.

O'coats $21.50 to $35.00.

Judges Detriment To Boxing Game

President Of National Boxing Association Talks Against Judges At Ringside

(International News Service)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 23.—Judges at professional boxing shows are "not only superfluous, but a detriment in every way," and should be entirely eliminated, Edward C. Foster, president of one national boxing association, said today.

The observation of the N. B. A. head came following his trip to New York where he witnessed the fight between Maxie Rosenbloom and Olin.

Foster, declaring he had personally established the untruth of reports that "Slapsie Maxie" Rosenbloom and Bob Olin had been stablemates, announced that it would be wise for the association to recognize Olin as the light heavyweight champion in view of his decision victory.

Regarding the contest between Sammy Fuller of Boston, and Young Peter Jackson, President Foster said it was "a most terrible decision as Jackson was outclassed and outpunched and beaten all through the ten rounds badly." Jackson had received the decision in that fight.

County League Banquet Success

More Than Three Score Players Turn Out To Baseball Event At Elks

ATTORNEY MUSE DELIVERS TALK

Approximately 75 persons attended the banquet of the Lawrence County Baseball league held last night at the Elks club. It was one of the most successful fetes held by baseball men here in years.

Alec Samuels, president, was master of ceremonies, Vice President W. G. Andrews was toastmaster and Attorney George W. Muse delivered another of his inimitable addresses.

It developed during the session that the Italian A. A. will have a team in the Lawrence loop next season. Centennial field is to be put in good condition and they anticipate a fast team.

During the evening it was suggested by Vice President Andrews that from time to time the players hold a "smoker" and indications are next season will get away with a bang.

During his introductory remarks President Samuels paid high tribute to his colleague, Vice President Andrews, now 65, who has been engaged in baseball ever since he wore knee pants.

He also thanked the players for their cooperation with the officials and also The News for its coporation. He said that these two factors had helped make the league one of the most successful circuits hereabouts.

Vice President Andrews also stressed the point that not one protest had been placed before Mayor Mayne, Councilman Alexander and Ed. Fritz of The News.

He said the play this season had been faster than in preceding years and said that perhaps no protests had been made for fear that the Mayor might administer castor oil treatment to the guilty parties.

Mayor Recites Umpiring Days

He introduced Mayor Chas. B. Mayne, who in his day was one of the best umpires in this section. The mayor told of umpiring games in which Rube Waddell and other noted players of yesteryear participated.

The mayor also recited incidents of other games here one especially when he wore a six shooter strapped to his hip and this evidence resulted in the games going off without the umpire being chased from the field.

Councilman Alexander said that he was glad there were no protests necessary and promised his cooperation to the ball players. As director of parks he now is engaged in a cooperative plan to have athletic fields improved.

Ed. Fritz one of the organizers of the league in 1923 and who has served almost continuously as a commissioner explained the value of publicity to any undertaking and declared without it nothing can be so successful as with it.

Charlie Walthers, member of The News sports staff was called upon and explained how softball came to be originated here. Walters promised to do whatever he can to help the County league along.

Jack Gerson, a guest, was present and he said he was surprised at the number present, the fast baseball they played and said he was glad to have presented trophies to the two leading batters. The businessman further said that when next season arrives the winning team can expect to win the Gerson cup. He said that he plans to donate one of the most beautiful cups obtainable for a winning trophy.

During the evening Copple Bros. orchestra played several selections and Mike Turco rendered several numbers.

Athletics Essential

Attorney George Muse was introduced by Toastmaster Andrews as the principal speaker of the evening and as usual Mr. Muse had the boys rollicking in laughter one minute and as sober as judges the next minute. It was a typical Muse talk interspersing many fine remarks about baseball with a dash of humor.

Among the highlights of the Muse speech were the following idea: A nation without sports is not a strong nation, he cited the Chinese for example the Chinese do not participate in any kind of sports whatsoever.

Muse said that in baseball it was playing the game together that counted and that cooperation and coordination counted the most. He said that baseball creates ambition, and the ambitious young man is the leader of today.

"Baseball trains men to play the game fair and square and is excellent training for later years when the young man faces the business and political world. Mr. Muse also spoke of the thrills of baseball as numerous and one of the grandest thrills of all is the home run. Baseball develops a sense of fairness not found in any other sport. The game is faster and more scientific than it used to be many years ago. The game teaches "fair play which is the greatest thing in life. Mr. Muse finished his most excellent talk with a touch of emotion by citing a poem "Hello".

Toastmaster Andrews called upon representatives of the various teams to talk, among these being Nick Cangey of the Mahoning A. A.; Tony Onicka of West Pittsburg, Billy Pepe of Hillsville, and Jim Martin of Bessemer.

Parks Speaks

"Jake" Vessella, secretary of the league was called upon for a few remarks. Others called upon who responded with short but interesting talks were, Eddie "Lefty" Parks, one of the old time ball players of New Castle, who is still active as an umpire. Mr. Parks gave a very humorous talk and received a big hand. Mr. Irwin an umpire also was called upon to speak. Tony Sacco, a representative of the Italian A. A. was called upon for a few words.

President Alec Samuels was called upon to present the beautiful pennant to the Bessemer manager, Jim Martin and also to present the wrist watches offered by Jack Gerson to the leading batters of both Bessemer and West Pittsburg in the "World's Series" at the end of the year. The watches went to Francis Craycraft, of Bessemer, and Joe Braykovich, of West Pittsburg.

It was announced that Ellwood City and possibly the Italian A. A. of New Castle would join the league next year.

As a fitting tribute to the late Patsy Colucci of Hillsville, the entire assembledge arose and stood with bowed heads for one minute. Just before the banquet ended it was announced that a smoker would be held in February.

ARMY-NOTRE DAME HOLD SPOTLIGHT FOR GRID WORLD

Yale reached its peak last week while Harvard is just reaching its true form.

Syracuse's power house probably will be 2 to 1 over Columbia but I'm taking the latter's guile and smartness to overcome the brute strength of the Orangemen.

Princeton-Rutgers.

Over in Jersey, an aroused Princeton team, coming back off that unexpected beating by Yale, probably will slaughter a crippled Dartmouth team and Colgate's hocus-pocus laterals should be too much for a far from weak Rutgers bunch.

Down in Pennsylvania, Pop Warner's unbeaten Temple team should out-gallop Villanova after a stiff battle. Catholic university should have a slight edge on Duquesne and it would be no surprise if Penn State and Bucknell tied after a gruelling tussle.

Moving further south, Maryland appears too strong for Georgetown, Florida should outscore Georgia Tech, which ain't what she used to be, and Georgia should take Auburn without too much trouble.

In the southwest, Southern Methodist should take Baylor in stride, Oklahoma will have a tougher time with the Aggies from the same state, and Rice should find Texas Christian easy to handle.

Chicago Vs. Illinois.

Through the midwest I'll take Chicago to take Illinois on a hunch, Marquette to edge in against Detroit, Minnesota to continue unbeaten against Wisconsin, Purdue to slaughter Indiana, Ohio State to engulf Iowa, Michigan State to beat Kansas in a close one, Northwestern to get the duke over a sad Michigan outfit and I'll let the toss of a coin decide the Kansas State-Iowa State affair. Yep, Iowa State has it.

Heading for the coast, let's pick Colorado Aggies to trim Colorado college, and let's pause a moment to pray for poor Missouri against Nebraska (I shudder to think of what will happen to Missouri) and get right on to California and Stanford.

This one may furnish the day's big upset but off their records, one must string along with Rose Bowl conscious Stanford to stop a team that seems to know everything except how to win. The Uclans should overcome Oregon State and Washington may edge in against Washington State.

Of course, there are other games. For instance, Tougaloo and Okalona will come to death grips at Okalona (and if you want to know where Okalona is, why use your own map). In any event, I'll pick Tougaloo. I like that name.

Terry Offered Carl Hubbell To Pittsburgh

But Pirates Turned Offer And Took Guy Bush, Weaver And Herman Instead

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 23.—Not a great deal was left of the annual Minor League baseball meeting this morning except the debris and, I understand, Bill Terry, although I would have you know that I'm not associating the two. They have, in fact, only one thing in common, both will go to the cleaners, unless William is able to do something to offset the Pirate-Cub deal that was consummated in the midst of yesterday's bluster and uproar. That's why William is still here, while many of the footsore and covally exhausted gentlemen of the profession are hastening back whence they came.

If you asked them why they came, they'd give you the dog-eye and change the subject.

Offered Hubbell

Anyhow, William Terry is staying behind to complete his No. 2 deal, the number one having evaporated into thin air when Freddie Lindstrom went to the Cubs in that sweeping Pittsburgh-Chicago trade yesterday. With Fred went pitcher Larry French, a good left-hander. Coming the other way were pitcher Guy Bush, pitcher Jim Weaver and outfielder Babe Herman and it was all a source of great distress to Mr. Terry. He wanted Fred as his 1935 centerfielder.

He wanted him so badly that he offered Carl Hubbell, a great left-hand pitcher, for Lindstrom and French, thinking to stop the Chicago deal and, at the same time, get the right-hand hitting outfielder he seeks but everything went wire-haired and today Mr. Terry is remaining behind the parade, where only a few hours ago he hoped to be well on his way back to Memphis. He told me last night that he was staying over to complete deal No. 2. Just what that is only two people know. The other man, I suspect, is Santa Claus.

Wants Chick Hafey

Terry was seen very much in the company of Charley Dressen, Cincinnati manager, during the meeting. The inference is and was that a deal for Chick Hafey, Cincinnati outfielder, might be the outcome. If so, it is my privilege to doubt that Hubbell would be used. If the deal he told me about last night develops, it might be for Walter Berger, of the Braves. If so, it may be a very involved transaction and Hubbell may figure. I have been tipped that Dutch Brandt, star Boston left-hander, must leave the Braves before the start of another season. In any case, all I know is that if Hubbell goes, the Giants must get a good left-hander to replace him.

There was some mention of Hal Lee, Boston outfielder, in the talk around Terry's table last night but William himself smiled in a knowing way when Lee's name came up and Dressen openly snickered. It didn't seem possible, in fact, that a Boston-New York deal could be closed without Berger figuring in it. The only difficulty was for New York to furnish a replacement who will hit thirty-five home runs for the Braves next year. If New York had a man like that, it wouldn't be making a deal at all.

Buried Ruins Of Aztec City Discovered In Wilderness

(International News Service)

DOUGLAS, Ariz.—Discovery of an ancient city of luxury, a Babylon which is believed to have been the northernmost outpost of the Aztec civilization, was reported here by Dr. Eduardo Villa, noted archaeologist of Mazatlan, Mexico.

He and a party of seven other scientists explored the ruins recently in the Uaqui Indian country, south of Mermosillo, Sonora.

Buried partly beneath several feet of dirt, which the winds of three centuries had swept over the crumbling walls, the city was found in a veritable jungle wilderness where few white men had penetrated. It stretches for one mile in width and more than two miles in length, and is estimated by Dr. Villa to have housed some 15,000 Indians about the time Cortez was laying seige to Montezuma's metropolis.

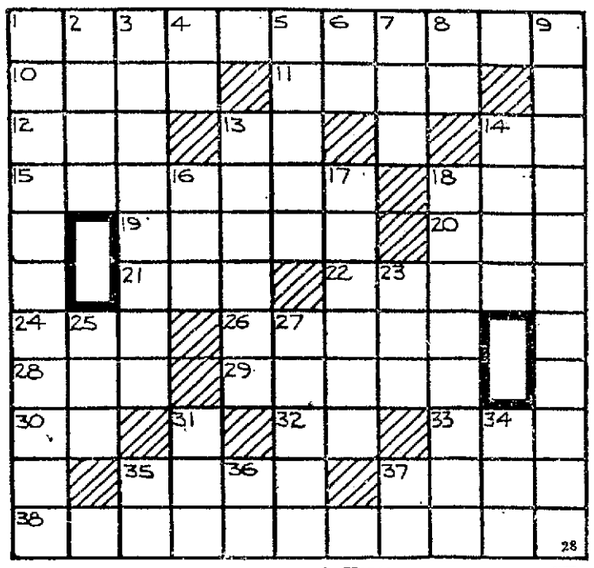

A great aqueduct rivaling those of the Romans, carried water from the Maya river several miles distant. Since it was constructed similar to those about Mexico City, it is believed that the town was an Aztec barrier against the nomadic savages from Arizona and New Mexico.

High on the bluff of a mountain which overlooks the ancient city, the savants stumbled across a great sacrificial platform of stone. Near the center was a rock couch where the victim lay while a fanatic priest plunged a knife of flint into the heart.

"The pagan ceremonies probably were held at twilight," Dr. Villa said. "It is easy to picture the ghostly scene as scores held torchlights aloft, marching from the town below, dragging along the human scarifices, men and women taken in battle. Once on the platform, the priest undoubtedly intoned long rituals while the victims quivered at the thought that death would soon follow. Then while the mob of religious zealots burst into mad cries, their voices screaming praises unto their gods, hearts would be torn viciously from the naked chests.

A burial ground, in which hammered and gold ornaments were found, has been partly excavated. The remains of hammocks, copper mugs and costumes of animal skins, gave evidence of a life of ease.

Industrials In Good Demand

Irregularity Dominates Stock Market, However, In Morning

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Irregularity again dominated the stock market as the industrials continued to point higher, while rails and utility shares were inclined to lag.

In the industrial group the old time pivotal leaders including United States Steel, American Can and Bethlehem were in good demand from the opening and worked higher.

Automobile stocks also were taken in fair volume during the first hour with Chrysler advancing about a point while General Motors scored a smaller gain.

Farm implements particularly Deere & Co., were strong and fractionally higher. International Harvester seemed to be meeting with some profit taking, however.

In contrast to the strength in these divisions there was a moderately heavy tone as the leaders including Atchison, New York Central, Southern Railway and several of the lower priced issues showed stubborn resistance to the advance.

Profit taking seemed to be coming into the utilities where American Telephone quickly yielded a small gain scored at the opening. Consolidated Gas and other power and light shares just about held their own.

Tobaccos were strong with Liggett & Myers reaching a new high for the year. Oils, chemicals and specialties worked moderately higher.

Dr. Robert Koch

Outdoor instruction for tuberculosis patients.

At school in sanitarium.

ONE OF THE greatest contributions made to society by medical science was that of Dr. Robert Koch, a German physician and bacteriologist, famous throughout the world during the latter part of the eighteenth century and the early years of the nineteenth. Dr. Koch is credited with isolating the tubercle bacillus, which paved the way for treatment and cure of tuberculosis. The scientist made his important discovery in 1822 after months of tireless effort. To do so, it was necessary to invent new appliances for microscopial work, and new methods of staining specimens to make the microorganisms visible. His advances in bacteriology have been regarded of inestimable value to medical science in all countries.

Industrials In Good Demand

Irregularity Dominates Stock Market, However, In Morning

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Irregularity again dominated the stock market as the industrials continued to point higher, while rails and utility shares were inclined to lag.

In the industrial group the old time pivotal leaders including United States Steel, American Can and Bethlehem were in good demand from the opening and worked higher.

Automobile stocks also were taken in fair volume during the first hour with Chrysler advancing about a point while General Motors scored a smaller gain.

Farm implements particularly Deere & Co., were strong and fractionally higher. International Harvester seemed to be meeting with some profit taking, however.

In contrast to the strength in these divisions there was a moderately heavy tone as the leaders including Atchison, New York Central, Southern Railway and several of the lower priced issues showed stubborn resistance to the advance.

Profit taking seemed to be coming into the utilities where American Telephone quickly yielded a small gain scored at the opening. Consolidated Gas and other power and light shares just about held their own.

Tobaccos were strong with Liggett & Myers reaching a new high for the year. Oils, chemicals and specialties worked moderately higher.

Dr. Robert Koch

Outdoor instruction for tuberculosis patients.

At school in sanitarium.

ONE OF THE greatest contributions made to society by medical science was that of Dr. Robert Koch, a German physician and bacteriologist, famous throughout the world during the latter part of the eighteenth century and the early years of the nineteenth. Dr. Koch is credited with isolating the tubercle bacillus, which paved the way for treatment and cure of tuberculosis. The scientist made his important discovery in 1822 after months of tireless effort. To do so, it was necessary to invent new appliances for microscopial work, and new methods of staining specimens to make the micro-organisms visible. Cuttings for house plants made from plants growing out in the garden should be made early, so that they will have time to root and become well established before it is time to bring them into the house. This should be done before it is necessary to close the windows and start the heat. If brought into a house where the temperature and humidity are different from the conditions it has been used to, the plant is likely to suffer a shock and lose all its leaves. If it can be accustomed to these conditions gradually, no check will take place.

P.R.R. Veterans Stage Reunion Here Tomorrow

E. & A. Old-Timers Coming For 14th Annual Reunion — Dine At Noon

PROGRAM COMES AFTER BANQUET

Four former superintendents of the Erie & Ashtabula division of the Pennsylvania railroad, now officials elsewhere, are expected to join the veteran railroaders of the division when they gather at The Castleton on Saturday for their 14th annual reunion.

A turkey dinner, scheduled to be served promptly at 12:30, will open the afternoon's festivities. Following dinner will come a program of speeches and entertainment, with Attorney Robert L. Wallace delivering the principal address of the day. His subject will be "Our Honorable Calling". W. A. Hofmeister of Ashtabula, O., will be the master of ceremonies.

The railroad vets, all with 20 or more years of company service to their credit, will pause during the afternoon to honor at memorial exercises the 19 members who have died during the past year.

It was on June 16, 1921, that the E. & A. Veterans' association was formed, and Secretary A. E. Stahl, secretary of the organization since its founding, will tomorrow commence his 14th year in that post.

Serving as chairman of the reunion committee this year is L. C. Gleason, assisted by C. M. Frost, the organization's president; R. E. O'Donnell, W. A. Glasser, C. P. Sipe, C. J. Callahan, J. C. McMichael, W. T. Weschler, S. E. Park and A. E Stahl.

On the rolls of the association, Secretary Stahl announced today, are listed 867 members.

Expected to return to New Castle tomorrow for the dinner will be W. M. Wardrop, assistant to the general manager of the Central region, Pittsburgh; C. W. Van Nort, superintendent of freight transportation for the Central region, Pittsburgh; E. S. Reed, superintendent of passenger transportation for the Central region, Pittsburgh, and H. T. Frushour, superintendent of the Eastern division, Pittsburgh. Norman M. Lawrence, newly appointed superintendent of the E. & A., will also be present to meet for the first time the old timers of the division he now heads.

Mrs. Edward Frey, Miller avenue, R. F. D. 1, received injuries to her neck at 12:35 a. m., at Croton avenue and East Washington street when an auto which her husband was driving was struck by a car bearing Pennsylvania license plates 9164Y, according to the report made by Frey to the city police. Transport Pilot Lands Safely As Big Motor Stops Pilot Beinsdorf Glides Plane About 20 Miles To Landing At Brookville, Pa.

(International News Service)

BROOKVILLE, Pa., Nov. 23.—A simple log notation that his passengers and mail had been transferred to another plane and taken safely on their journey was the only official record today of Pilot C. R. Beinsdorf's forced landing with his United Air Line transport plane.

A motor failed at an altitude of 8,000 feet, and unable to land near DuBois, Beindsdorf guided his ship in an extended glide for 20 miles coming to a perfect landing at the local airport.

Passengers and mail were transferred to another plane and sent on to Cleveland. The ship was enroute from New York.

PANCAKE RODEO

That famed "pancake rodeo" sponsored by the local Rotary Club will be held this year on December 10 according to announcement today by E. M. Newton, president of the organization.

As has been the custom in past years, the affair will be held in the United Presbyterian church with the ladies of that congregation scheduled to uphold their reputation as being the best pancake bakers in the district.

PRESENT LECTURE

James Killip, of Philadelphia president of the Young People's branch of the W. C. T. U. held the interest of a crowded house at Community Hall last night when he gave a stereoptican lecture under the auspices of the local W. C. T. U. chapter.

RELIEF WORK

Following the approval of FERA construction project in the borough by council at its special meeting last week, the application was filed by Solicitor T. V. Mansell on Monday and work is expected to begin the earlier part of December if the state badge of approval is secured.

Council voted at its special session to spend not more than $300 for materials for the project after officials from the Lawrence County relief office requested the local officials to aid their program by submitting some work.

The project for which application was made consists of several improvements in the ravine at the swimming pool. The proposed improvements are: Straightening, deepening and widening of McClure Run and rip-rapping the sides to prevent damage at flood times; grading and leveling the section around the swimming pool; relocation of the scout club house.

FIREMEN BANQUET

The spacious fire hall was enlivened by a spirit of camaraderie last night, when the losers in a recent game hunt showed their sporting blood by feting the members of the winning group at a delightful chicken dinner last night.

Roast chicken, done as only a male chef can prepare, was cooked, served and dispensed to the members of the team captained by Earl Black in the game hunt last Saturday, at which time "Bus" Wilson carried off all honors and has been appropriately named "Captain of the Hunt." Various side dishes, all tempting and delicious, combined with the chicken, appeased even the heartiest appetite.

The losing team was led by Dan McQuiston. Chairman of the banquet committee was Squire J. J. Francis.

WESTMINSTER AND GENEVA CLASH SATURDAY

Both Teams In Final Contest

Game To Be Played At New Wilmington — See Close Battle

TWELVE PLAYERS IN LAST APPEARANCE

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 23.—Westminster and Geneva end their 1934 football seasons here tomorrow in a contest which, from all indications, should be a close one, perhaps a tie game, or, what would not be at all surprising, a free-scoring event.

The Titans have three wins, a tie, and five defeats in nine starts, while the Covenanters have one win, two ties, and five defeats. There is little to choose from in the comparative scores, and the only indication of strength is that Geneva has played better ball against outstanding opposition.

Twelve In Final Game

Six Westminster players and six Geneva players will be ending their grid careers in the contest. The Geneva players are almost all certain to start, while the six Titan seniors will also be in the starting lineup.

Westminster has not defeated Geneva since 1929. That year with Dike Beede, present Geneva coach, in charge of the Titans they won 21-0 at Beaver Falls. The 1930 game was won by Geneva 7-0; the 1931 contest, 18-0; and the 1932 and 1933 games by 19-0 and 20-0 scores.

If Coaches Bill and Tom Gilbane can have all players ready for the contest, Westminster fans expect that they can be on equal terms with the Covenanters. The return to the squad of Bill Staples at fullback and Walt Young at guard is expected to bolster the United Presbyterian attack.

Expect Large Crowd

Westminster officials are making preparations to handle a large crowd for the contest. One hundred and fifty or more Geneva students and the Geneva College band will be on hand for the event. Westminster's 40-piece band, directed by Professor Donald Cameron, will appear in new uniforms at the game. Two high school groups will be guests of the Titans at the game.

Coach Dike Beede of Geneva will probably start Garda, R. Jones, C. Johnson, and Perricelli in the backfield. While all four of these men are good backs, Johnson is the man the Titans will have to watch closely. The Titan backfield will probably include Staples at full, Sweeney at left half, Laraway at right half, and Arrowsmith at quarter.

The Covenanters will wear red jersies, while the Titans will have royal blue. The contest is scheduled to start at 2:30.

Lineups:

Penn State To Battle Bucknell

Four State Regulars Including Capt. Morrison Play Final Game Saturday

MORRISON

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 23 — An old gridiron rivalry, the cause of many bitter battles in the past, will be renewed tomorrow afternoon in Memorial Stadium, Lewisburg, when Penn State and Bucknell clash at 2 o'clock. The Nittany Lions are playing their final game of the 1934 campaign, and Bucknell will be making its last home appearance.

Penn State will probably enter the game with the strongest lineup it as yet been able to place on the field. A few players who received slight injuries, notably Art Fry and Frank Smith, the ends, have rested this week and will be eager to get into action tomorrow. The Lions, who have won four of their seven games this season, will be striving to finish the season above the .500 mark.

Four of State's regulars will be playing their last game under Blue and White colors. They are Captain Merrill Morrison, left halfback; Harry Sigel, right halfback; Shortly Mikelonis, quarterback and Lou Kreizman, right guard. Sigel and Morrison, fastest of the multitude of fleet backs on the Penn State squad, are expected to be at top form tomorrow. Sigel, whose specialty is running back kicks, has returned at least one kick-off back to midfield or better in every game this season.

SACRED HEARTS TO MEET

Sacred Hearts of the New Castle Church League will hold a practice session at the "Y" tonight, the final one before the opening of the league. The practice will start at 8:15 o'clock. The Sacred Hearts will be sponsored by the Keystone A. C. of this city, according to Rocco P. Vigilano.

THERE THEY GO!

In the first five games this year Syracuse averaged gains of 455 yards per game.

Army-Notre Dame Holds Spotlight For Grid World

Notre Dame Is Figured To Have Too Much Power For Army This Year

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—If old Joe Upset is still hanging around the collegiate gridirons this week, as he was last, the football prognosticators are in for another headache and the racketeers who operate those football pools will reap another harvest.

One of the latter gentry—a lad who has forsaken hijacking and rum running for the more artistic and aesthetic pursuit of the dollar thru pool operations—told me yesterday the Yale victory over Princeton alone was worth at least $15,000 to him last week.

And speaking of rackets reminds me that the ticket scalpers are asking $10 a copy for "choice seats behind the goal posts" for the Army-Notre Dame game and are getting all the sucker will stand for the Yale-Harvard and Columbia-Syracuse games.

Expect Big Crowd.

The Cadets and Irish may play to 70,000, the Elis and Johnnies already have an advance sale of 50,000 and the blue and orange representatives will turn them away. That's a sweet set-up for the specs.

On form, the Army-Notre Dame affair promises to be closer than the quills on a porcupine. It usually is. And a break usually decides their annual tussle. However, there's no use trying to hedge so I step right out on a limb and pick Notre Dame.

John Harvard figures to be taken by a Yale team that could outsmart Princeton but it will be no surprise to me if the Johnnies do to the Elis what the Elis did to the Tigers.

Change Starting Time Of Football Game Next Week

Faculty Manager Gardner Announces Thanksgiving Day Game Will Start At 2:15 P. M.

There has been a change of 15 minutes in the starting time of the football game for Thanksgiving Day at Taggart Stadium that brings New Castle and Turtle Creek together in a Class AA game. The time of the game is 2:15 p. m., instead of the usual 2:30 o'clock starting time.

Gardner is looking for a big crowd at the game. A section of 1,000 tickets has been sent to Turtle Creek and will more than likely meet a ready sale.

There is no advance in price for the Turkey Day battle. The same prices that have prevailed all year will be available to the fans.

In event of good weather one of the biggest crowds in the history of Taggart Stadium will no doubt witness the schoolboy battle.

Bessemer High Football Team Enjoys Banquet

Bessemer High 1934 County Class A Football Champions Dine On Turkey

Bessemer High School football team, county Class A champions for the second consecutive year, were guests last evening at a turkey dinner held in the Bessemer High School building, Coach J. K. Fredericks acted as toastmaster of the evening. A group of 60 young men, school board members, and faculty members were present.

Speeches were made by Gerald E. Nord, supervising principal of Bessemer High School, Frank Navarra, captain of the Bessemer High team, Dr. Frank Campbell, a member of the Bessemer School Board.

Thompson-Vincent Speak

Football Coach J. D. Thompson of Slippery Rock Teachers College and Track Coach Harry Vincent of Slippery Rock were introduced by Toastmaster Fredericks and responded with very fine talks on football and athletics.

The Bessemer team came in for a lot of praise from the speakers for having won the championship two years in a row. Fredericks had a rather green team this year, but managed to get cooperation and coordination from the youngsters. Bessemer High lost only one game on the tough program that was played.

Grovers File Title Claim

Five Victories, One Tie And One Defeat For Grove City Eleven This Year

GROVE CITY, Nov. 23.—Climaxing a successful season with a brilliant victory over Thiel in the final game, the Grove City College squad recorded five victories, with one tie and one defeat to file a definite claim for the district Class B championship. It was the third season under Coach Bill Amos, whose teams lost only one game in each of the last two seasons.

Paced by Verne Smith, star fullback who scored 88 points to place third in the nation's scorers, the Grovers rolled up 140 points to 21 for their opponents. Holbrook, Slippery Rock and Bethany were blanked in the early games before Allegheny caught the Crimson on a muddy field to surprise with a 6-0 victory. Then came a 2-2 deadlock with Westminster, a 40-0 victory over Morris-Harvey, and a 25-13 decision over Thiel. The surprise element in Grove City's only defeat is shown by the fact that Thiel defeated Allegheny, 30-0, before losing to the Grovers.

Individual Crimson scorers were Bernard Orris, who followed Smith with 24 points, Wilson with 12, Johns 8, Gross 6 and Tomko 2. The latter has played four years at end and never scored a touchdown, although he caught many a pass for long gains. Orris has had seven touchdowns called back during his career at Grove City.

Keystones Will Play Centennials

Keystone A. C. football team will play the strong Centennial A. C. at Centennial field Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, it was announced today.

This will be the fourth game of the year for the "Keys" and they hope to add another victory to the list. All of the Keystone players are asked to report at 1 o'clock at the club rooms. The "Keys" would like to meet the Croton Blues, Pearsen A. C. or Forest A. C. Thanksgiving Day.

City Floor Loop To Meet Saturday

Alec Samuels, president of the City Basketball league will have charge of the meeting called for 7:30 o'clock at the "Y" Saturday night. It is hoped that a fast City basketball league can be organized this year.

The following teams are asked to send representatives: Castleton, Tigers Club, Ne-Ca-Ro, National Pants, Gersons, Eintracht Society, Tin Mill, and any others who care to enter a team.

Students Selling Tickets For Game

High School Students Selling Reserved Seat Tickets For "Turkey Day" Game

New Castle high school students are selling tickets for the New Castle-Turtle Creek football game at Taggart stadium Thanksgiving Day.

The tickets sell for 50 cents per ticket and are reserved seats. There is a campaign on between the various classes at senior high to see which class can sell the most tickets for the final game.

A big student demonstration is planned for downtown New Castle next Wednesday evening. A big student parade headed by three bands, and a gigantic line of students, with yells and cheers as they start up East Washington street.

The parade will end at Taggart stadium where a gigantic bonfire will be lighted and speeches made by Coach Phil Bridenbaugh, Captain Walter Raskowski, Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner and others.

Pirates Trade Lindstrom And French To Cubs

Pirates Get Guy Bush, Jim Weaver And Babe Herman For Two Star Players

(International News Service)

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 23.— Fred Lindstrom, outfielder, and Larry French, pitcher, were traded Thursday to the Chicago Cubs for three players. The Pirates get in exchange Jim Weaver and Guy Bush, pitchers, and Babe Herman, outfielder.

Manager Charlie Grimm of the Cubs immediately set out after the completion of this deal to obtain Fred Frankhouse, star hurler of the Boston Braves. He is ready, it was said, to give Boston Kiki Cuyler, Stan Hack and a considerable cash sum for Frankhouse.

Turtle Creek To Have Fast Team

Coach Ben Haldy Will Bring Turtle Creek High Here Thanksgiving Day

Turtle Creek High school football team will come to New Castle next Thursday afternoon, (Thanksgiving) for a Class AA conference battle with the "Red Hurricanes" of New Castle High school.

New Castle topped the Creekers last year at the Turtle Creek field in a classy exhibition of football, and for that reason the Haldymen would like to even up the score here.

Chance For Title

The "Red Hurricane" has a chance to play for the Class AA title if Turtle Creek is defeated. Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh is going to give the team a lot of hard work this week and Monday and Tuesday of next week.

This is one game that New Castle wants to win. The locals will shoot the works next Thursday with the strongest possible lineup. Fleming and Cox are being groomed for smashing off-tackle thrusts and big Alec Shellogg is hitting the center of the line harder than ever before. It is hoped that the injury to Fred Shellogg's leg will be healed enough to permit him to play against Turtle Creek. "New Castle will be in for a tough afternoon," according to Bill Klee who scouted Turtle Creek in their earlier games.

TOLANS AND RYANTOWN

Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Sampson street field, the Ryantown Juniors will play the Tolan A. C. football team. The Tolans are undefeated this year and a good game is expected.

Heller Thinks Geneva-Titans Will Be Tied

Says Lafayette And Lehigh Will Also Battle To Deadlock, Dukes Favored

SLIPPERY ROCK AT BLOOMSBURG

By WARREN "FATS" HELLER
(All American Halfback In 1932)
International News Service Sports Writer
(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Duty brings me here for the coming professional football title game, but whether in New York or any other place my interest remains with the collegiate elevens of my home state. With this point in mind, I shall attempt another analysis of the Saturday schedule for Pennsylvania even though it be amid foreign surroundings.

Many teams will be seen in farewell games for the 1934 season during the week-end while others, including Pitt, Carnegie Tech and a number of additional schools, wait until Thanksgiving day to wind up the season. To me, the past season has been one of the most surprising in recent times and tomorrow may add further to the many upsets.

Rivals To Meet

Lafayette and Lehigh, long-standing rivals in the eastern part of the state, battle again with all the "fight" at their command. It looks like they are evenly matched this year. Breaks will probably decide this game, but I kind of like Fafayette a little.

The Nittany Lions of Penn State are back on their legs now and should come through with a victory over Bucknell in what looks like a grand battle.

Unless Duquesne has remedied the injuries to several of the Dukes which figured in that team being held scoreless last week by Carnegie Tech, their chances against Catholic University at Pittsburgh will be much harder.

Temple-Villa Nova

"Pop" Warner and Harry Stuhldreher aren't saying much, but that does not mean they are not giving a lot of thought to the Temple-Villanova game. The schools are old rivals and past encounters make it difficult to pick a winner. I'll take the Owls, however, on a close score.

West Chester Teachers, runners-up in the State Teachers Conference in Pennsylvania, take on West State Teachers at Kalamazoo, with the Keystone state eleven my favorite. I think Lock Haven Teachers will go down to defeat when they meet Shippensburg Teachers.

Here is a good game in the western part of the state. Geneva meets Westminster and if I'm not mistaken it shapes up as a tie. Westminster has the better record, but the Covenanters are about due to "strike."

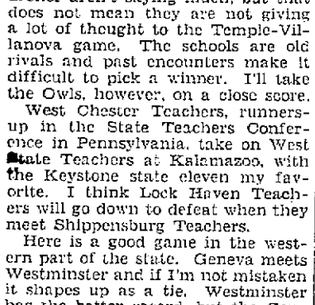

A hard scrap is looking the Waynesburg Yellow Jackets straight in the face as they prepare for Muskingum. The Onioans boast a strong club but the Jackets play best when the opposition is toughest and, on this basis, the nod goes to the locals.

Followers of the Teachers' race are in store for another interesting tangle at Bloomsburg when Slippery Rock Teachers and Bloomsburg lock horns.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Art Lasky and Kingfish Levinsky are scheduled to battle 10 rounds tonight at Chicago.

Guy Bush, Babe Herman and Jim Weaver, obtained from the Cubs through a deal, have expressed their pleasure of having been secured to wear a Pirate uniform next season, according to messages received in Pittsburgh. Freddy Lindstrom and Larry French will go to the Cubs.

Tomorrow, dozens of cold faced alarm clocks will send us dozens of customers.

An hour after they ring . . . our cash register will start.

50c out of $1 for warm woolen hose.

$1.50 out of $5 for cozier underwear.

$3.50 out of $10 for a sweater to wear at the office.

And it won't be over fifteen minutes until those two young men looking at Overcoats will be pulling out check books and asking for fountain pens.

Everything for cold day whether it's 20 above zero or 20 below.

O'coats $21.50 to $35.00.

Judges Detriment To Boxing Game

President Of National Boxing Association Talks Against Judges At Ringside

(International News Service)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 23.—Judges at professional boxing shows are "not only superfluous, but a detriment in every way," and should be entirely eliminated, Edward C. Foster, president of one national boxing association, said today.

The observation of the N. B. A. head came following his trip to New York where he witnessed the fight between Maxie Rosenbloom and Olin.

Foster, declaring he had personally established the untruth of reports that "Slapsie Maxie" Rosenbloom and Bob Olin had been stablemates, announced that it would be wise for the association to recognize Olin as the light heavyweight champion in view of his decision victory.

Regarding the contest between Sammy Fuller of Boston, and Young Peter Jackson, President Foster said it was "a most terrible decision as Jackson was outclassed and outpunched and beaten all through the ten rounds badly." Jackson had received the decision in that fight.

County League Banquet Success

More Than Three Score Players Turn Out To Baseball Event At Elks

ATTORNEY MUSE DELIVERS TALK

Approximately 75 persons attended the banquet of the Lawrence County Baseball league held last night at the Elks club. It was one of the most successful fetes held by baseball men here in years.

Alec Samuels, president, was master of ceremonies, Vice President W. G. Andrews was toastmaster and Attorney George W. Muse delivered another of his inimitable addresses.

It developed during the session that the Italian A. A. will have a team in the Lawrence loop next season. Centennial field is to be put in good condition and they anticipate a fast team.

During the evening it was suggested by Vice President Andrews that from time to time the players hold a "smoker" and indications are next season will get away with a bang.

During his introductory remarks President Samuels paid high tribute to his colleague, Vice President Andrews, now 65, who has been engaged in baseball ever since he wore knee pants.

He also thanked the players for their cooperation with the officials and also The News for its coporation. He said that these two factors had helped make the league one of the most successful circuits hereabouts.

Vice President Andrews also stressed the point that not one protest had been placed before Mayor Mayne, Councilman Alexander and Ed. Fritz of The News.

He said the play this season had been faster than in preceding years and said that perhaps no protests had been made for fear that the Mayor might administer castor oil treatment to the guilty parties.

Mayor Recites Umpiring Days

He introduced Mayor Chas. B. Mayne, who in his day was one of the best umpires in this section. The mayor told of umpiring games in which Rube Waddell and other noted players of yesteryear participated.

The mayor also recited incidents of other games here one especially when he wore a six shooter strapped to his hip and this evidence resulted in the games going off without the umpire being chased from the field.

Councilman Alexander said that he was glad there were no protests necessary and promised his cooperation to the ball players. As director of parks he now is engaged in a cooperative plan to have athletic fields improved.

Ed. Fritz one of the organizers of the league in 1923 and who has served almost continuously as a commissioner explained the value of publicity to any undertaking and declared without it nothing can be so successful as with it.

Charlie Walthers, member of The News sports staff was called upon and explained how softball came to be originated here. Walters promised to do whatever he can to help the County league along.

Jack Gerson, a guest, was present and he said he was surprised at the number present, the fast baseball they played and said he was glad to have presented trophies to the two leading batters. The businessman further said that when next season arrives the winning team can expect to win the Gerson cup. He said that he plans to donate one of the most beautiful cups obtainable for a winning trophy.

During the evening Copple Bros. orchestra played several selections and Mike Turco rendered several numbers.

Athletics Essential

Attorney George Muse was introduced by Toastmaster Andrews as the principal speaker of the evening and as usual Mr. Muse had the boys rollicking in laughter one minute and as sober as judges the next minute. It was a typical Muse talk interspersing many fine remarks about baseball with a dash of humor.

Among the highlights of the Muse speech were the following idea: A nation without sports is not a strong nation, he cited the Chinese for example the Chinese do not participate in any kind of sports whatsoever.

Muse said that in baseball it was playing the game together that counted and that cooperation and coordination counted the most. He said that baseball creates ambition, and the ambitious young man is the leader of today.

"Baseball trains men to play the game fair and square and is excellent training for later years when the young man faces the business and political world. Mr. Muse also spoke of the thrills of baseball as numerous and one of the grandest thrills of all is the home run. Baseball develops a sense of fairness not found in any other sport. The game is faster and more scientific than it used to be many years ago. The game teaches "fair play which is the greatest thing in life. Mr. Muse finished his most excellent talk with a touch of emotion by citing a poem "Hello".

Toastmaster Andrews called upon representatives of the various teams to talk, among these being Nick Cangey of the Mahoning A. A.; Tony Onicka of West Pittsburg, Billy Pepe of Hillsville, and Jim Martin of Bessemer.

Parks Speaks

"Jake" Vessella, secretary of the league was called upon for a few remarks. Others called upon who responded with short but interesting talks were, Eddie "Lefty" Parks, one of the old time ball players of New Castle, who is still active as an umpire, Mr. Parks gave a very humorous talk and received a big hand. Mr. Irwin an umpire also was called upon to speak. Tony Sacco, a representative of the Italian A. A. was called upon for a few words.

President Alec Samuels was called upon to present the beautiful pennant to the Bessemer manager, Jim Martin and also to present the wrist watches offered by Jack Gerson to the leading batters of both Bessemer and West Pittsburg in the "World's Series" at the end of the year. The watches went to Francis Craycraft, of Bessemer, and Joe Braykovich, of West Pittsburg.

It was announced that Ellwood City and possibly the Italian A. A. of New Castle would join the league next year.

As a fitting tribute to the late Patsy Colucci of Hillsville, the entire assembledge arose and stood with bowed heads for one minute. Just before the banquet ended it was announced that a smoker would be held in February.

ARMY-NOTRE DAME HOLD SPOTLIGHT FOR GRID WORLD

Yale reached its peak last week while Harvard is just reaching its true form.

Syracuse's power house probably will be 2 to 1 over Columbia but I'm taking the latter's guile and smartness to overcome the brute strength of the Orangemen.

Princeton-Rutgers.

Over in Jersey, an aroused Princeton team, coming back off that unexpected beating by Yale, probably will slaughter a crippled Dartmouth team and Colgate's hocus-pocus laterals should be too much for a far from weak Rutgers bunch.

Down in Pennsylvania, Pop Warner's unbeaten Temple team should out-gallop Villanova after a stiff battle. Catholic university should have a slight edge on Duquesne and it would be no surprise if Penn State and Bucknell tied after a gruelling tussle.

Moving further south, Maryland appears too strong for Georgetown, Florida should outscore Georgia Tech, which ain't what she used to be, and Georgia should take Auburn without too much trouble.

In the southwest, Southern Methodist should take Baylor in stride, Oklahoma will have a tougher time with the Aggies from the same state, and Rice should find Texas Christian easy to handle.

Chicago Vs. Illinois.

Through the midwest I'll take Chicago to take Illinois on a hunch, Marquette to edge in against Detroit, Minnesota to continue unbeaten against Wisconsin, Purdue to slaughter Indiana, Ohio State to engulf Iowa, Michigan State to beat Kansas in a close one, Northwestern to get the duke over a sad Michigan outfit and I'll let the toss of a coin decide the Kansas State-Iowa State affair. Yep, Iowa State has it.

Heading for the coast, let's pick Colorado Aggies to trim Colorado college, and let's pause a moment to pray for poor Missouri against Nebraska (I shudder to think of what will happen to Missouri) and get right on to California and Stanford.

This one may furnish the day's big upset but off their records, one must string along with Rose Bowl conscious Stanford to stop a team that seems to know everything except how to win. The Uclans should overcome Oregon State and Washington may edge in against Washington State.

Of course, there are other games. For instance, Tougaloo and Okalona will come to death grips at Okalona (and if you want to know where Okalona is, why use your own map). In any event, I'll pick Tougaloo. I like that name.

Terry Offered Carl Hubbell To Pittsburgh

But Pirates Turned Offer And Took Guy Bush, Weaver And Herman Instead

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 23.—Not a great deal was left of the annual Minor League baseball meeting this morning except the debris and, I understand, Bill Terry, although I would have you know that I'm not associating the two. They have, in fact, only one thing in common, both will go to the cleaners, unless William is able to do something to offset the Pirate-Cub deal that was consummated in the midst of yesterday's bluster and uproar. That's why William is still here, while many of the footsore and covally exhausted gentlemen of the profession are hastening back whence they came.

If you asked them why they came, they'd give you the dog-eye and change the subject.

Offered Hubbell

Anyhow, William Terry is staying behind to complete his No. 2 deal, the number one having evaporated into thin air when Freddie Lindstrom went to the Cubs in that sweeping Pittsburgh-Chicago trade yesterday. With Fred went pitcher Larry French, a good left-hander. Coming the other way were pitcher Guy Bush, pitcher Jim Weaver and outfielder Babe Herman and it was all a source of great distress to Mr. Terry. He wanted Fred as his 1935 centerfielder.

He wanted him so badly that he offered Carl Hubbell, a great left-hand pitcher, for Lindstrom and French, thinking to stop the Chicago deal and, at the same time, get the right-hand hitting outfielder he seeks but everything went wire-haired and today Mr. Terry is remaining behind the parade, where only a few hours ago he hoped to be well on his way back to Memphis. He told me last night that he was staying over to complete deal No. 3. Just what that is only two people know. The other man, I suspect, is Santa Claus.

Wants Chick Hafey

Terry was seen very much in the company of Charley Dressen, Cincinnati manager, during the meeting. The inference is and was that a deal for Chick Hafey, Cincinnati outfielder, might be the outcome. If so, it is my privilege to doubt that Hubbell would be used. If the deal he told me about last night develops, it might be for Walter Berger, of the Braves. If so, it may be a very involved transaction and Hubbell may figure. I have been tipped that Dutch Brandt, star Boston left-hander, must leave the Braves before the start of another season. In any case, all I know is that if Hubbell goes, the Giants must get a good left-hander to replace him.

There was some mention of Hal Lee, Boston outfielder, in the talk around Terry's table last night but William himself smiled in a knowing way when Lee's name came up and Dressen openly snickered. It didn't seem possible, in fact, that a Boston-New York deal could be closed without Berger figuring in it. The only difficulty was for New York to furnish a replacement who will hit thirty-five home runs for the Braves next year. If New York had a man like that, it wouldn't be making a deal at all.

Pitt Will Meet Tech For Finale

Two Pittsburgh Teams Will Battle In Stadium On Thanksgiving Day

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 23—Coach Jock Sutherland's Panthers of the University of Pittsburgh will wind up the so far highly successful football year of 1934 when they meet the scrappy clan of Tartans of Carnegie Institute of Technology from across Panther Hollow in the Stadium on Thanksgiving Day.

During the year the Pitts have met some of the greatest names in football the sections of the country can boast, from one of the best on the Pacific coast to the cream of the Atlantic Seaboard. Those Panthers gave the great Juggernaut that is Minnesota its hardest game, and went down before them to the close score of 13-7; they riddled the champion Nebraska team of the Big Six Conference; and sunk the best Navy team of many a year, the best that the East could offer, to the tune of 31-7.

Carnegie Tech, on the other hand, has had, until recently, one of its most disappointing seasons. They have been badly beaten by Temple and Notre Dame; they had a difficult time with Geneva and New York University. But they have offset these losses by the splendid way in which they handed the high-scoring Night Riders of Duquesne University a narrow, but satisfying 3-0 defeat.

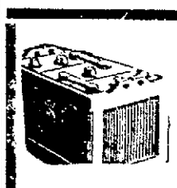

To hand Pittsburgh a defeat in the same manner would make their season a highly successful one, and for those Tartans to pull the same kind of a surprise and give the powerful Panthers a beating is not at all improbable to thinking.

In this year of upsets all over the country, stranger things have happened only so long ago as last Saturday, when the Yale Bulldog supposedly fighting a hopeless fight, sent the unbeaten Princeton Tigers down on the short end of a 7-0 score.

There is no doubt but that the same thing could easily happen to the Panthers next Thanksgiving Day.

Industrials In Good Demand

Irregularity Dominates Stock Market, However, In Morning

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Irregularity again dominated the stock market as the industrials continued to point higher, while rails and utility shares were inclined to lag.

In the industrial group the old time pivotal leaders including United States Steel, American Can and Bethlehem were in good demand from the opening and worked higher.

Automobile stocks also were taken in fair volume during the first hour with Chrysler advancing about a point while General Motors scored a smaller gain.

Farm implements particularly Deere & Co., were strong and fractionally higher. International Harvester seemed to be meeting with some profit taking, however.

In contrast to the strength in these divisions there was a moderately heavy tone as the leaders including Atchison, New York Central, Southern Railway and several of the lower priced issues showed stubborn resistance to the advance.

Profit taking seemed to be coming into the utilities where American Telephone quickly yielded a small gain scored at the opening. Consolidated Gas and other power and light shares just about held their own.

Tobaccos were strong with Liggett & Myers reaching a new high for the year. Oils, chemicals and specialties worked moderately higher.

TARANTO.—In this town on the "heel" of Italy lives the oldest woman in the country, Maria Montemurro. The record of her birth is in the commune of Palagiano near here; "Born of Cosimo Montemurro and Nunzia Saia on Sept. 20, 1825." She is looked after by a devoted daughter, who is over 80.

A piece of cheesecloth dipped in olive oil and vinegar makes an excellent polisher for furniture. A tiny bit of turpentine added cleanses as it polishes. Use only a few drops, two or three, as too much will remove the finish.

Booster City Dinner Great Success Here

Over 80 Local Business Leaders Take Part In Fine Event Thursday Evening

PITTSBURGH MAN IS CHIEF SPEAKER

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 23—At one of the most successful events of the season over 80 business leaders of this city participated in a Booster City dinner in the Trinity Lutheran church on Thursday evening, with the local Kiwanis Club as hosts on the occasion. The local Rotary, Business and Professional Women and Women's Clubs, and Chamber of Commerce were well represented.

A delicious dinner was served by the ladies of the church. J. J. McLaughlin presided as toastmaster and disposed of his duties in a humorous, capable, and veteran-like manner. He called upon the presidents of the various clubs for short talks. This included Dr. H. S. Gold, of the Kiwanis, J. I. Porter of the Rotary, Burgess Judd C. Turner of the Chamber of Commerce, Miss Louise Barton of the Business and Professional Women's Club and Mrs. W. L. Dean, of the Women's Club.

A local quartet composed of Robert Taylor, P. W. Blocher, William Janes, and William Blocher, delighted the turnout with some fine vocal selections.

Mr. McLaughlin then introduced the principal speaker of the evening, Don Howard, of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. All business men should have a willing and ready hand for all civic projects.

When Koch Isolated Tubercle Germ, Paving Way for Tuberculosis Cure

Dr. Robert Koch

Outdoor instruction for tuberculosis patients.

At school in sanitarium.

ONE OF THE greatest contributions made to society by medical science was that of Dr. Robert Koch, a German physician and bacteriologist, famous throughout the world during the latter part of the eighteenth century and the early years of the nineteenth. Dr. Koch is credited with isolating the tubercle bacillus, which paved the way for treatment and cure of tuberculosis. The scientist made his important discovery in 1822 after months of tireless effort. To do so, it was necessary to invent new appliances for microscopial work, and new methods of staining specimens to make the microorganisms visible. His advances in bacteriology have been regarded of inestimable value to medical science in all countries.
